At the end of summer training,

a new dawn arrives, The Academic Year.

The fall starts slowly with classes, formations, and parades.

Time trudges by as March-overs to game after game leads to Army/Navy.

Following final exams,

Christmas leave provides a break.

Second semester commences with service assignment right around the corner.

Moving past Platoon Drill & 100's Night, Spring Break is anticipated by all.

The last hurdles remaining are Spring

Intramurals, Parades, Sea Trials, and Finals.

As commissioning week passes, graduation sets at the end of the Academic Year.

PLEBE YEAR

It all began with I-Day- June 30, 1995. The Class of 1999 sweated its way through Plebe Summer learning all about teamwork, class loyalty, and the importance of care packages from home. Parent's Weekend did not arrive soon enough but we were glad when it finally did. Annapolis recorded one of its hottest summers in 50 years with the temperature reaching at least 90 degrees for three weeks straight. The monotony of Academic Year soon set in with the never ending tasks of laundry delivery, chow calls, and rate regurgitation. We experienced our first Army/ Navy game and shared in empty feelings of losing A record snowfall at the end of Christmas leave left most mids stranded at airports, home, and at their sponsors.

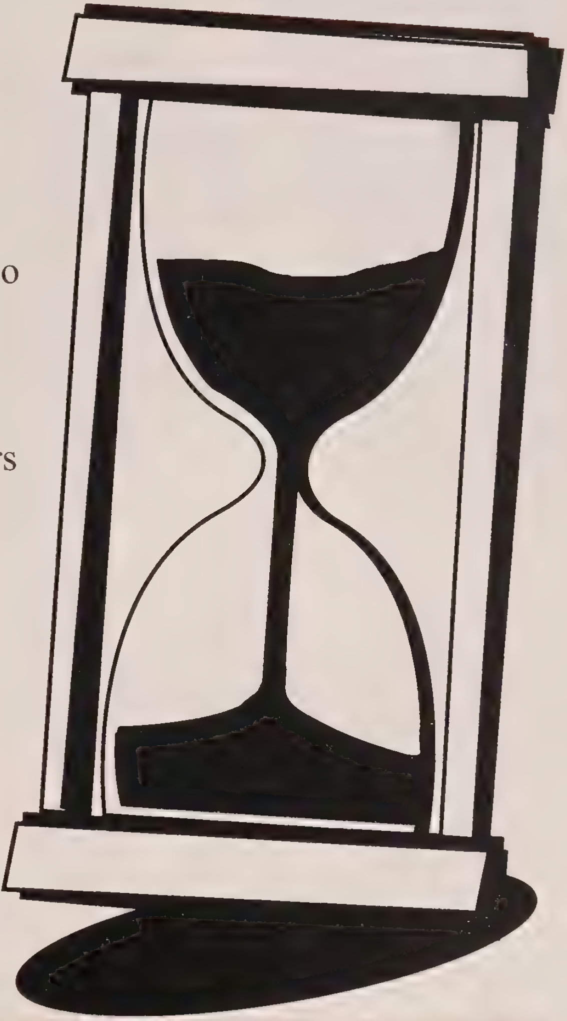
Class of 1999

Reform was pushed back fives days and we found ourselves taking eight classes a day to make up for it. But soon we got to be firsties during Hundred's Night and Commissioning Week was just around the corner. The long awaited culmination of Plebe Year, Herndon, finally arrived and we managed to cut Class of 98's time in half. We were Plebes no more and it was smooth sailing towards our various summer training schedules. Plebe year was long, but it was only the beginning of our four long, trying years at USNA.

YOUNGSTER YEAR

Class of 1999

We still didn't have civies or cars (legally any way) but we did have the all important carry on stripe. YP cruises, CSTS, NTT, and Summer Seminar gave us a chance to get used to being Youngsters and put just a little salt on our shoulders. During the Academic year, Wardroom rats emerged, computer game addicts burned the midnight oil, and all nighters were pulled, sometimes just in principle. It was also time for the Class of 99 to help "mentor" the Class of 2000 and help lead them in the right direction. The Army/Navy game was miserable on many levels, with torrential downpours and a last minute loss to our nemesis. All too soon we were ready to be 2/c and enjoy the privileges and responsibilities that came with the title.



SECOND CLASS YEAR

Finally, we could wear civilian clothes and drive cars (except on the yard) without fearing the man would find us and restrict us. Some of us did Plebe Summer Detail and welcomed the Class of 2001 to our fraternity. Others did NAPS Cadre and prepped the Class of 2002 for what they had to look forward to. We went into the real fleet for the first time on Grey Hull cruises and Submarines. The summers always end too quickly and Academic Year once again reared its monotonous head. The trainers emerged quickly while others just enjoyed the newfound freedoms. Majors courses became more difficult for engineers while Bull majors enjoyed liberty and logged wardroom time. We finally managed to win an Army/Navy game and end the losing streak. We watched our numbers dwindle as the Class of 99 became smaller and smaller and had Congress wondering why. Time kept passing and soon Ring Dance arrived. After a great weekend of festivities and ring dunking, we proudly wore our graduation rings while dreams of being firsties danced in our heads.

Class of 1999

FIRSTIE YEAR

Let the good times roll-we finally had civies, week day liberty, AND cars on the yard. But with everything here, there's a wrench thrown in the mix. The Academy definitely needed those street hockey courts and we were more than happy to meet the Academy's needs by parking our cars at Hospital Point or even the Naval Station. Or something like that. But we pressed on and learned to live with the new situation. Another loss at Army/Navy and everyone was ready for Christmas leave. Second semester it was hard to think about anything besides Graduation but that did not make it come any faster. Spring break was a needed diversion since most of us were unable to shake Senioritis. Commissioning week began the week long party leading up to the highlight of our time at the Academy-Graduation! The weather held out and the remaining 868 members of Class of 1999 threw their covers high in the air. We had spent four years together and now it was time to move on to basket leave, TAD assignments and eventually one of the respective warfare schools. It had been a difficult journey for most, filled with achievement, doubts, excitement, and triumph.

Class of 1999

The number of Mediterranean Sea cruises were increased and more midshipman found themselves in Europe on various surface or submarine platforms. San Diego, Pearl Harbor and Norfolk were also popular home ports. Second class spent four weeks with enlisted running mates learning about ship board operations from an enlisted perspective. They even wore dungarees to better blend in with ship's company. First class experienced life aboard a ship with junior officers as running mates. They learned about being a division officer and the qualifications needed to receive a Surface Warfare pin. The submarine community has been aggressively promoting undersea warfare and a near record amount of midshipmen experienced cruises underwater. "So where did you go?" they were asked. "Sorry, that's classified!" was a popular response among submarine mids. New experiences were had by all and each midshipman was left with a better understanding of the inner workings of the Surface Submarine Navy.

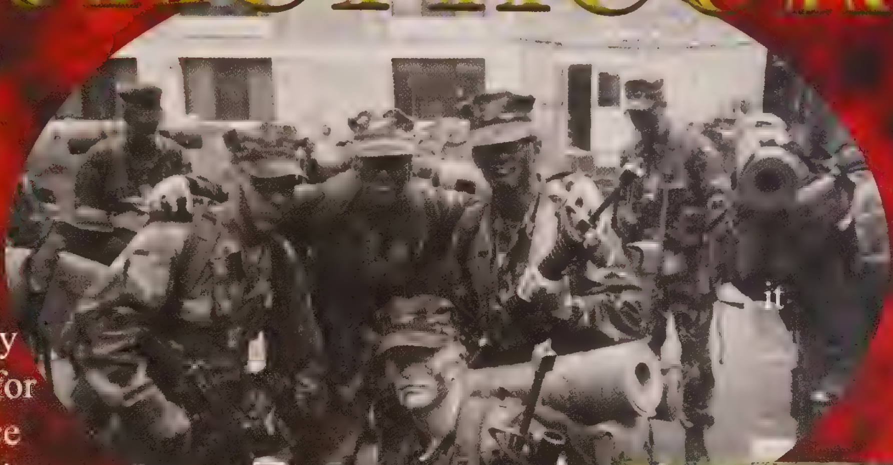
Leatherneck



For some, Leatherneck and FMF was their last chance to see the Marine Corps before deciding on a service preference. For others, it was the chance they had been waiting for for three years. The chance to be as close to being in the Corps as possible. The four week "mini-TBS" included time in the field, time on the range, experiencing the gas chamber, instruction of squad tactics and maneuverability, and classes on doctrine, history, and technique. Last but not least, was the three day war near the end of their stay in Quantico, VA. They were given the opportunity to apply their ability and knowledge conducting patrols, urban warfare and offensive-defensive combat.

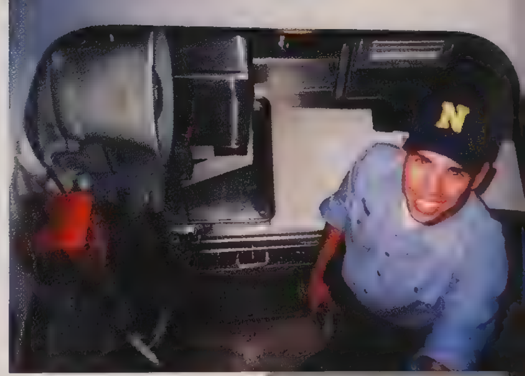
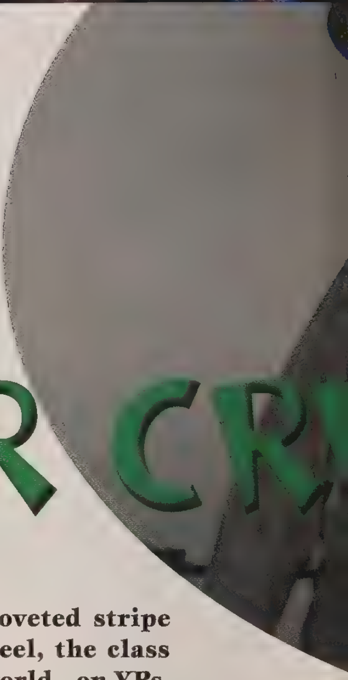
2/c S

Second class cruise introduced us to the "real" Navy. For the first time, we were on real Navy ships, working with real Navy personnel, and we were finally finding out what the "fleet" was really like. This year, we got to play enlisted, wearing dungarees on our grey-hulls or submarines. Some people stayed nearby, getting stationed in Norfolk, while others ventured to the West Coast to San Diego or Hawaii, and still others managed a coveted Mediterranean cruise and traveled to Poland or Spain. We soon became a sort of sub-section of the ship's company, often without any real job, but always with something to do. Some of our classmates spent the summer battling the new plebe detail regulations, and the rest spent three weeks at PROTRAMID. One week in sunny Pensacola, learning from those who ran the flight school. Another week at Kings Bay, Georgia may be the only time the females of '00 will get to spend a day on a submarine. The final week, spent at Quantico, VA let us all play Marine for a brief time.

mmer Cruise





YOUNGSTER CR

With the blessing of that coveted stripe and brandishing a whiz wheel, the class of '01 set off to conquer the world...on YPs. If we were serious about that conquering the world thing, we might want to do it with a few more spare parts, but we were successful in overrunning New York and Boston and extracting the most possible fun from each city. And even better....we saw the Chapel Dome on the way back, so now we can convince our plebes that we're salty. The rest of the summer was up for grabs. Some went the hoo-yah route of NTT, while others decided to risk life on the high seas with CSTS. A lucky few tried the tall ship Eagle or Old Ironsides herself, the USS Constitution. A select few tried "mini-detail" as Summer Seminar detailers. An even more carefully selected few spent the summer with the Chemistry department Special Forces detail drilling in the finer points of electrons and ethers.

ISE

Induction Day

Everyone remembers how important I-Day was to their lives, even if they don't remember the actual day. The hazy memories of random detailers and half-remembered oaths; the mysterious disappearance of hair; the overwhelming bags of strange clothes; they all mark the passage from being the hometown celebrity, revered for acceptance to a prestigious school, to a shouting, rushed, exhausted and constantly half-panicked being, barely recognizing yourself when you glance at the reflection in the mirror while brushing your teeth. The transformation started slowly, with a dismissal of parents and the pinning on of a name tag. As the lines snake through the halls of the vast and mysterious Alumni Hall, the slow feeling of dread and excitement set in, as the lines move faster, the upperclass seem shorter tempered and the pile of issued items grows. Soon it is all dumped in a room, all traces of civilian life gone, and only the Oath of Office and bidding one last farewell to parents bar the path to the first of many nights in Bancroft Hall in a midshipman's career.

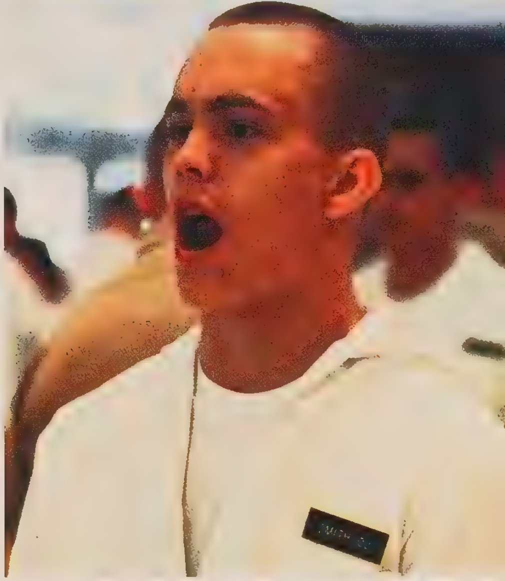
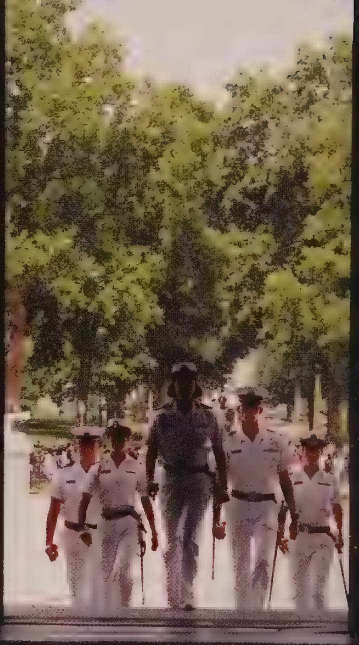
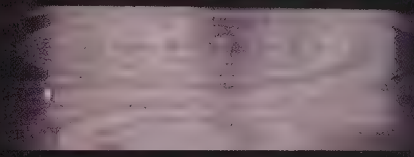
plebe summe

Plebe Summer was a six-week eternity of bleach, sweat and tears...wait! There's no crying during plebe summer! Even so, at times, the impossible schedule of PT, uniform races, rifle PT, briefs, and sailing added to the impossible demands of the detailers pushing the new plebes to their limits. Dressed in strange canvas pajamas called whiteworks and regulation PE gear, with socks pulled up high, plebes scatter throughout the yard, quickly learning the basics of military drill and tradition, swimming, sailing and other physical pursuits. Any time not spent in official evolutions is free game for the detailers, who teach the basics of midshipman-ship. The plebes learn rates, prepare for formations, learn to wear uniforms, learn more rates, and how to behave as a plebe is expected to behave during the academic year.

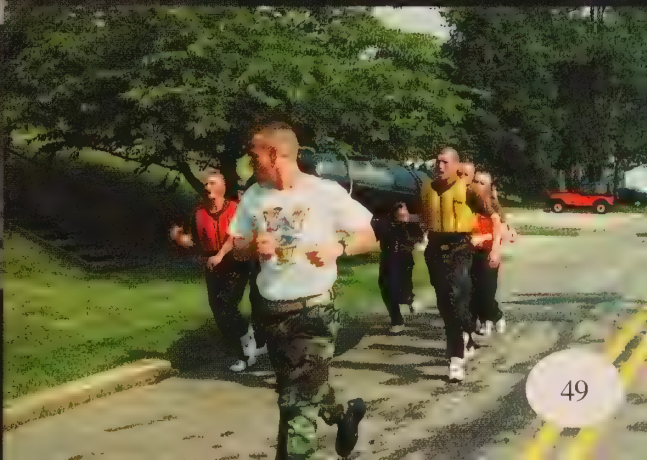






Plebe Detailers

The 1st and 2nd Class Detailers trade a week of their summer leave for the chance to train the new influx of plebes. After several months of PSEP, "a day of role reversal" and countless PRTs administered by CAPT Himes, USMC, the detailers were more than ready to don their detial shirts and transfer their intensive training (and frustrations!) to the plebes. Completely responsible for the lives of ten people, the squad leaders faced challenges he or she had possibly never considered over the previous two years. Firstie staffs were not only taxed with the training of their plebes, but also with maintaining morale among their fellow detailers. The mission was accomplished when the plebes successfully transitioned from mere civilians into hard charging midshipmen.



fourth class par

"We're outta here!" The relief and excitement was evident as the parade ended and the class of 2002 streamed off the field to their waiting parents. Mothers cried, fathers beamed, but the plebes had more important issues: Getting some real food! At their first chance away from the detailers, wearing their new summer white uniforms, most of the plebes felt more human than they had in weeks. There were opportunities for dinner in King Hall, sailing trips, and a chance for parents to see where their son or daughter had spent the last five weeks, but getting out of the hall was the biggest priority as the streets of Annapolis were sieged by rivers of white. For the first time since I-Day, plebes ate out in restaurants, saw movies, and often just slept in their parents' hotel rooms. For some, it would be the last time their parents would see Annapolis until their first class parents weekend. For all, it was a welcome break.

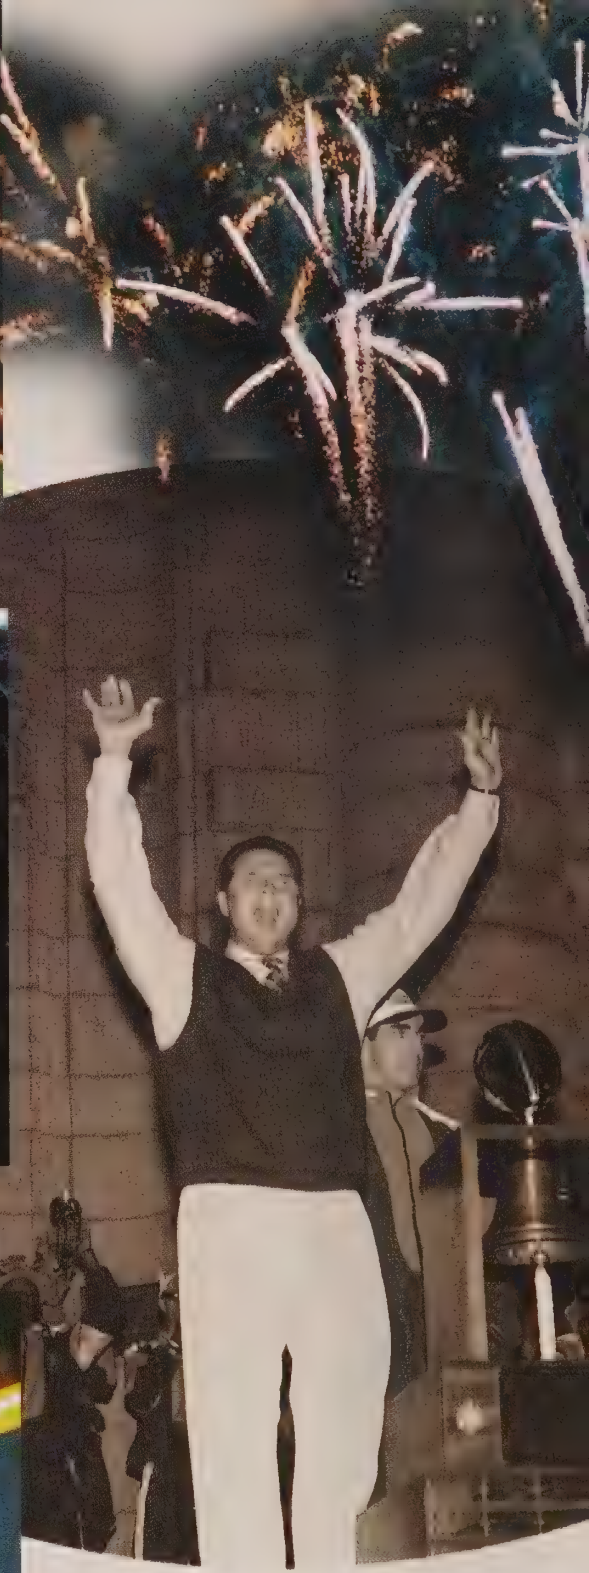
first class parents' wee

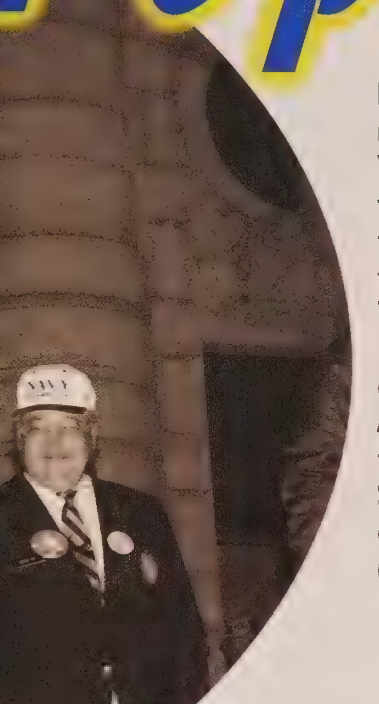
"HI MOM! HI DAD!" As the chant echoed through Tecumseh Court, parents broke out in appreciative smiles. To them, it seems like yesterday since they heard that during plebe summer. Their sons and daughters remember things a little differently, but none of that matters, since their last year is beginning. The parents eat in King Hall, attend classes with their middie, are honored at picnics, and attend the first home football game of the season. Some marvel at the changes in the yard that have taken place in the last three years, some marvel at the changes in their children that have taken place in the last three years. A Saturday morning visit to Bancroft Hall reveals the results of a class Alpha inspection and the revelation that the rooms now reveal more personality than they showed plebe year. The Midstore is packed with parents stocking up on souvenirs and gifts. At the end of the weekend, the parents sadly depart, some to be seen the next week, some gone until the holidays. Many will not return until graduation.



N

Pep Rallies

Pep rallies were shorter in length this year, but not short on spirit. We may not have had stripping O-6s, but no one will forget Coach Weatherbie's "Beat Army" underwear! The first pep rally on the City Dock showed the town of Annapolis that we were ready for the football season. Skits, music, the D&B and cheerleaders marked every attempt to raise spirit for the football games. The Air Force game brought the special Falcon Roast, with everyone's favorite chicken tenderloin meal in T-Court. Army Navy week brought on the traditional bonfire, the "Mule Stew" meal, and a pep rally complete with cookies and hot cocoa.



STATES NAVY

The brigade has been marching from Tecumseh Court to the Navy Marine Corps Memorial Stadium for years, but this is the first time we got a weekend for it. Candy catching was outlawed last year, but someone forgot to tell the public. Slam cadences have come and gone, gotten watered down, and strengthened. With a few changes, the once casual "wander overs" have straightened up into a military evolution worthy of the "old school." When we were awarded a weekend for our improvement, we knew we had made great strides in our public image.

RCH-OVERS

Tailgat

When the last note of Blue and Gold drifts into the air and the brigade makes one last pledge to Beat Army, liberty commences and it's time for the tailgaters! Company events allow the wardroom representatives to shine, and some of them take that opportunity for all it's worth. After the game it's a place to relax with your company mates, grab a burger or a hot dog, and discuss the game.

Some visit alumni tailgates, get together with other mids from their state for a parents' club tailgate, or attend one of the ECA tailgates. Semper Fi offers a hangout for the Marines at the game, and the Surface Warriors Association lets future SWO candidates eat and talk with those in their prospective community. Wherever food is cooking and drinks are flowing, you are sure to find at least a few mids enjoying the occasion.

DRILL & PARADES

In the tradition of the beautifully described parades in James Webb's A Sense of Honor, the brigade marches onto Worden Field, listens to the same words repeated year after year, and performs the same movements dozens of classes have performed before. This year we experienced a concept new to these classes: repeat parades. No longer would a practice go once through, with only a pause to redo "Fix Bayonents" or manual of arms. This year the brigade perfected the "whole product" and performed two or more "Pass in Reviews" per practice parade. Despite the initial grumbling and frustration, the times decreased as the brigade began to work as a team and increase its drill proficiency. The finished effect was a production worthy of the revere and honor is was meant to be.

While it may look like a boozefest to the untrained eye...okay, so it is a boozefest... midshipmen second class and their guests celebrate the committment of Five extra years of Naval Service. Two down, two to go, then five and dive for some. This year's 2 FOR 7, lead by the infamous class of 2000, proved to be the best this century has offered. Beer, live bands, beer, moonwalk, more beer, food, beer, and a bungee ride - Who could ask for more? Aught One is going to be hard pressed to match such a performance.

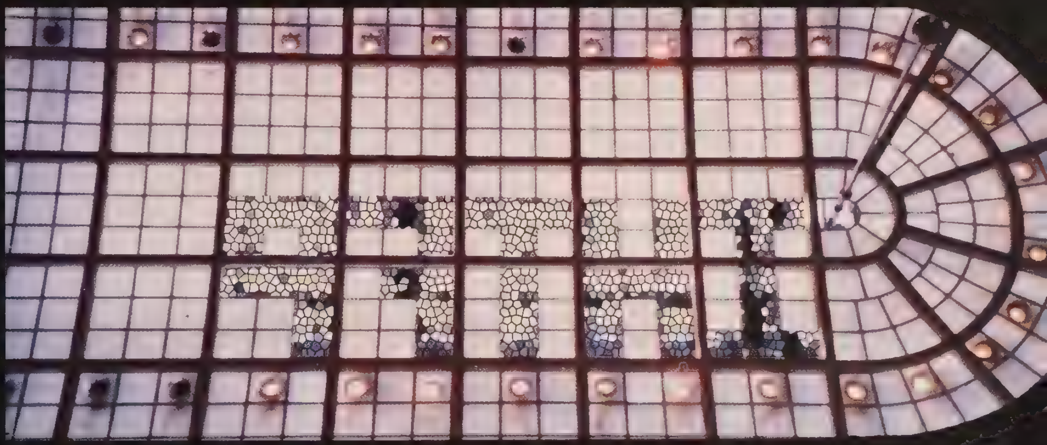
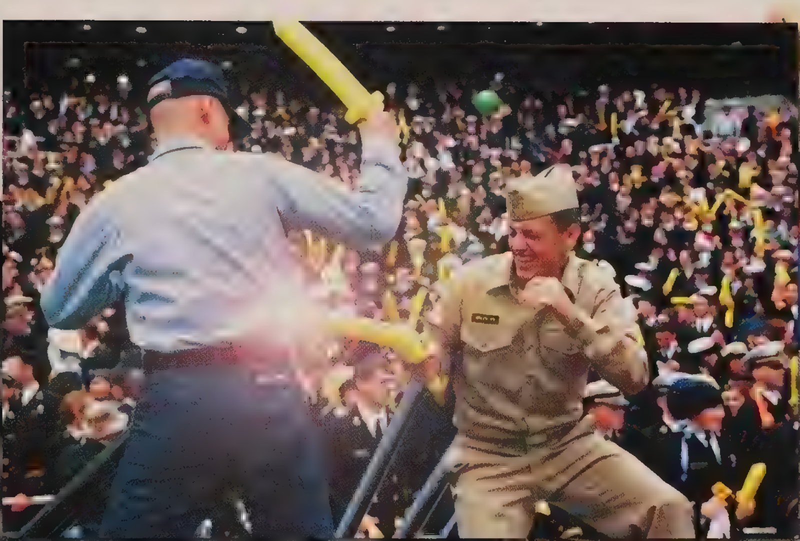
REVENGE ri enj to avenge (as oneself) usu. by retaliating in kind or degree

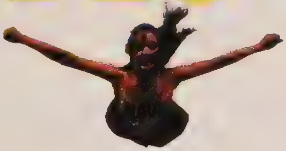
Army week is a time to be enjoyed by all, especially the plebers. It is one intense week of spirit, hooliganism, and pranks played by vengeful plebes and their upperclass. BEAT ARMY slogans appear all over the Yard, pitchers of goo are served to fourth class, doors are penny-jammed, and decks become giant slip-and-slides. Exchange cadets have the pleasure of experiencing a full round of Navy hospitality, as any cadet, no matter which academy they hail from, is fair game. Nighttime Recon daddies, utilizing the Ho Chi Minh Trail, make their way beyond the Wall to wreak havoc at the stadium and the Pentagon. And once again, the morale of the Brigade is prominently displayed in Memorial Hall for all to see.



ARMY



NAVY



We returned to Philadelphia for the 99th annual Army Navy game, full of hope and good spirits. Despite 0430 reveilles, early bus convoys, and Philly traffic, King Hall's "Bags O'Sugar and Caffeine" managed to erase the previous week's exhaustion. The brigade was loud, spirited, and rowdy by the time we hit the stands. We displayed our spirit through cowbells, towels, and foam swords, painted faces, and hoarse cheers. Chairs were draped with discarded O-Coats as the sun warmed the stands and made SDBs warm enough for the weather. Even the rain failed to cool things off for the red-hot brigade. The ball crossed the goal line time and time again, but Army soon evened the score. When time ran out, Army had managed to scrape up four points more than the fighting Navy team. The brigade left Philadelphia with a bit of disappointment, but a sense of drive for the next year.

WINTER

Service Assignme

The last big obstacle before graduation was met with anticipation and anxiety for some. For Submarine and Nuclear Surface selectees there were no worries as they had already been notified of their acceptance or rejection. For the rest of the Class, it was tough to think of anything but that little slip of paper that would decide the path to be taken for at least five years. Thanks to a relatively small class size, most would get what they wanted but some would have to settle for their second choice. The slip of paper was only part of the payoff. Two nights after receiving our service assignment, each member got to decide a small part of their fate. Aviators, Marines, and Submariners chose their class date while SWOrriors chose their ship and class date. Those previously selected for the nuclear program received their bonus and were very popular for at least one night. The future started to come into focus as service assignment was decided for most. Summer plans could be made and graduation did not seem as far as it had the day before.

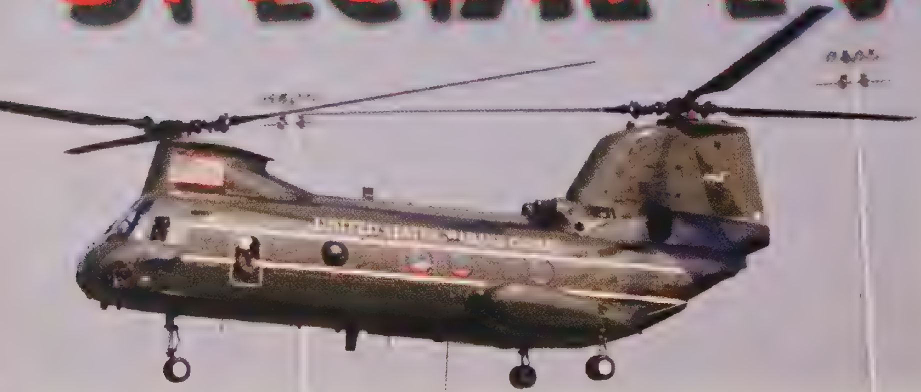
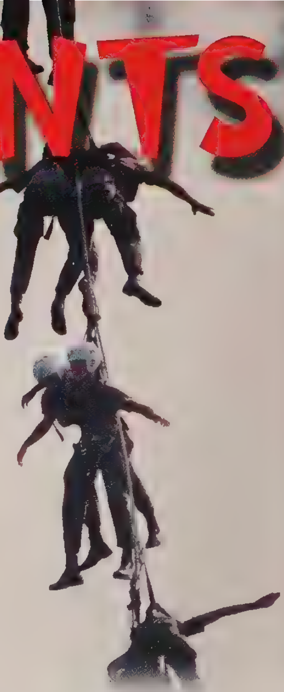
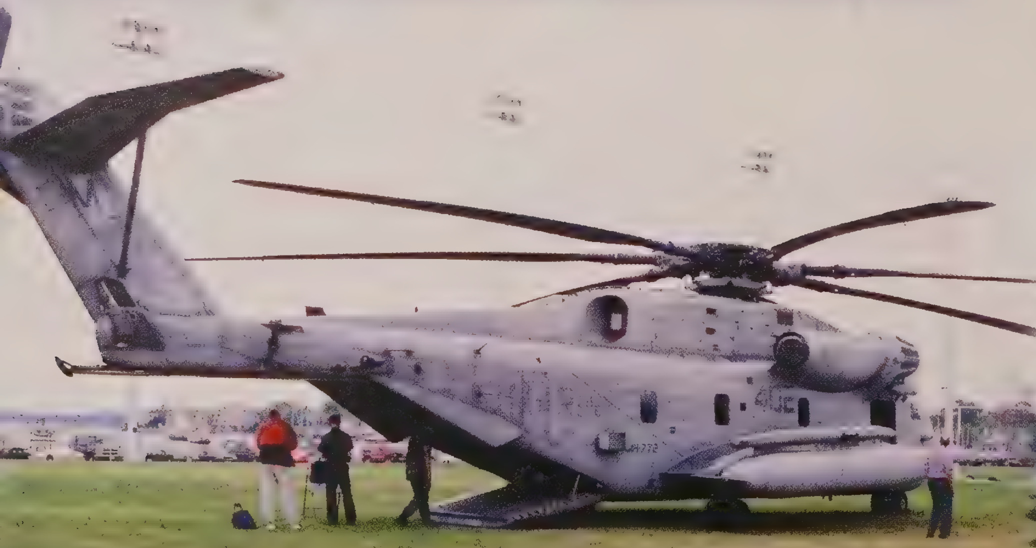
SPECIAL EVENTS







What would life be like at the Naval Academy without those little "Special Events" which break the routine of life? This year had several interesting surprises. The Marine Week was the best yet with Spy Riggers floating through the air, various fighting vehicles lurking around every corner and small arms galore. On the lighter side of things, Ziggy Marley added a new sound to Alumni Hall performing his great reggae songs. The annual Easter Egg Hunt filled the yard with egg crazy munchkins. With the end of every sport season comes the Bell Ringing Ceremony where those teams that beat Army get a chance to be recognized. These events allow Midshipmen to interact with the community and to experience new things. This year turned out to be pretty special after all.

Meximelt, Mando, Toughguy, Iceman Walks at low altitudes. "Don't you ever call me ArmAndo!" The Devil's Advocate. "Mr. Aviles, were you sleeping?" From Spec. War, to Marines, to SUBmarines. One of the original "Bad Boys." Yes but your neck is red. That was a real nice Honda. Didn't you feel that airbag? Why are you all wet? "You don't want to know." Summer Love, what was her occupation? "If you don't sober up, I'll take care of her myself. Mail box vs Garbage can.. Who is Rita anyway? We'll miss you my friend. JPK Who stole my tape? Can this T-shirt get any tighter? Late night chem sessions, always keepin' me up. Have you completed your eighties collection yet? Will you ever learn to play that guitar? All aside I couldn't have picked a better roommate to keep me in line. BBH

"Hello, I'm Married" was Jon's reply. Jon sailed here from smallsville Pennsylvania, picked up a wife, a coupla 4.0's, a master's degree, and an adventure room along the way. He has succeeded in a communist room despite his close proximity to an ever-grumbling, vociferous Cuban, and has formed a strong alliance with the gc society. It is these guys who transformed him from a straight-arrow Midshipman to a true advocate of senior skip day. Other adventures include going ice-skating with a nightcap at the emergency room, skiing in Colorado with skiis on the right feet, SFX '97, DP '98, 4th of July '98 in DC, and cookie flag. We trust that you and Jodi, along with the portable sandwich maker and thousands of shares of Dell Computer will find success and, more importantly, be happy. Best of luck Jon! Oh, and you're the best. -gc, GC, JP, RR

4/C- BerZerKer... ROTUND... GET MY NAME RIGHT: BEER - KEY! 3/C- getting drunk with the alcoholic. Who CAN drink more... BEER-zerker or THIRST-on? great Harrisburg performance.. eh... yeah, from the RACK! love that sea bag inspection 2/C year. Outstanding!! Firstie Striper duties used for missing tests and class, too bad you were MIR... Hey Mark, Meg called. eh... yeah, you do your homework yet? eh, homework... nooo. A couple of LT's called, seemed annoyed. Major called, wasn't too happy. Some CDR called, he was pissed. CAPT called, seemed mad. Some guy from the LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CALLED, not happy. MARK.. YOU BLEW OFF AN ADMIRAL?? did you know they have reville in some companies? what is formation? NAVAL ACADEMY CRAP.. it isn't like this in the fleet! Has his own list of priorities... class, work, officers, anything non-lucky bag related.. all on the BOTTOM. Starcraft, Lucky Bag, and rack... ALL ON TOP, that's the way it should be right? How much in debt are you... 7G's. impressive. Found secret to graduation: Don't turn in papers. Western Civ - didn't work, western civ-didn't work, western civ-didn't work, ns-finally worked. What can you say about a man who has . . . lots of red hair? Brad . . . umm . . . Lamar . . . umm . . . Blocker has been a good friend ever since that day at the zoo when we were looking for another roommate. After a bout with Brian's clippers, he passed for a regular midshipman. Whether he's throwing racks into T-court, or watching a good beat down, Brad's always ready to throw out his back for you or your mom. A constant pain in the maintenance officer's behind, Brad was adept at breaking things by throwing Scott at them. Someday Cowboy Bob will ride his last. Someday Rip Van Klingkle will be totally bald, and someday Fatty will come out of the closet. But, you'll still be our big hairy ape no matter how many times a day you shave or call main-O to yell at the OOW. -JJS,SMM,BKK

G., G-Money, G-Rock,Gina Bina, Ms. President of Nail Night, and most importantly, my T.F. Four years by the Bay-they weren't kidding! But I bet you can't even remember that verse even though you were color plebe of the galaxy. "Can I go to the bathroom?" or how about on a "run" to my sponsor's? Youngster year on 2-0 and your Firstie Fan Club led by Dirty Burke. On a tennis court!? Henry runs, Zie Club nights, and "Friends." SPRING BREAK NAPLES '96! Second Class year-Ring dance, or not. Didn't Dianne ever teach you that the independent woman doesn't need rides from men...unless they're strangers and ride Harleys! 98-99 This is our year-starting with L-Neck in Dirty Third Herd, Purple Hooters and Mind Erasers, waking up during Pretty Woman, H-A-P-P-Y H-A-L-L-O-W-E-E-N!, slurpee runs, late night lullabyes, Ode to my Chode, "pull my finger," "A Perfect Muf-,' beginning 1999 in Times Square. Let's play Griffin's Truth or Dare. Truth: So what really happened on that elevator ride with the 2/c FB player? Arabian goggles, what? "But I love you!" Truth: So what really happened with that redneck three striper? Samoan Powerdriver, what? I am gonna miss you so much! Who is gonna pick the hair out of the shower drain? Who's gonna wax the deck? Who's gonna be my best friend? I know you always will, Gina, because "You have a forever friend for life, and forever has no end." AER, RD

Plebe year- would spend hours chatting, to determine who would chop 10 steps to steerage. Great personality and excitement level bring about a choice of nicknames... bump or STUMP. sure it was describing his personality? Youngster year- Did you leave the academy for a year? Ireland... hmmm, what DO you remember? 2/C Year- Mardi Gras.... Downed half a bottle of Tequila... disappeared down Bourbon street and picked up a new language. Firstie year- Cruising in his new Galant.... what ditch? CURB CHECK! No wonder he can eat so much, has a personal army to feed. "Say hello to my little friends" Did you have a nice drive to pick up dinner.... all the way out to GATE ONE! New toys: Galant - 10 grand. DVD player- 400.00 portable DVD player- 1200.00 (on 3 credit cards). Sony 21" monitor 1658.00. surround sound speakers for computer, 27" tv, heavy duty mixer. the love of his life has two big, round, firm...... wheels??? he had the right letters.. G-R-I-L-...L? Owns a matching pair of boots... small, glass, and just for TEXAS TEA. have you finished the one from spring break yet? Secret plan to graduation... fail all initial PRT's, be unsat the entire last semester of Firstie year, get a Nuke bonus check, and of course... a VISA Platinum Card. Does graduation really matter then? Well... if you could see past your NOSE then you might have a better view of graduation. JMNDDSW,MOB gc was born in the old First Company, which with the passing of 99 will be no more. He and JoJo came from a sunny land where they swear gentleness and courtesy still exist. In Annapolis, gc has met his arctic grandparents and has discovered his true Irish Catholic roots. This one-time southern gentleman assimilated well to the culture of his knuckle headed friends. Chesty is renowned for many things, not the least of which being his once and future good grades as well as his new-found love for beer. Chesty is bound for SWO via NAPS but we know will one day achieve his true dream of becoming a doctor. Good luck Chesty Puller and Erin go bragh! GC, RR

Gregory James Clancy
Bronx, New York
Marine Corps Ground

Leaving his shire known as City Island, GC came to Annapolis ready to fly into space as an engineer. He soon realized his true potential when he switched his major to bag-piping with a minor in unconsciousness. Somewhere in his 2/C year, the toolish nature of his youth gave way to the more powerful forces of uncontrollable procrastination, to which he is the patron saint. 10 pages, 5 hours, need an A? No problem. We have always found Greg to be a more than willing swimming partner, especially after hours. A member of the fat kid club and the Greg society, Schmancy has nonetheless remained true to his Irish blood, Catholic faith, and nutty friends. Best of luck in the Corps, GC. Thank you and good night. -gc, RR

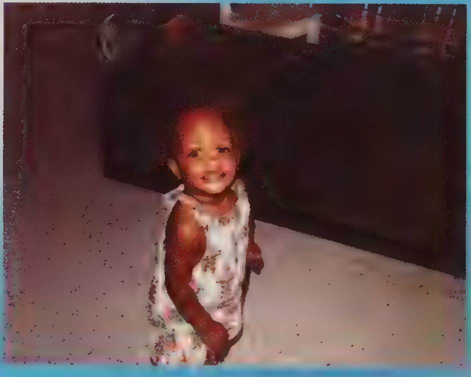
When I met a Midshipmen for the first time I asked him why the hell he wanted to join the Navy and live on a ship for the rest of his life. What a coincidence, here I am at Canoe U., a small school in Maryland, or so it was told when trying to pick up chicks. Maybe I was right, four years together by the Bay may have been or seemed like the rest of ones life. A place where one can put their hands in there pocket, and feel cocky all day, or be driven by the fear of failure, only to feed off it and use it to succeed. A place where fun became mandatory, and the worst were sent only to teach the Midshipmen how to do things even worse. When asked what the HELL USNA is, you tell them they already said it. He floated back down cause he wanted to share; His key to the locks on the chains he saw everywhere; But first few steps, and then he was stabbed; By a faceless man, the fuckers... He still stands; And he still gives his love, he just gives it away; the love he receives is the love that is saved; And sometimes is seen a strange spot in the sky; a human being that was given to fly... E.V. and L.B.C.



RD - Nothing gets mentioned before the bear! 2/c Year - We've always been firsties. Happy Gilmore, Spanish, and Garth Brooks. Buffett '97 - Where's your shirt? Shooters and Steelers games. Wannabe DeNiro - Guns, knives, Mob movies - "For as long as I can remember I always wanted to be a gangster." The midnight run to Pitt - "Hey Rewk, you up for a road trip?" Narnia talks about football, Dean & Provost (Wardroom Associates). $300 Shopping spree at the mall looking for the Wonder Bra. Crash Test Squeak and a late night at the hospital. Brown Sugar. First Company Santas - "I think Gina's pissed!" "Do we have to go to this?" Meeces, Molesting Tigger Thanks for all the lessons you've taught me F*U! R*@i off! go F yourself! The wheelbarrow! & for your friendship & LAR's too. Good luck in P-cola - I'll be seein ya. So what's for dinner?

I'm glad I joined Glee Club and found another "California Girl!" We had a great time since the fall of '95, huh? I'll never forget Army-Navy plebe year, being locked out of your friend's apartment after graduation, our stay at my sponsor's when the dog used your luggage as a bathroom, our outings with Brian (remember how close we all were?) and the entire summer seminar! I'm so glad that after years of searching and waiting, you finally found a man that would make you happy. Anytime you're in San Diego, know that my door is always open to you. I'll make sure that we have plenty of sourdough bread! Thank you for the laughs, thank you for encouraging me when I couldn't swim, and although our schedules kept us apart for a while, thank you for always being the same friend I've always known. I'm wishing you a future with nothing but success and happiness. Don't think you are rid of me, because I plan on knowing you for a long time. P.S. I KNOW that the car accident wasn't your fault. Christopher Thomas George
Homedale, Idaho
Submarine Warfare

Christopher Thomas George came to the Naval Academy as Homedale, Idaho's most celebrated Trojan. Who could guess that he would soon be a Horse Marine and chow call champion? (Stick out the worm?) Plebe year began as Drago's roomie on the beloved 1-4 and, after playing inadvertent hookey and BEATING AIR FORCE he knew well how anal this place can be. He wiped all the sauce off his pizza and wrote home four times a day. Youngtser year brought no ski trips, a room on The Rock and his first wife. After a sub cruise, his Second class year started out at USAFA. There he supposedly flew gliders, jumped out of planes, dated a stripper, and lived with a the so-called best roommate ever. All we ever saw was a couple of stupid pins and a picture of Jorge in panties and lipstick. An unpaid Ring Dance tab, fistfight w/ Clancy, cross-USA drive, and fiancé headlined Spring '98. Wandering at Buffett, late night body art, ski-trip bashes and road trips for love may sum up '99. Homedale's Hero, you are a classic, continue Drifty's nuclear tradition and always buckle up. Where the heck is Groffville, I mean Northville? Two from NY, and you both live together? Where's your other half Groffnoy? Princess and plebe bedbugs, afternoon gossip sessions, basketball trips and how long did you play on that broken foot? Youngster year: year of the rack, talking in your sleep, who is that jerk that lives across the hall...Watch out for post offices! How much water can one O-coat hold? Weapons detail: expert shot and extra inspections. Who got more drunk on your 21st b-day? RING DANCE, foreign affairs, rafting and summer trips to NY, where did your sunglasses go? Firstie year...shut up, OPs does a lot of work! Trips to NYC, saw Les Mis (finally) and Service assignment, well have you decided what you are doing yet! NO? Where ever you go I know you'll do great! You beat out everyone for ship selection. Good luck and I'll miss you, good thing it's only a six hour drive from Mayport to Pensacola!...CXP

Lurch, Stretch, the Crew Guy, always carries things A Little Too Far. Born a marine, has been buying marine corps uniform articles since plebe year, loves honey facials, always meets the hot chicks... But where are they? Are they with Rob? Likes long hikes, but remembers only you can prevent forest fires! Take it easy on your nose, breath through your darn mouth. Brian Kling is a man of intense passions. A man of poetry, sleeping, and karate. Brian is by far the most aloof mid any of us know, or don't know, or never even heard of, well, at least your roommates kind of know you. A valuable asset to the A.C.M.E. foreign affairs conference, we could always depend on Brian to be well hydrated upon arrival at his favorite club, Traxxx. Honing his dancing skills during transmissions on Saturday night, Brian invented the "claw", and the "come in Orson". He was also especially adept at pulling large furnitures from his . . . Sometimes Brian woke up in the morning and decided to shave his head or wax his chest. But most of the time he just stayed in bed. If he could have played Baseball Pro, talked on the phone to Christine, and had a Ben and Jerry's I.V., all while still in the rack, he wouldn't have left all firstie year. Fatty Bombilatty, if you weren't flying, you were . . . How you found time to study, what with the Podbereski challenge and all, is beyond me. From code reds and water balloons on 1-4 to Omelas and gay-dances on 3-1, you were always there to flip out for us. As a lucrative businessman, and inspirational dancer, you own property in many venues, both at home and abroad. As far west as Texas, and as far east as Germany, you are a non-discriminating purchaser of buildings and chapels. Whether it was on land, in the air, or at sea, your unflagging devotion to ownership was a testament to devotion. You've traveled far, you've been to North Carolina, New York, Western MD, Texas, and Sheffield, but did you ever travel for another reason than to see a girl? You've been thousands of feet over BWI, and deep in the depravity of Bancroft hall, but you always found your way back to your real estate roots like the pigeons to Capistrano. Girls girls everywhere, but ne'er a one to date. The most eligible bachelor from Fredneck will take his show on the road down to P-cola. Wait, did someone just take the phone off the hook?

Christopher John O'Brien, formally known as Buster, came to the Naval Academy from the colonial town of Acton, Ma., but not before he spent a year at NMH. Plebe year brought a new roommate along with Christmas PQS, hey Happy Birthday-POW! who cares if you have a bum shoulder. Then it was on to the Cave with HM and Drago along with wrestling and the Drink, let's not forget the affair with Ty. Youngster year, new roomies but more sleep and weekends than anyone, another year on third line, shoulder surgery and oh yea the big 21. Thank EFS for intro in debt and multiple credit cards. Second Class year started out wih Buffet, and the mighty trip to ND. screw tryouts, "Where the Streets Have No Name", parlez vous la francias, sure you'll stay awake, what coach? SEE YA, get off the f%@k-in ice. How about the night with the Sabres, who knows, some of us missed that night. Then the loan came and went. Ring Dance went solo,'Can I borrow your car?', 'Sure.' Class Prez meets real Prez, and all of sudden we're back for firstie year, your pres again, we see Eddie. Squad Leader, nope you wear the 'A'. Last year on ice, Suffolk goal, best of the career, got moved to 2nd line. Service selection- Marines, SWO, nope Peace Corps. Thank God for Braveheart. Can't finish this without Mo and 'Nova. She'll keep you in line in the Corps. You'll get LAYED. Peace my friend, never clean up, shave, or get a haircut. CARPE DIEM!! Jimmy, Macky, Sean, and Francis.

This fat kid hails, as do many of his Cuban comrades, from the sunny shores of Hialeah , FL. Why he chose the land of the northern tundra for his schooling is beyond human understanding. He has been met by success, however, from his stint as 4/C Regimental attache to his current role as First Company's Paxton-tamer. A successful ping-pong and racquetball player, the Cuban has demonstrated a variety of unseemly skills. From SWO-dom to haggling, the cheapest kid in the universe always gives his best. Four years in your rack. Are pillow cases suppose to be yellow? What's morning quarters formation? What's noon meal formation? What's mandatory training? You were in 2nd Company? The stench off your pads redefined what hell will smell like. Played more lacrosse games with something broken, pulled, or just banged up than anyone. Good thing none of your classes required work. Will you research my profs for me next time? How is what's her name. "I think this one is going to last" "I'm serious about this one" "This girl is different" "I'm looking for a quality relationship"..... So much for supply school, have fun in the gulf. We'll let you pick up the tap at Acme, we hear you and Bobby got a special drink special going. How's it go, walk down town, stagger back. "Just trying to get my bearings" Have you checked the ward room yet? How come those showers plebe year took sooo long? Good thing you never had to make your rack. With all those civilian clothes, where did you keep your uniforms? I hear you know a thing or two about Southeast Asia. Ever take a class on it? It's been fun... take care

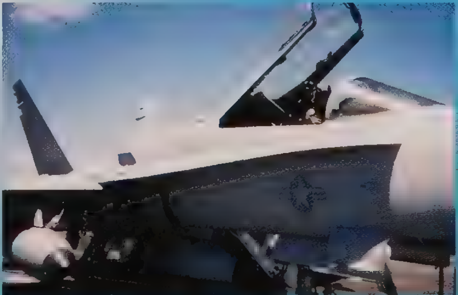
Rich from P-Cola. Pretty Boy. Naval Aviation. All the way. Plebe year, broken bones, Pro-knowledge drawer master, "test? what test!", Swimming "Mike, what the hell do we do with these 'N's'?" to intramural warrior to cheerleading. Saw the light. You get paid money for this? Put in training by JC and BJ. Got down and dirty 1/c year. Learning what LIVIN is all about. Rules are made to be broken.. right?, or at least twisted and bent. Makes Canoe U. A much more fun place. After all, it's just the Academy and there's so much more out there. Then it's time to get serious... maybe. DTA, DC, Gtown, free beer, bachelorettes and life savers. Shawn I think he is lost in there. KtoNYinto50 Goodnight ZZZ blasting with techno. Thanks for steam help. Harrison is your best friend. Road Rage, Carrier Qualled in his Accord, trips to Towson with Raven's Cheerleaders WOW! UVA weekends. No dinner...just a liquid diet. Those who hesitate are *$!#ing lost! Blink182, The Wardroom, Rich ... Don't change, women think you're sexy anyway. Sisters in Ocean City. Memphis lawyers.. A true Friend. Thanks for all the great times. I look forward to many more in years to come.. BBJ, MM, MTK, JNA



Dupe, Jean(only the ladies..BT), french dip, french guy, flower, turtle, roomie, brut man. 1999 minesweeper and solitaire champion, saved money by hitchhiking, exciting 21st birthday that lasted 45 days and also got the gift of public speaking. Always wore the firefighting suit to sailing practice. Banc publik, enlightened taste in music kept us listening to some great french stuff. Keep on practicing the violin(not in room)The evil green bottle will never be forgotten. Somebody give this guy a cup of coffee! Remember jumping into the rack plebe year..alone and otherwise. Plebe company commander. Decorated our room in dolphin s$%@. French commission?? Eventually Pete thought that you and Dan needed more time together alone firstie year...you don't need a phone. She arrived at the Academy in the hopes of traveling the globe in a U.S. Navy F/A-18, while picking up some solid leadership skills and body odor along the way. Four years later, much has changed, but not the body odor. Olive Oil continues to seek the leadership lessons here at Severn U, yet her career sights are on the Marine Corps. Who would have thought that Mommy's "little Princess" would go from Ivy Prep to Daddy's Sailor, and even further, to Bancroft Witch.. How did it go? "The Marine Corps is great; everybody ought to own one." Would she do it again? "It was something I just needed to do." Special thanks to those who made a difference: The Lord for making me who I am today. Father Devine, LT Childs, and a '96 firstie named Matt, for leading me back to Him. Capt Gregory, and Mark Amos for showing me how to lead. Miss Reddick and Kielly for being my sisters through it all. From Brian to Quintin, with a few claps in between, you all showed me how to love: I thank you for that. Gunny for all that and more, Big bro, Dad, for pushing and cheering. Mom, for loving me. I love you all. Wish me luck. Its all in His plan. The Arena.

To the man who led the crowd to the Ochs... Thank You! Although you had a slow start stuck with the DB in Mars, you quickly attacked Loyola, Lehigh, N.C. State and Willian & Mary with the best of 'em. You were even seeing an Austrian for awhile (the SIN room)!! To the guy who's got the knack without trying and the envy of his pals, two thumbs up! After making it through plebe year and dropping both football and 50 lbs, you deserve credit. It was great attacking that pelican in P.C. and getting attacked by a Tank in Georgetown. Did somebody say George Toon's?? Hey, pal, try staying off those wet tables at Fells Point, unless you like getting stitches at 3:00am! So Perv tried to take over the SS GLUTIUS, but at least he was fended off! You even had a stint at tight end youngster year for company football, but I guess those hands hardened up a bit, huh? You also get credit for the initial "Baja" Friday night for your 21st celebration! Should we thank you for that? HenderBone, I like the sound of that, especially when compared to Fumanti's version. When was the last time you got off the Yard? Certainly wasn't Spring Break. Weekend? Nope, not then either. Did CAPT Hering and LT have fun at that performance board? OUCH!! Well, at least he didn't shout. Frozen Hard Drives, PlayStations, SuperNES, StarCraft, Xenoqueers, need we really say more, I mean, get a life!!! Get a girlfriend!!!! Do something!!!!! Exactly how many books have you read? I mean, don't you ever study? Oh, that's right, you don't (hence, Spring Break). Did you have fun getting up in the morning for PRT squad? You must have. You failed the stupid thing 7 times out of 8. Dude, Hairy Kid, Redneck and the other nicknames, with "Dixie on Your Mind" always. We won't mention Keenan's "duh," but who else would use the phones on reform?! Oh, yeah, and just how skinny are them legs? You made it through the 4/c hair and identity crisis, being Jonic's recon partner, G-Tech, the WF freshman, wearing the ugliest underwear made, introducing Woodchuck, the Rod Stewart Halloween, and the eternal struggle to get bigger in McD! Who else could do a "pre" and "post-PRT" imitation? We don't want to know! Panama City and Big T's sandwiches treated you roughly and those fish in the North Davidson dumpster are still mad at ya. You did make it down to Ziggy's for DAC, but your version in the Endless Summer was much better! 'Should I change my name?' was something I heard a lot from this little blonde from Kentucky. First day of plebe summer, she got to lead blue and gold–and then became ROBO–plebe. We had to rev her up just to get her into the p-way. Youngster year, she turned into a klutz and broke her arm...running?? Socially chilled, spent awhile on restriction. '20 and still a virgin!' That didn't last too long... Roomies again as 2/c, which was the best!! Studying for tactics, what does TIME ON TOP stand for again? The oath on my German Dictionary. Late night talks about the finer things in life (boys)! 26.2 miles–not a problem, I ran 3 outers tonight! Patience, a star is born! The sleeping bag built for two. The Baltimore Aquarium. And what a Wild Turkey she was on her 21st–the mind eraser still got you!! Where were you during the tailgater? Putting the shake in Shake'n Bake's truck. Was company XO both semesters. As a firstie, her favorite song became 'Love Stinks,' but don't worry, your prince is out there, probably with an M-16 in his arms awaiting your arrival in Quantico! This country Jew came to the academy via prep school in Alabama. "When I was at Fort Knox... blah blah; I wasn't a SWAMP FOX only because... blah blah..." Plebe year was... an experience. You were Wiener's savior. Plebe summer we were introduced to your rotting flesh problems. Putting you in a laundry bag proved futile due to your obsession with cutlery. Youngster year you showed up a tobacco fiend. Nutty schoolteacher from Kappa Delta caught your eye (b*). 2/c summer taught you who to buy alcohol for ('No ID's, it's cool"). Later, your emotional void was fulfilled by 4/c Jones. You for some reason turned your body into a Warner Bros. shrine. Finally picked up a Ford truck like a good MARINE (extension of your "manhood"). Your bullshiting ability would win you a blue ribbon among most NCO's. You always were a friend when needed (Towson). Your humor knows no social boundaries. Let's not forget the Tequila tears, wimp.- P.S. "Dave...can I get a hug?" -anonymous 4/c EAC WED WBS MPH

The only Untouchable of the horsemen. Learned to drive stick on the autobahn. Quite the dapper gentleman, wooing the lovely au pairs from abroad. Never getting married. Working on aero by the light of Steerage at 0300, he was in his prime. No one else could hang at that hour, but a few reds and a constant supply of caffeine did the trick. Seducing beautiful girls outside the Toy in Stuttgart. Eastport escapades. Thrashing the BC's dive. ABCs. No pot of gold for Sean please. He has always had a fierce appetite for the joys most mids avoid. A smashing character, Sean broke more than a few hearts as a midshipman. He could be found slithering on the earth with us mere mortals. The colorful Curtin was a rare midshipman who will always be remembered for his flare and presence. To those that knew him he will be remembered as a loyal friend.... Up and down performer, he got away with more than he should have. He speeds through life in excess of 150mph, hopefully he won't have to take the bus back again. Crashing is good only when you're a youngster. JGK BJE BAS BKB

Hi my name is the Big Dawg and I come from the hood in Los Angeles California. LA explains why I am an overbearing asshole. Well, anyway the chicks dig the big dawg's style, ya know what I am sayin. I got many notches on my belt from one nighters. My favorite was stealing my bro's ring dance date with whom I shagged in the bed he paid for. Thats the big dawg for ya-always groovin on the ladies and hey if I can shag in a free hotel room that my buddy paid for, why the hell not? Sometimes I go out pimpin in my low rider-my suped up explorer with kickin base. Everyone in town moves it to the big dawg's beat-and if they don't get da hell outta my way I run em the hell ova. My biggest accomplishment was ownin the deck 2-4 mates desk youngsta year before it was mothballed. I guess I just got bored one Saturday afternoon and got a little busy on watch. Well there aint nothin like the stain of the big dawg-ask the ladies. Peace out-this is the pimpin daddy big dawg kickin it to P-cola!(Dream)

Seanski Cristoff Es-spear-i2 He cometh from the west side of Cali after already becoming salty from the Navy's Nuke school. He loved it so much that he is going back this time to finish it and go under the sea with all the other bubble heads. After making it through plebe summer through the shortie but goodie cadboy, he was a Foo Fighter listening, tennis swinging, hardly studying machine. After scraping through plebe year by the skin of his hairless legs. Then youngster year rolled out as quickly as it rolled in. Secondclass year brought out the more professional side with plebe summer detail kicking off with his prohibited "killer man" cadence. Firstie year was a cake walk which he somehow managed to get on batt staff, which was the final phase of him becoming a stealth firstie. Dave comes to us from the plains of Southwest Minnesota, a place where they didn't get TV's until 6 years ago. Dave always reminds us that "Yes, I am an ass hole." He took us fishing in the Great White North, wrestled with us at odd hours in the morning, and enjoyed playing with shaving cream and yogurt on his own. His dad's shipments of coffee kept us up many a night, doing absolutely nothing. Give him beer and he turns into a nice mellow guy, who will actually socialize, and maybe dance. Yo, I don't like her - Me neither.-Deb But, leave him alone with a liter or two of rum, and watch out, some of us still have scars from that night and we now know where to find an ice crusher (Dave's forehead). He has left his mark on all of us, including dents in Bryan's car, modified Tacy's shower for $100. Somehow he managed to be the most physically fit fat ass among us by doing nothing but sleeping and eating. So, who slept with your Ring Dance date Saturday night, certainly not you. Um, um, um...I reckon black sure is beautiful. You like 'em dark. NAPS'95— Eiffel Tower in New York City? Erika, Why do you call her by her last name? 'Cause she's MISS REDDICK! She got a big ass, don't she? Winner of the booty shaking contest is....Q, will you sing us to sleep? Deb, what does this mean? Why's it gotta be a salt and pepper thang? Nick, what's pecan tan? Sweet potato pie tastes like pumpkin. She's a strong black woman. Can anyone say Georgia Peach? It is said that the highest quality of peaches come from G.A. From that magnificent, angelic voice of her's to her warm and giving heart, Miss Reddick is definitely high quality. She's "Georgia's Finest". Gonna miss running over to the O-course every day. Happy that someone realized you were too good for the Corps! Thanks for finally spooning me halfway through my youngster year. Gonna miss chopping up to your room and reporting back to you. Take Care in Japan. 4 years together and never a dull moment. We'll miss our Georgia Peach. You are a Nubian Queen. Much Love, ELC, QRV, DRL, Lou, Deb, and L. B. (AOM)

Brettski was a plebe summer squad mate to one Filichino named Espiritu and once covertly helped him through a table rate. Helo's go roundy-roundy, right Brettski? Brett has been his good roomy since youngsta year, an "alright" tennis playa (never won against me though. Member our victory over Cruz and Paul, though?), a good spotter/workout pardner ('member "hey Seanski, the guy behind me has BIG GUNZ!"), and a good friend overall. Just looking back at the last four years, I can't believe all the things we've been through. Remember those pledges singing "American Pie" at five in the morning? And how steamin' mad we were? And how we took care of them AND that youngsta who put 'em up to it? Ha! And the shampoo bottle they left behind? From plebe summer to Karate to Ring Dance to Service Assignment to the Dive School PFT! We were there together! And now we're graduating (God willing), going to Dive School, and then Nuc School! It's been a blast, man. We're finally outta here! Looking forward to Dive School and Charleston! When are you going to quit following me around? Ha! Yeah, babeee, yeah! Alright man, PEACE! SCE

The stories we can tell about Timmy...or should we say Superpleber, or Catfish, or Tweggat? It all started with that Plebe of the Month thing, and now we have more stories about Timmy than he has about high school football. How many majors did you commit in one night, Tim? Was it 7, or 8? Then there was that unfortunate incident with a catfish in Florida— "A little tequila should do the trick!" One of these days Tim might pay off the bet he lost, but we doubt it— a case of Sam Adams, wasn't it?...How 'bout a bed check to get the blood flowing? And we won't even talk about ring dance, or that psycho...Now no one will believe this, but once upon a time Tim was all about becoming a Marine, so we just beat him senseless, and if he doesn't take his post as Admiral of the TX Navy, he'll be a pilot...but either way, thank God he's not a jarhead! Timmy, may Brad Thomson live on with you forever, and remember, when the keg is empty, the keg is empty... Ahhh, the stories...-AS,JP,CR,MH,MS,DC,BN,IS,JC, and the Non CMEO Cool Guy List

What is in a name? For the "Dream" it encompasses everything. There are the thoughts of F-18's looming in his head, but only C-130's ready for flight. There are conceptions of beautiful women that are only fulfilled by endless hours of typing away at the keyboard in search of the perfect Internet Babe. -BUT WAIT we revert back to the endless visions of being a fighter pilot: the cool leather jacket (almost returned for a big discount), the Raybans, and of course the Transam(close substitute to an F-18)with the ooh so cool remote start feature.(The girls love this one along with the airplane noises) The cool points are adding. Oh what more do we need to complete the image....hum....yeah, lets drive on the brink of insanity and run people off the road, but never stop to help or assist. The act of a perfect gentleman! Psycho came to us from the "fleet" flaming on "Seal Team One" from the beginning. A little puny early on...he buffed up for a brief semester with Creatine and a workout kick. Luckily that fell by the wayside and led into nightly basketball games with the MacDonough Hall-Stars. To our surprise, Lane does have a talent though...he saved us plebe year with his drawing skills which he displayed on boards, Jay's face and Brian's arss. "My favorite food? Orange juice?" You have to watch his spastic episodes with flying covers (Ken) and chairs (plebes) in Smoke Hall and on 6-1. Lane has quite a way with the ladies...he managed to tackle the "flaming busch" from downstairs and wondered up to sunny northern Canada for Spring Break with her. And never forget Lane's '76 Camaro with its "custom" paint job...watch out for those beamers. "Old trustee" would never let you down. Lane, "Mr. Intensity", we wish you fair winds and following seas in Pensacola, and don't forget to bring your washer and dryer when moving in with Brian and Sarah. Frankly, you really scare us! Travis Granger Deaton the original surfer dude hailing from San Clemente, CA. "SOUND OFF" was how we were introduced. First there was the A+++ weekend, and the gals from DG. Will they ever let MIDS in again? Oh that Trek to Tech, quick call Kendra, he is shaking again. That bed had some interesting things going on in it during your nap. How many times did we answer that question behind your back, "Doesn't he have a girlfriend?" And later, "Isn't he engaged?" As we all knew, of course the answer was yes to both. We know you love Kendra. Man, did we go some serious gas during all that wakeboarding. Those long days of 80+ mph head'in down I-70. Did you ever pay Ken's parents for your Faquier County Tax. How was it that you and Andy always ended up in the gay parts of town, are you trying to tell us something? Andy came to us a messy kid, and things never got any better (What just flew out of your mouth Mr. Gold!). Love life recap: one "dirty" girl from U of M, one "clean" girl who refused to let go (literally). Before we lost him to the first girl who ever made him feel "warm inside", he managed to redecorate the interior of the Econolodge and a beautiful girl's bathroom in G-town. Before he swore off Absolut for the "front end loader", Andy displayed his finesse by impressing the female lifeguards with his physical prowess and locating every "rainbow" bar between DC and Portland. Lest we forget the Beamer, the ultimate magnet for picking up girls on Hospital Point (just watch out for those curbs). Too bad that car's the only thing more expensive than his girl. Our little crazy Communist came to us not speaking a lick of English. Impressive folding techniques earned him the respect of Nosack. Hey Katt, wanna go for a run? Youngster year waking up to a little Sunshine in the morning brightened the day. Watch out for those chicken wings, Lane's beast will never be the same. Let us remember the good times at Sandy Point and early March swimming class. Capt. Busta Himes and “What's up dude.” Are you still banished from the auto hobby shop? The NJ Turnpike is always a nice place to stop for a little alternator repair. Speaking of Molly, can I borrow her this weekend? When not slaving away over the car, there was the computer. Katt was never far from the latest and greatest cd burner. The other roommate, Al, was always coming up with great ideas: “Katt, hold this gas can in your lap!” Katt, what are those extra switches for in the car? REEEEEPORT!!! This pip-squeak from the Lone Star State showed up with a Napoleon complex the size of an aviator's ego. The little devil pup quickly moved to the forefront of the company leading us in cherry pickers and other motivational exercises during plebe summer. After the summer she quickly found her niche as "Copeland's cutie" making it through the year unscathed. Since plebe year she's found ways to annoy one and all, in particularly by being "Miss Environment" with her big push for recycling and saving the rain forests. "Daddy's special girl" always seemed to be headed in five different directions at the same time (Morrocco or Fiji?), but she's definitely headed in one direction now — TBS!! Don't worry Carrie, Gonzo will surely take care of you (yeah, right, uh-huh). It's a good thing that you're going to the Corps since they don't wear summer whites (nice daisies) and just remember: don't dig your foxhole too deep cause you might have a little trouble getting out. Chung-boy, the most motivated admin clerk to ever come from the Corps! His motivation quickly faded though as time passed — Mr. Motivation quickly became the King of Cynicism. We all knew that he was really just trying to keep a tough guy image; deep down (in places where you don't talk about) this Korean was a deeply sensitive, 90's man. Who else could possibly attract so many females to his squad (4 out of 9). After going through five roommates (including the infamous "Derb-dog" and Hawkeye), "Superjerk" finally found a "Full House" full of cleanliness, vanity, and humor (Min had to provide the humor himself though)! During the "unsat years" Min compiled a virtual junkyard outside the window...stereo...fan...door... his wallet is much happier now that he's on the Dean's list. We'll definitely miss those pictures ... carrie and frank; gonzo "studying", scott in the shower, the dead dogs (yummm, black labs!), then again the best pictures are sometimes only in the mind (carrie, are you decent?.....AAGGH!). Hailing from far abroad, this midshipman came to us as if on a Mission. Not only was English his second language, but living in an American system was a challenge not to be scoffed at either. Though our friend from Lebanon had a lot to learn from (or a lot to teach?) those darn Americans, by journey's end he was quite on top. His final year saw positions in several clubs and XO of 7th Company. He even asked for slots at both SWOS and TBS here in the US. After all, he couldn't settle for just ONE service assignment! His time here was very telling. While championing the cause of all foreign nationals, the Lebanese also saw a need and appointed himself "chaplain" of all Muslims within the sacred 22-miles. In school, Fadi insisted on a poly sci class over and above his engineering curriculum every semester. Why? Namely, so that the "other" viewpoint would be represented...dare we say...objectively? The end is here, and Farewell. But first, a Thank You; for the well-rounded education, the sense of taste (clothes, souveniers, socializing), and most of all, the close friendship gained that can not be forgotten.

It was nice to get you back this year. At least for a little while. The Minnesota farm girl got used to city life real quick. Jake came and went, then there was Gabe (we won't even comment on this one) and now you leave the Academy as Mama and Papa Chen. Spring break in Cali was crazy. Spring break on the strip was incredible (CAP IT UP!). From kumbacka tea to protein packs and herbal healing, there was never anyone quite like you. Always on the lookout, the coupons never cease and the Marlboro bags keep coming. You put your car on a credit card? The German roadtrip with the walkie-talkies and the overnight stay in Elyria, OH was an event. Whiskey entertained us for a while, but don't fret, soon you can get your twenty cats (Michelle's feet are NOT kitties). How many times did we wake up to you fishing in your sleep? We know it was tough when Jenjenen left, long distance love is always hard. Does anyone know how to set up a WebSite for Beanie-Babies? Good luck with everything, we'll look for the cards, hell you have enough. AB.DB.MM.

Coming into plebe summer at 245. You never took the hill. . . it took you. Just blame it on the fat kid. All we remember was the football player with geekers and candy bars in his underwear. We've finally broken you from that good boy Midwest mold. Can't break the apron strings, though. Virg would be proud of the season tickets to distinguished artists. Flying United with you almost isn't worth the first class seats (You're going to wear that?) Constant entertainment in Wyoming, there is no Evian in Yellowstone. But, you're not from around here. Ups and downs-oh just a minute-I'm listening go ahead. Uninterrupted conversation, what's that? I enjoyed our "how to" sessions most of all. I'll be ready in two minutes, I just need to throw my room together. Sorry for making you late AGAIN! We hear the name once or twice in conversation and the next thing we know he's ENGAGED! Did we miss something here? She's a lucky girl. The phone company called to thank you personally for your donations, maybe you should look into getting your own satellite. United Airlines also called to check-up on the "separation anxiety" you experience every time you're away from Shawna for more than two weeks. We sure hope you are enrolled in their frequent flyer program. Can you say "Trekie." Have you memorized all the lines in Titanic yet, five trips to the theaters is a little excessive. The fun did not stop until he managed to earn a "triple-crown" (ac, honor, performance boards) by the end of his plebe year. Yet, he was given a second chance to stay at the academy and has the remediation to prove it. The only good thing to come from plebe year was the girl he met at his plebe mixer, Jennifer Jones. Kimo- Hawaiian name, Martian spirit. Every time he opens his mouth he has to get in trouble. Especially when he opens his mouth during the youngster year to chug a beer on the boat. Who would have thought that it really was his second drink ever! Pretty good, Kimo, you get shafted every other time you have a drink. Is that a message? Al! Look, I just got another bruise! In a week I'll be like Fumi. Oh, by the way, my toe always points at the North Star! "My %#@ is killing me! I have hemorrhoids all over the place! Yes!" Senorita Chief- cheap date, guys! I NEED to workout, man! I don't understand these women! "My father always says..." Let's make that mouse a pilot. Oh, look, his plane is burning! JJ, I think I'm sterile! I just got another ball in my cajones! No more creatine, JJ doesn't want you any bigger. Kimo in the sky - scary thought. AGA. DBM

Well, we knew from the begining that you'd be off to Coranado. The energy never stopped (I saw the pictures, Mama V slapped your ass in ballet) and the body hair kept coming off. Who else lives in a house with John Wayne and Marilyn Monroe in the front yard? Oh, and you win. . . you ARE the smelliest. Did you $%#& yourself ? 26 shots in a night? Jbills came to us from the Ville of the North, and quickly became the most recognizable plebe on the Yard. No one ever mistook you for invisible even though you were never around. We had fun that season learning the ropes. 17's, tip-drills, 17's, endless films, 17's, etc. (Did I mention 17's?) The road was where we lived and became bro's. I never did see your room until 3/C yr. It was worth the wait. Tennis matches, FCA, getting swole, playin' ball, we've done it all together. Christmas's at the Raleigh's, Fridays at the McKinney's, week nights at the Thomas's. Football games at the Wynkoop's. They've all been awesome. We are 2 of the most blessed middies ever. 2 NCAA tourneys, 2 championships, 3 great seasons as teammates. 4 incredible years as brothers. We've had a great time. I'll always claim our idea for your engagement and your first son will bear my name! Christin is a lucky gal. We've grown up together as men of God. Iron sharpens Iron. It's awesome to watch as He works in our lives. You'll always be in my prayers bro. Thanks for everything. Joshua 1:9. YBIC-seth

From lobster races in the Art Deco Hotel to peeing on Lantier's laundry in Goat Court, he never lost his cowboy mentality. Ski races, nationials, and Penn State parties (Curves), along with a brief stay in the DC jailhouse were a blur. Innoocent Mountain biking on busy highways and creator of the beer bottle shotgunner. The trips to Cabo (YOU BOUGHT A CONDO!?!) and 18 different marlin trips along a few excursions to the Windy City (first class all the way), and all the vodka down in G'town. AND BEGIN......Griz came to USNA as a Hairy, Thespian, Viola player, with a water sport fetish. Although a starting defensive tackle, he has zero sports knowledge. He has acquired many female victims over the past 4 years by the Bay: Ratgirl, Miss Piggy, Jim Henson (AKA sh%@ Girl), Tri Delta, Animal Spirit Girl, and not to mention a few members of the Brigade. He is "Defender of the Weak" and "King of hypocrisy" simultaneously, always willing to defend the nerd he once was before he met us (He owes us his life for making him cool). As this FuFuPamparilla's story unfolded, he repeatedly showed his love for being NAKED IN PUBLIC until it almost got him arrested in Mexico and a free beer in Jamacia. Speaking of Jamacia - "Welcome to the F#@% Shop". Being MR Perfect in room 5203 the first 3years he escaped most of the legendary ballbusting, but now he is the focus of our efforts in this, our senior year. Ian goes by many names: BrownieBear, PunyPuff, PappaSmurf, Gay Little Buddy(because he gets so many chicks), Short, Fat, & Bald, Joe PRT Boy. Brownie is definitely the "feminine" member of Room 5203, "Your not wearing that out tonight, are you?", "Yeah, 90210 is on tonight.", and DRIVING - enough said. It only took you till NOV to pass the PRT(Sophomore year) - "its not my fault I have short fat legs". Those fat legs propelled the "Flying NeckRoll" on the football field for 1.5 seasons - getting up to an extremely round 245lbs. Ian was always one to have a fresh Rogaine bottle in the cabinet. He has without a doubt, the easiest life at USNA, after 10 hours sleep -"I'm so fu#@%&g tired". The biggest whiner at USNA- nothing is ever cold enough, hot enough, loud enough, etc... Tom came to the Academy planning on SWO, but little did he know... Had all those Plebe summer rates memorized and showed us some intense chow calls. Fifteen credit English major every semester! From the Internet to the business to NBA Jam to a good book--there's always something more important than studying. "No, Tom, the Dow hasn't changed in the past ten minutes." Remember the Fool four. "I think I'm getting bigger–what do you think?" Nice posters! Ever take that Mustang out of first gear? "Tu-tu, do you think this shirt is alright?" The consummate dresser. Corrupting Raz. Squealing "Nooooooooooo!" when you thought your computer was dying plebe year. Party central for those Army/Navy weekends. A real family man. From a devoted, SWOtivated five-and-diver to flyboy select. I knew that aviation cruise would change your mind! All it took was two Hornet rides. Long talks about the females. The Officer of the Watch is... BSGTMAJ. Guys, I think I found the smell. Leaves and honey. Ride that ChooChoo! Having the smallest squad plebe summer. Long conversations about sharing the love. "Are you feeling the funk or keeping it real?" So you thought that getting counseled plebe summer for having peanut butter stuck in your mouth would end your Navy career, huh? The only plebe to get demoted to a 5/c, saluting and greeting all the coke machines. Well it turned at ok... BC! Showing up on I-Day with a mustache. Plebe summer roommies: "Dan SHUT UP!" Plebe year went ok... getting up at 0530 every morning to shine your shoes paid off! FEATHERS! Scraping up the hockey puck in the middle of the night. Remember plebe year at Lt. Alsop's? Biggie Smalls and NBA Live '97? Sitting in Prof Wooten's class nudging each other awake. Tijuana youngster year, who's gonna holla at her...right right right. Don't borrow Ja's car. Bourbon St. at 5am. Nylon stockings at National Conference. Rollin' in the S-10 baby. Why your girl hate me so much? Jacuzzi bathtub at ring dance. We the survivors of the wrath of LITTLE MAN wish to leave these words as evidence to all those who were never privileged to know him as we did. To those unfortunate souls that were not privileged to engage Mark in any of the various late night philosophical discussions, consider yourself deprived of his aromatic retorts punctuated by the frequent slamming of closet doors and shuffling of Little slippers. We would be remiss in our biographical duties if we failed to mention his random lapses into unadulterated "seat's taken" attacks on Michael Gump or his flying rages at the mention of 'tippy tappy tap." The calming effects on the ever complaining LITTLE MAN by the other LM are unequivocable. What's your name...A man of great faith...a changed man...Zapato... 4 years ago, Shu "Shake Mbuti" Street decided to move north from his hometown of Jacksonville to attend school here on the banks of the Severn. Shu's an awesome friend, an incredibly interesting guy to get to know, a great guy to be around- but the thing I like most about this brother is his sincere heart. He loves the Lord, seeks the Truth and has been an example for many. Unless he's got me fooled, he works hard and takes his job seriously. I believe Vance AFB in Oklahoma has been notified and is now preparing for the arrival of this standout midshipman, as he will soon take to the skies. Mr. President (a.k.a. A plebe superstar...an "A" performer...Regimental sergeant major...the model midshipmen. And then there was Sexy Shauna. WHAT A GREAT IDEA!!-DPS. Put it in your mouth. He tried to cover his ears like any hero, but the WUBA Siren's song was too sweet. They called him to the rocky shore of procrastination, fraternization, "ski weekends" and late nights. Nocturnal by nature, he truly felt he was most "creative" at 3:30 a.m. (the week after a paper was due). This led to many days, and classes, spent "catching up" on sleep .... "Dan, don't you have class now?" "Ahr for President 2015." Captain Coordination decided to test his 21st birthday powers on his Close Combat Instructor from Quantico. How can I summarize my best friend in one paragraph? We've been through it all, from stalkers to sledding accidents. It all began one summer night at 3 am. We hit it off from the beginning. How could I not like Amy? Lots of late nights up talking (oops, don't tell the upperclass, we'll get caught.) Let's go to the mall, it only takes two hours if you take the bus. Now who are we allowed to date, again? You do the floor, I'll do the shower. Do you want to go sledding with me? Let's go to D.C., I heard they have some great clubs there! Carving pumpkins on the floor. Amy, I'm so glad you got us a phone so I can talk to my boyfriend all the time! Do you think we could add any more Christmas decorations this year? How many plants do you think we can fit on one windowsill? I'm thankful for all of the good memories, but it's the hard times that strengthened our friendship. This kid came from WV with visions of submarines in his head, and knew more about the Navy than his detailers. That's what you get when you're reading Proceedings by the time you're5. How did we ever make it through 4 years of torturing each other? Good thing the clucky chicken was there every step of the way. Plebe year was tough without your music, but once we got that privilege, there was never a quiet moment, even during your 6 hour daily naps. Youngster year brought more than that, it also brought some interesting O-3 "friends" who left no doubt that navy folk were friendly, especially in Newport. Damn labels. Going to Nashville in search of good tunes? Naw, all we experienced was deja vu. The G-man changed majors, changed service selection, changed girlfriends, but never lost his roommate. ...You made it man!! Coming from a city with your same last name. You've definitely made an impact at USNA!! You've made people smile, laugh, and cry, but we ALL knew where you were coming from. From trying to get on the soccer team plebe year to working out everyday with Gunny to prepare for the next physical test... Remember going head to head in basketball competitions... Someday I'll introduce you as the person that wanted to date my cousin and the person I met before I-Day because you were my other cousin's best friend! Tim came to us a young innocent child from Nacogdoches (hit you in yo eye), Texas (Go DRAGONS!!). The innocence lasted through plebe year and on into youngster fun. As a plebe he only got in trouble for others. As revenge for this he looked for two innocents to draw into his tool company. "It's a really cool company" or something to that effect. Youngster year was pep rallies, Severn swims with Randy and without anything. Sleeping during Physics final, chicken mcnuggets, thoroughbred, a Dynamics wizard and a damn fine water balloon gunnery officer. Second class year evil finally began to rub off on poor Timmy. Marathon, sleeping through urinalysis, TB, no sleep, "I hate my major", lost in D.C., Ring Dance selection was difficult, Robbie won, Kate lost and TB really lost. Then the chronic diareaha hit. Tim really found his calling in life (_ _ _) over firstie summer. No formations, Lost in D.C. again, assault on the Pentagon, Philly smells, drunk roommates and robotics finals mix well, mongolian bbq, wlb awards(Olive Garden). Can you believe it?, three whole years holding out and then he could take it no more! What ever happened to that scuba diving? Gilligan's Island. Your turn to row! Making deposits in a bucket on our fishing trip. How about some raw fish, it looks better on the rooftops. Wow you stink!!! Damn that looks like rain, looking over the windshield with no top on the MG! Sitting on top of the truck chucking cans at Dick's tent. Hey how about some pizza, a little talking to Ralph, and then chase some guys down the street into a bar, Lucky them! HOT WINGS! Vegas, CO's wives. Always a great friend. Tobo, enters a Schuylkill Valley Panther, and leaves a Yellow Jacket? Everything you touched along the way was golden (including that patented tile rinse). 0500 mornings of cold water, and 3000m days paid off in an N-star. The exercise and fiber paid off with perpetual entertainment and a blender. Endless hours of trigger happy bliss paid off in an unbroken bond. A man made of three very specific, but interlocked parts. You nailed down the grades in that hour between Kenny's death and CivII, finalized that workout schedule (the other 22 hours a day), and now you've found the mysterious keystone. Don't keep it because it's a perfect match, keep it because it's the only one that keeps up and won't let you stop. Off to the grad school of your choice, let MIT down easy, rejection is bad for their image. A brief stay underwater, and then you can live that dream of raising little ultra marathoners, from the VP office. The wit never changes, but is always better the longer it lasts, I can't imagine any other trend in our friendship. Hi...my name is slim shady. It is 5 minutes until taps, have you seen Manny? The most underutilized slotback in Navy football history. Smoothest hands on the field--and with the ladies. The cell never stops ringing. Usually just the small forward from the Knicks. Done more than his fair share of time on the line. Probably not all that he deserved though. Sweet Manny, how many Gators killed for your boots? Okay I'm done doing my restriction, its your turn now. Best squad firstie in history. Doesn't say much though. He'll wind up being fat one day, just like the rest of us. But till then, keep that thin bootie shakin at the clubs, you'll still have better luck there than any of your boys will. Mark came to us from Boulder, Colorado. Plebe year was a maze of sponsors daughters and fun with weird roommates. Ahh the memories: Liz, KJ, Oompah, Eddie and Stump, Torian, Liz, Liz, Cesari and to put an exclamation point on our first year there was the butt in the moonlight incident. Youngster year began (in a new and wonderful company) with your girlfriend trying to kill you but nearly knocking off your roommates. We still can't eat McNuggets. Hope you don't inherit dads sense of direction. The rest of youngster year was the endless drone of his alarm clock, Physics final. 2/C Year included the Marathon, Darts (Mark was quite good at Shanghai, but couldn't hit the wall in other games), Look for wedding ring or see pictures of kids, lost in D.C., late night labs, killing Cacti. Cockpit, Angie, strawberry girl, and one hot limo. Spent more hours flying than roommate did in class. Mark's awards include Dole with cluster, and Doll(e). 1/C year we were all "just friends." The man affectionately known as Stefunk came from the Iron City as the swimmer with the broken back and ended up spending more time on the links and volleyball court than in the pool. Following his "formal" education in the garden state, he eventually weaved his way back to Annapolis and reality. He turned 21, became an alcoholic for a few months, and then suddenly quit altogether(?) after developing an odd fear of abusive nurses one night. Petro's stealth plebe returned to his roots and became the stealth firstie with the stealth girlfriend. Any jet jocks out there? "Me,Me,Me!" . . . . .yeah, Chris, but E-6's?

(Do they count?) He's damned himself to Vance, but he seems to think he'll do well; we do too. Good luck out there with the tumbleweeds; we'll see you when you're done with your stint with the Air Farce. Take care. Stay in touch. -GJE, CMA

Though he came from West Virginia, with nothing but his southern charm, he left a trail of broken hearts, including his own. Between stains from Hooters, blondes in leather, plastic bottle projectiles, spring breaks in Florida, adventures in Mardi Gras, and the tangled mess of his love life, Benje was always up to something. Those closest to Satan, however heard the D&B commander playing a different tune. We remember muddy football games, trips to WV and Boston, standing ovations in Dublin, Taco Bell runs over detail and corpsmen "fixing" his foot. The oldest Brady son was forever starting workouts with Toby, only to lapse into silence in the most intimidating room in Bancroft. Fortunately, Benje followed the cop's advice before the Mack truck got him. Poppa Sop, the pied piper of band girls laid it on so thick, he used whole dairy farms. It must have worked, because we all will miss him when he goes to grad school. We wish you luck, Ben, but we wish the girls in Monterey even more luck, they're going to need it. -TFB -CKM -TRL

Grizzly Bear is one of her many nick names. Amanda Barrett Adams-Simmons, nice name.... "Hi, nice to meet you, my name is Barre." Bear??? "Yes, barre, like the animal." I first saw her at the sailing center. Four eyes with her dark rimmed glasses, her vision is a solid 20/800 and she will not recognize you with them off. Even now when she is found studying into the wee hours of the morning it is with her headphones on playing Celtic music, nibblers at the side of her lab top and those same black rimmed glases perched on her face with the help of a safety pin and missing one arm. Break adventures from Colorado to the Keys and on cruises, but always back early to sail in the greatest conditions...frozen jib sheets, snowflakes, no wind, too much breeze, 7 stiches....she's been through it all and somehow survives without killing her partner. Coach Peter. Thanks for always rigging 3, 23. Due to her past romances everyone thought she'd go Marines but in the end her best friend went instead. JC came to us from Naperville, Illinois, as an overly-serious, slow talking midwesterner. Resilience and motivation have been John's saving grace...30 days restriction (thanks KJ), two shoulder surgeries, and two tours in PhuBai ('68, I believe). A true ladies man, John simultaneously managed to charm his Chicago following, woo a darling local, dabble in the realms of the dark side, and flirt with the second baseman of the New York Yankees. If you were in Oberlin for Male Exotica you'd know why he's called Pogo. Many good memories of trips to Nova in Carmeggadon/Carpocalypse (a moment of silence would be appropriate). "If you respect the car, the car will respect you." With a little faith and a ton of luck it'll get you to Atlanta and back in a weekend. Who is John Collins? Some knew him as a sympathetic friend to the beauties of Bancroft; others feared him as a published Navy mess critic; still others simply knew him as an Irish Mc (or Mac?) who claimed to "beige" in the presence of the sun. He was NOT, however, the "Bastion of Hope"...nor was he as "strong as oak" as he once claimed. R.E.M.'s other #1 fan came to us from Looivul,KY. I-Day issue lines resulted in go-fasters and fast friends, "No one is going to get us down." Plebe year: kinky PQS, SRT training, and dreamy firsties. Youngster year you became "Worthy" and learned more lessons than you'd planned. PRO-TRAMID 97: The infamous drunken classmate revealed! A summer of skinny dipping, hoowahs, red lips, Miracle Gro, splinters from a Canadian work-bench, Grover, frogs on bikes, and late night runs with back-packs. Second class year? Episodes on the highway and in the doorway. "Sure D, I'll fly to Alabama" only to run into a molesting mexican! "Gtown Evelyn" couldn't recall her HS year, but she could charm any ghetto club crowd with her dancing moves. Always the perfectionist and there when she's needed. Common Cooter phrases include: "I can drive" and "Sure, I'll do it." Off to fly with the big boys now...just remember, G - it's all about the lips, K? -DJC

Packrat...rice krispy treats flying all over the place...dirty clothes on your chair. Why don't you clean your side of the room for once??? Threats of being thrown out the window. Emma (pregnant?)....Jess....Ring Dance with Kim (truly madly deeply, baby!!!)....and now Laura. Where did you two meet anyway??? Did the Tribe lose another World Series??? Ken are you on AOL again???? More McDonald's???? "I'll have the supersize Big Mac with a nine piece Chicken McNugget, please." Always making your own rules...sleep through formation and breakfast...why bother going right? You were at practice instead. Yeah right. Grandma...You Stink. Oh how I hate Ohio State...go BLUE!!! I still got 3 out of 4. Who's your daddy???? Rock on...I'll see you in Pensacola.

You didn't know anything plebe summer, but you were always motivated. "Gotta go! Gotta go! Gotta go!" Say, how long had Admiral Larson been in the Navy? "Hey, Locher! You've been jammed, you dummy!" I know, you really are going to kill Aron this time. He's still looking out our window, by the way. You and your women -- can I call you Don Juan? How is Colt 45 these days, anyway? You're dating whose sister? No, you can't have another beer...two always was enough for you. As a roommate, you were always there for me. After all, who would have been the brunt of all my wonderful jokes if we hadn't lived together? Good luck with everything.

Guys, Navy Davy came to us from Mercersburg Academy, talking of Skipjacks and Chesterfield, or was it Chesterville? The only one to have already memorized reef points by I-day, Rubberneck was the happiest plebe ever. Whether Crazy Legs was playing club lacrosse, driving his 4x4 Honda Accord to the farm, or kayaking down the Chester river, Tradish was always in his element. Whether you knew him as Ghetto Dave, Vice, Goat Boy, or Mubason, he was always up for "BIG" weekend plans with "dave-cute" girls, clad in L.L. Bean. When he wasn't checking E-trade, the future ethics chair was single-handedly saving the Bay and keeping Kodak in business. For someone who slept half of the day, it's incredible that he went to Japan, Israel, Korea, Germany, WAC (yeah, Angus), and Mom's while he was here. Best of luck in the Surface Warfare Community. What can you compress into 200 words about this kid...a true fighter pilot, and dark side wing commander? He's seen it all from engagements to JEN, to getting played by his plebe several times, to the IH(C)P, to outback waitresses. What about the shenanigans at ring dance... "BEN, ENJOY MY DATE." This guy's had it all in the room, from quiet time on Sunday nights, to Kama Sutra motion lotion, to Doug's bakery with his easy bake oven. An excellent performer on his latest PRT, when was that - first semester plebe year??? Yea you did miss your own 21st. Sux for you we had fun at Polly Esthers. Though a true leader on the intramural field... he's got trophies and play books as proof. He is no stranger to Navy Medical either. How many surgeries have you had? Florida has everything -gators, beaches. Ever since I was 2 years old I wanted to be a fighter pilot. "You're conceited!!" Good luck at flight school. To the friends who have been lyin', cheatin', stealin' and drinkin' with me for 4 years - friends are my one real regret in leaving this place. No trouble is worth anything without a friend to get into it with or drink worth raising without a friend to down it with. Like Jimmy says - "for all of our running and all of our cunning if we couldn't laugh we would all go insane." From the beginning with the boys from 150's I bled with during fifths all the way through to the end when Barbara ran with the Funk Soul Bruthas - wow - over the years we were as fricking cunning as you can get. Thanks guys - for getting me through these 4 god-forsaken years. It's all about making memories. You all know who you are - you were there - you have the pictures - I'll see you all around the way - because as REK says - "The road goes on forever - AND THE PARTY NEVER ENDS!!" To Mom & Pop - I can't say it enough - you made all the difference. You have given me the encouragement and support I needed all these years to get me where I am. I love you both. Jake - live it up buddy!! keep laughing at me!! - one day these 4 LONG years will pay off - and then I'll beat you with this damn ring just to make sure you know it!! Laura - I am confident you can accomplish anything you want - just don't even think about doing it here!! "So long, see you around - seen all I want to see of this town. I'm out of time and I'm out of tears, out of my mind and I'm OUT'A HERE!!" Keep it FREE, 19 !!

Dave joined D&B so that he could get out of every formation in order to beat his drums like a madman. "Are you talking?" David's neurosis include: Hiding in closets, perpetual cheapness/ stinginess, and overcleanliness. "Is anyone hungry?" He came with the crew from 23. If the FBI comes to you to ask where Sean Hughes is, tell them to look where Sinatra is always on the radio, the Flyers are always winning (?) and men sit and talk about how they would have been in the NFL if it took heart instead of speed and size. If a pretty girl is in search of Sean tell her to just go home and Sean will surely find her, but if your girlfriend ever is looking- well you better lie to her or dump her before she finds him. If a drinker is looking for Sean, pack up whatever your doing and go look with him because when they get together it is going to be a good time. But when you go, be sure to bring your passport, your handbook of Mexican phrases (with the talking to strippers chapter highlighted) your alka-seltzer, your coffee, and your star wars trivia book. It was awesome having this human encyclopedia as a roommate. A.J. knows almost everything there is to know in the physical universe, and is working on the spiritual. He's pretty dedicated and takes his work seriously. So seriously, he can usually be found paying homage to all his instructors by continually bowing before them with his eyes closed throughout each class period. He may have developed a permanent bow in his neck from this constant display of honor, but that has yet to hold him back, or keep him from getting all A's at the same time. Don't get me wrong- Adam also knows how to party. He's often been seen head-banging to his varied collection of music, and has been causing havoc all over the country in his debate travels. (and now they're sending him to Oxford?) A.J.'s been an awesome friend, one who almost always has a good answer for about anything, but the thing I respect most about 'em is his love for the Lord Jesus Christ and his willingness to stand for the truth. (The honor striper) But there is one catch to this man of truth. Don't try to argue with him- he's one of the best debaters on the east coast. Matt Malinowski (a.k.a. Ski-Love) came to us at the Academy from the small town of Trenton, Michigan. Although unusually skinny for his age, Mal was a scrapper from day one. The Academy almost got the best of him Plebe summer, but he gutted it out like he always does and boy did Mal go places. Like in a trash can on Hospital Point, or even better, in the corner of his shower. Hey Ski, don't forget the Taco Bell wrapper. Despite getting straight A's for the past 14 years of his life, Mal still managed to find time for the girls. First came the girl pinned to the wall at Mitch's, followed by his ROTC queen on the Enterprise. After a long search, Mal finally found the girl for him in a drunken dancing frenzy and her name was Jessie. Some thought she was a robot created to look like his sister (evidence found in the pictures on his cork board). Mal was always there to add the nod of approval in any argument. Going on to fly the friendly skies, we all feel safe. Just make sure his new friends realize he is actually sleeping, even if his eyes never close.

Patrick came to the Naval Academy from the unforgiving and untamed lands of Northern Virginia. His prospects looked low from the very beginning when his detailers saw fit to room him with "Private Pyle." After surviving the horrors associated with being roommates with a diseased pyscho, Pat planned on being a Marine Engineer or perhaps a Naval Architect. When he found out how much "fun" either of those choices could be, he wisely decided to pursue a field of study in Computer Science. A track team dropout, he became involved (read: enslaved) in Masqueraders and the Glee Club Musical at a young age and continued in both activities throughout his four years at USNA. Someone saw fit to give Patrick some stripes firstie year and despite overzealous use of the "striper duties" excuse he still managed to pass all his classes and maintain that barber shop program. Though his father and grandfather may have hoped otherwise, Pat got hooked on Naval Aviation and is due to go on down to Florida in September. He is very excited about NFO school and figures he'll begin missing the Naval Academy in about six years or so, after the scars have healed.

It took all the power we had not to fall for Matty's pretty boy surfer looks. Unfortunately many east coast women weren't so lucky. Hailing from the fine planet of Southern California Matt was skilled in the arts surfing, pole vaulting, studying to punk music, scaring away beautiful women, high stress decision making, and taking it to the dome! This desert child from Scottsdale, AZ. came to CanoeU. with high goals and lofty aspirations. Fortunately, he always seemed to meet them. As the 4A player of the year he quickly earned his place, and about 20 nicknames. Always touted as the GoldenBoy, few knew of the sinister schemes his brain could contrive. Sat, Sun, Mon... marathons with DD, 17's, Doc's workouts, 110's... Its a good thing we had so many loving sponsors to keep us healthy-Marcine's veggies, Mrs.M's pizza, Michelle's apple crisp! He made it home at every possible opportunity. The Clothes Monger also spent the majority of his time with a roommate who greatly admired him, most of the time, although usually showing it in a roundabout way. He was still cordial enough to let him ask his sister to Ring Dance. These two shared many great talks over cigars at Triton Light. Follow your dreams, bro! -Sturge/ You are a hopeless romantic. But your wife someday will reap the benefits of all our Lord has taught you these past few years. It's been amazing to watch you live and learn as Christ has taken ahold of your life with abandon. You've been my best friend and brother in Christ these 4 years on the court and off. Thanks for everything. Prov 27:17/ Prov 18:24 YBIC-JBills

The Midnight Talker wandered into this bayside community from a place they called The Rock armed only with a guitar and a shoulder to cry on. From Track Star to Rack Star, a bit of everything fell into the young Irish lads life during his four years here. Often labeled the nice guy, few truly knew of the devious thoughts rattling around in his cavernous head. He made near and dear to our hearts such trademarks as strategically place wet underclothes and the lovable justification man. With respect to the lass in Harrisonburg, the nonthreatening one often won the hearts of those members of the opposite sex who crossed his path. Who could forget the trips to BC, Gtown, Duke and of course the pilgrimages back to the Rock. You know, everyone has a girl in the Rock. That's right, 10 DMB concerts in one week is by no means excessive. After all, why should you not do something just because you can't afford it. If you ask him, he's sure to tell you how 1Beer+35minutes=90 Days+1Christmas+1ThanksGiving. He ran away with the demerit title and ran away with our hearts. Truly one of a kind. Without him, this place wouldn't have been bearable. SH RS CM MM JW MP

It is always helpful to have a good Sturge around. He can get things from high places without a ladder, or scare away little children or eat any food you can't finish. If you want to go get your groove on or your swell on or your drink on you'll have a good wing man. The heart of the Marine Corps and the motivation of the Suppy Corps a Sturge strikes the perfect Navy balance. His slight tendancy to go UA (and get caught 3 times?!) think with his stomach, fall for tall girls, pass through Leesburg on the way to anywhere, and dance the dance of the caucasion may cause some initial frustration. A two time member of the all airport team and the scrub squad, he might never be an all star but he'll always be picked first. Sturge also comes equipped with his own slow jams soundtrack and a car any grandfather would be proud of. If your lucky you and your Sturge can travel to the land of Hoya girls or Blue Devils. Maybe you can cruise up to Boston or Philly or the Garden State for some of the best times ever. If you do go, bring an extra sandwich for the big fella and he'll repay you by being a great guy and an even better friend. Stick SH MP MM JW CM

Joshy came to 19 from Chicago with a few extra holes in his head and an amazing sense of direction. Fat-boy started looking a little skinnier and we learned quickly not to drink from old pop cans while everything turned into his spitter. After a year of sleeping in borrowed crew clothes and make-shift underwear, Dirty Nasty starved himself for another go at football to be saved by dreams of drinking from cool mountain streams with the fish. With no uniforms himself, Josh's locker became 19's own Bermuda Triangle - anything lost was in there if you dare go after it. Battling with nearly every roommate, Joshy believes "life is a competition, and I'm winning since no punches hurt me!" But women were a different story (except for 23 year old mothers and plebes), and everyone knew when it came to Lisa, the mighty Joshy had struck out. But eventually Joshy grew on Lisa as he had for the rest of us - like a fungus. From rowing, through famine, and finishing with a beer and a few fresh fish, all Joshy needed to get by were tums, tobacco, tuna, and tea - the recipe for a great friend.

Krazy Katy she is. "I make a damn good latte!" said Katy plebe summer at Chaplain training of all places. OK, yeah, she screwed up a few times plebe year. Maybe it wasn't a good idea to test drive her dream car in Baltimore. But hey, c'mon, it was her dream yellow Saab 900 Turbo convertible. What a car! After that is was tower jumps, PRT's, roommates, less than stellar performance grades, miserable marines and marine wannabe's, and a bad relationship that all gave Katy problems. However, she never gave up. Through it all, she persevered and lived to tell about it. Things started to look up when 2/c year brought with it new challenges, more new roommates and little bit of cradle robbing. It's all good. Besides, who would pass up fresh orange juice and free rides to pick up her car every weekend? He turned out to be a really good thing and despite a bit of criticism, it looks likes they're in it for the long haul. "Just be careful!" says everyone. In any case, she survived as everyone knew she would. Best of luck and we know you'll do great in flight school and beyond!

Let's see.... The best thing to say about Joe Gryder is that he gets to know people. Never try to walk anywhere with him, because there's always a girl, usually a youngster, that he needs to pester. That's how he gets dates, you know, pestering people until they give in. Persistence counts, I guess. Never one to rest on his past laurels, Joe managed to wiggle his way into two striper positions his senior year. Never before has a regimental XO had more creases in his uniform than first semester this year. Second semester, watch out. As YP Commodore, Joe managed to set the standard by teaching the plebes in the Power Squadron the invaluable skill of making grilled cheese sandwiches. Joe will always be there for you, no matter who you are. Although, it doesn't hurt to be a youngster female. What's that saying again, Joe? "The older you get the more they stay the same age?" Following in his brothers' footsteps, Mox left the ranch and arrived at USNA subconsciously determined to be the first one in his family to get fried. Assigned to the same company as his infamous oldest brother ("Are you going to be as cool as Clint?"), plebe year was a joke. All traces of caution were left beside Herndon, and he began to chase his destiny with the Deputy. Armed with the trusty Prelude, Mox became the 3/C transportation officer. After many near disasters, his luck finally ran out during PROTRAMID on a Pensacola roof ("WHAT WERE YOU THINKING!"). Battle-hardened by 30 days restriction, he decided that leave expiration times no longer applied to him (make that 37 days restriction). With the arrival of 1/C year came a shorter list of rules to break and his conduct record stabilized. Service assignment solidified his future as the most laid-back 2LT to pursue an infantry billet. Through it all, his unique attitude led to acceptance and admiration by nearly all of his classmates. He showed his high-strung roommate how to enjoy life and proved himself to be the kind of friend that most think only exists in works of fiction. MRS

Ben sailed to Annapolis from southern Alabama with a smile on his face and flatulence in his shorts. He was usually breathtaking, occasionally dangerous, but rarely stinky. It could have been King Hall or an overactive metabolism, we'll probably never know for sure, but we'll always enjoy. Known as a friend to the barbers, the skindog to the liberty log, and Dicky to his company-mates, Ben has been a source of laughter and fun. His quick wit and keen sense of humor lightened conversations and heightened spirits. He was one of the most generous souls one could meet, he was always quick to offer a hand or at least company to the head. When reminiscing about the days at school Von Skeiner's song will always be remembered.

Coming to us from top of the world ("NORTH POLE HIGH SCHOOL, NORTH POLE, ALASKA? IS THIS SOME SORT OF JOKE?") Matty was destined for stripes. His first two years here Matty remained quite sheltered ("I don't know how to get to the mall!") even though his youngster year roommates doubled the number of times he had been "under the table," in one weekend. 2/C year introduced Matty to the joys of restriction, having one roommate stand 30 days, and then the other one stand 60 days. We expected to see Matty down at muster soon, but he managed to use his head and squeak by. Then ironically, after the grief he gave his friends, Matty fell to the "Dark Side" and has been there ever since. With 1/C year came a more relaxed look on life (majoring in having fun and graduation) and the unwanted, but much deserved Batt Comm position. In the end Matty got what he wanted, a flight contract, but instead of with the Navy, it is with the Marines. He influenced his roommate to break the books and proved to be the kind of friend that most people would call a brother. NLM

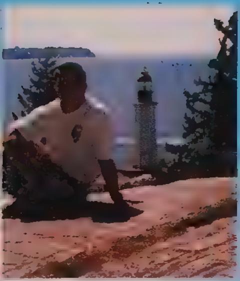
None of us ever met a man more determined, who could leap buildings in a single bound, and get a girl's number without even trying real hard. One thing comes to mind when we think of Colin Supko: HOO-YAH. In every way, in your face, in the end-zone, with the honeys, out of a helo, into thewater. Every time, baby. The man affectionately called swim buddy would never even think of quitting, but watch your bar tab. Hoo-yah, sups. see you on the beach. I know you got my back, and you sure as hell know I got yours. Coronado, watch out. See ya at BUD/S just dont take too long getting there The Tiger..it was good hunting...The things I could say about you. What was her name again? Which one? You know I'd never ruin you, like you'd never ruin me. Though I can't believe that ballroom dancing crap always works. Where's Sup? Probably with some chick. A toast to honor and you know the rest Here is to being taken and STILL having fun. We learned that one. there's more than just dumb GW and Umd girls, we're brothers. I couldn't have had any other roommate and made it. I'm sure you'll marry some millionaire model and have ten kids. Another day another cage Pornstar and stripper need I say more. Heartbreaker, Long live Max and the girls who thought you were cute playing with him. But for now, just hold that laser pointer real steady....SAS...BWB.....DMF...thanks brothers!!!.



Last year THE 2 roommates became 3. Anthony, like anyone ever called you that. Big Tone, Tony, Navy Diver, the 100K man or just plain biyatch. Its ok to listen to music not made in the 80s. Taxi cabs. Turn the music down. I'm upset. Hey Tone, can I please use MY computer? How often do they update the USNA homepage? U don't read Proceedings, but Men's Health, come on. Are you 22, or 40, be a kid once in a while. Designated driver, but drunk with your parents. Hey guys lets go to this new expensive restaurant I found while surfing the web. Tim, Jake, Dick Toriello here. So you never touched Liz? Riiight. Clean the room, we got it. I'm mad at you. I'm dropping the hammer. 4th Batt Admin, its ok to sleep, you don't have to be up at 0500. Tony you need to watch this, "video." Yes Proceedings does come on DVD. Do you have to be that ripped to be a diver or is it just to get all those women? So how was Spring break this year? Do you own a T-shirt and jeans. Eddie Bauer addict. We love Tony's mama. Luv ya rm4460

Neil, the whitest Jamaican beef patty we've ever seen. Plebe summer, you rowed crew and followed Meg like a lost, pathetic puppy. Plebe year: Steve nearly got us fried in our skivies; Army/Navy game bus ride home..."Wanna be adventurerous?"; achieved room rank of Midn 4/c LCDR; you passed the manly winter test; pre-Airborne while in evil Hodges' squad; the mice loved your Power Bars and Snickers. You definitely earned your Darth Vader action figure: countless midchicks, an airman, and one Woop. The most infamous, the Brigade XO: "Why didn't you ask me before you did that?" Two female "roommates" youngster year that we couldn't offend away. Nice try on the ultra-lame-never-will-get-approved-in-this-lifetime special request chits. 2/c homecoming dance: much vodka then puking on Dahlgren stairs. Then you bagged out and decided on pilot, English and squash. As roommates, you got Taylor's nonsensical comments, Vidal's vivid stories, and Kitcey's lamp light disturbing your 0400 slumber. Billy Joel was a must preparing for room inspections where the shower was just too dreadful to tackle Firstie year. Enjoy your posh VGEP pad and flying Navy. Fultime Struggle! Josh came to us from snowy Maine, always calm, quiet, polishing his shoes, and hopelessly devoted to a fiery redhead. Hoping you had a two-man on I-day. In came your worst nightmare. "F-this, F-that, F-medical, F-you." Remember the night you came back and...smell this. Spoz in his underwear, and checking in on the neighbors. You never did approve. Youngster year, the mediator. He comes back from class one day "Hey, guys- I had an epiphany on the walk back from English. Marines suck. I'm going SWO." Pete comes to us from Washington State, or GOD'S COUNTRY as he likes to call it. The beginning was rough, with many doubts about this place, but PT has come to love USNA just as much as the next guy. Grades have never been a problem and neither have women. Every one he meets is "the one." PT, like a dog, is best left alone while sleeping. Spring breaks @ Das Boot! "Hey PT, wanna lollipop?" "How about a Barbie Sandwich?" "Nice Bum, where ya from!?" DC, or as PT liked to refer to it, the "CC" led to many memories. Ring dance weekend at the Willard. Sir, you're in the oval suite and the bill has already been paid. Late night jam session in the middle of the Pacific, da' man on the drums. The navy can blow me. Whether the topic was ladies or "business" (synonymous for PT) PT liked to keep things on the DL. Got to give it up to the WESTSIDE! Whether is was on the slopes, the B-ball courts, or the dance floor, PT was always smooth. Then there were women- "Respectfully, Peter Todd Aparico," "Nuff said, friends come first." a.k.a. Beergut: A great guy, a great friend who tried to sleep his way through USNA. Unfortunately, "the man" woke you up and brought you down. That didn't stop all of the great times and all the not so great times. From the days of high scoring with the baseball team (too bad you were a pitcher) to your days as an intramural stud, we saw the gut get bigger and your PRT scores got LOWEred. We also got to see the hair on your back outnumber the hair on your head. But in the end, it's all good. Hell, who would have thought we'd come this far? Certainly not Marky Mark, Wild Bill, or Big Bad Bob. We still can't believe you are tying the knot, well ok, maybe we can after looking at your phone bill. Now you can drive someone else crazy with your love of Billie Holliday. Be sure to use plenty of sunscreen down in Ingleside, we wouldn't want you to ruin the farmer's tan and be sure not to turn in to "the mute" when you are out in the real world. "Dude, I'm from Oklahoma, dude," he'd say in a voice that sounds like Arnold Schwarzenegger's impression of Jean-Claude Van Damme. But don't let his Oklahoman accent fool you. Born in Lyons, France, the Belgian Bologna is the product of ten years of Belgian upbringing. Huggy Bear to his mom, he conceals beneath his shy facade a quick and biting wit that has helped him to survive living in close quarters with the likes of Lord Invictus and Big Bird, and has continued to provide him cheap, easy entertainment as he employs it in the constant harassment of his innocent roommate. Melding his European ideals with those of the Naval Academy has produced an interesting result in Eric, culminating in his work ethic to strive for mediocrity in all areas at all times and his code of self, shipmate, country - something like that. Eric for HERO - "Here's a 9mm." Even as a detailer Eric's job of training the new plebes came second only to his time in the rack. At heart a hell of a good guy and a friend and roommate who makes the Naval Academy a better place to be, the sub community's lucky to have him. Best of luck at Charleston, dude. Benny hails from the "great" state of Iowa, home of acre after acre of America's cornfields (and not much else - but don't tell him that). Ben was something of an enigma plebe year, hell, we never even saw the guy. The few times we did see him (on one of the few days he didn't go to the library) he was either raging at Hoffmann or cramming in pro-knowledge. And lets not forget about the care packages he refused to share. Ben's proudest achievement here at the Naval Academy still is that he spent ten bucks a month for all youngster year, but we think his greatest achievement was passing out in a bathroom with a plebe. We didn't have the joy of rooming with Benny until 2nd class year, when we discovered how easy he is to take advantage of. The most passive roommate around. Who is this man? Straight from the New Hampshire highlands, Chill Will brought with him a reputation for giving some good "moose calls" and for being quite a ladies man. We have found these to be indirectly related. "Hey lady, mine's not small." Chilly has looked many places for his true love; his car, NAAA, but nothing could drag him away from his beloved mountains. This future Hugh Hefner may be the most locked on Mid, but he still needs to tone down the accent. "What type of CAH do you drive?" You slept 16 hours? Must have been some dream. The only man to successfully sneak ice axes onto an airline flight. Late nights, wardroom flicks, Dick's tricks by JJG, PT, and Chill. Loves Inverso. Did you really try Creatine? Deer on the floor? The only man to switch from PoliSci to Systems. Crew didn't stick and Chill ended up as an intramural warrior. No matter, the "moose call" is all he needs. Try to keep the other "noises" to a minimum and let your charm do the rest. Best of luck to you Chilly, you're sure to go far. Benny, Willy D, VJ, Pete, JAY HIGS and Showtyme

The little fella from the West Coast, hard-core...Second semester plebe year, "Dirty Thirty", T-Bone and big AL as roomates. Scaring the crap out of Levitt and Santare with the water fowl- "Is that a fantasy book T? You have disks full of that stuff?" Going to punches almost over stupid stuff...but we were OK as long as we didn't talk till after lunch. Youngster year, swim-bike-run ourselves into the ground, never could stand to lose...meeting '01s in the MacDonough pool, you always were dirty...beer in Boston during YP's...breaking glasses and carving the slopes in Tahoe, losing at blackjack in Reno...Which girl are you with now? Sis or Boston? I never can tell what your dirty ass is thinking. The white munchkin car...you wanna buy it? Dreams of finger cuffs. Always there for a friend and for the occasional plebe. Yea, sure I'll drive the 914 across country, what can happen? Next time you're pushing. How many roommates? Slam a ball off my brother's face, what a great roommate. AMS, JDP, KSK, JMW, KJH

Jeff Gordon, Mario Andretti, bring it on! The most athletic mid never to play a varsity sport, you came to us as pure as the fallen snow and left us a "White Stallion" who would slip out after taps to commit evil deeds. It all started when you arrived with blue and gold braids on I-day! (the legend!) What a way to start the hottest plebe summer ever , you constantly preached the importance of short showers "conserve water, save the bay!". So what caused you to lose your school boy innocence? Simply put; sleeping on the streets of Europe, discovering booz, topless British girls, losing the ball and chain and hangin' w/your roomates, Hookin' a Playboy Bunny, Bonnie & Louise, G-town, a 16 year old, Amsterdam (Dutch $ is worthless), Raving @ Buzz (are you rollin"?), Zei Club, an attempted mugging as well a stimulation show in London, there were the girls named Julie as well as the Christin(e,a)s, German-Dutch (twins)-Danish-and Serbian girls and finally 60 km of cycling through Danish countryside in search of something we hastily misplaced. Then there was Firstie year=commuting to school every morning, a few form 2's, & a lot of #$%ing (around that is), but it has all worked out: a solid relationship+a ticket to Pensacola. Of course all of this is only chapter 1— see ya in flight school! Your pals JTM&PT

Old man Doof, Swank & P-Star. Oldest mid at the academy, but you would never guess it when you go out, considering he is always the last guy to want to leave. Some of the things that I'll always remember are the ski trips "Oh, so fruity!" Getting das boot at Das Boot, Peelers.. Vancouver. "Fresh hot....anything". When little Roy would hit those notes, my legs turned to jelly. All the music we've bought. The sink after a good night of partying... The Jack and Jill party (well, I don't remember that one so well). Jewel, lumber jacking (tequila anyone?). Hamming Dave. I got the tool for that. Shooting the wise man. Check out this caulk. I only want one part done... Army Navy parties. Getting back from the Ram's head. ManchVegas. Driving the wrong way from Sully's, Ring Dance (getting my date drunk for me.) Going into business to make B-Handles. Babies? One thing has remained constant and that is your ass, as potent as ever, that is the one thing I won't miss about living with you. The man of the bountiful bouquet... "Don't worry, that won't stink..." Good luck and congrats to a great friend. -DJB, RPM, EZ

Where do I begin? Curses! Wallace came to us from dusty Oklahoma. For starters a man with your best interest at heart. My roommate every year but Firsty year (EH). I had to give him a break from all of my mischief. Through all and all I never gave up on him and he didn't give up on me. A true rider. We were sure he was born a Marine, but in the end he turned out to be a ship driver at heart. Hey Wallace, when are you going to buy that five string? Practice 2 hours a night. MAAN!!! The plebes have got to be crushed, and how are you going to kill them today? EVERYONE...must die. Minister of death. Someday you will rule the world, and evil will reign. Always so abstract, did you feel that last chord? I know you hated EE but I still think you are an intellectual, and boy can you philosophize. I must kill him....cause he is a piece of s____. Got blasted in fine form at the dining in, but flagrantly violated the Mess!! You deserve another drink buddy. Good luck following your dream, and even more, finding your best girl. Jaco ain't got nothin' on you. I know you said you want to forget us all, but we could never forget you. The hard-ass with a heart of gold. Congratulations on Graduating an EE. Spice Fraz, baller, musical master, Hail Mary, most importantly a good friend. We love you man. GG PT EH

From the tiniest state came this fine male specimen. John "the Italian Stallion" Gallucci, a.k.a. Gay Johnny, had quite the voice when we first met him plebe summer. "Gallucci, why do you sound like Popeye?" Lets not forget, this is the guy who never left his room without combing his hair or his eyebrows. John-the most compulsive midshipman-redefined the word "anal." Outwardly John appears to be calm, nice and well adjusted but those of us who hang out with him know that he's about as bitter/psychotic as they come. From late a night jam session in the middle of the pacific (the navy can blow me) to a huge weight cut (You wild, Eddie!) its been quite a trip. Although Johnny Bear will probably marry a gorgeous Itallian model, he'll always search for his long lost Peggy - the girl he's been eyeing since she hit puberty. And now this dirty old man is off to Pensacola, girls of Florida beware. A roommate who spends most of his time asleep he's also loyal friend and a great compadre. Unsure on what to do about his future, he constantly changed his mind until deciding on NFO, but the Corps lost a good lieutenant. We wish you all the best buddy! Spot, Spotnet, Sputt, Spurt, Spuzzy, Spizzy, Sputnik, Soulspot, G-spot, G-net, Dragnet, Speedster, Seal Team, Hair, Ed and oh so many more. This is our last counseling session so get the WTF list out. And don't talk without using your PPS, and speaking chain of command. Spot came to us from California talking of the surf but we are not really sure he ever road the waves. Constantly in search of everyone else's perfect female companion it came down to a coin flip for ring dance. Seat racing the mexican and the hamburger, who won? Towel on the oar? Was it cold or was the wood too much for your hands to handle? Did you ever pay that ticket for over a hundred MPH? Were you in that much of a hurry to get to the water? If you had your guitar in the car you might not have been driving that fast; too bad you didn't want to stick it in your own car. The only Sea Dog to row in the 1V for three years. From long stroking to compulsive workouts, Indian Ice has kept active these past four years. Plebe year brought on the dreaded "goggles" and the first of many 4.0's. Social drinking??? Hell no, pass the SoCo, dammit! "I wake up in the morning and I think, I'm fat." Never one for studying, Vijay had plenty of time for computer games, along with extreme eating binges of ice cream and potato chips. Through all this he still made time for his 20 minute "Oxy bath" each morning. He is not proud of the "Bloody A$$ Incident," but that does not deter him from his perpetual hunt for fine Indian women. Destined to be a bubble head, Ice was converted by the words of Jim Webb, the presence of Gunny Kirkendall, and the lack of workout space on a sub. He's gone from not wanting a plebe year to the three-button tuck, convinced the whole while that everyone was a "crack smoking man lover". As long as the mood factor stays low he will have a great journey to be sure. Good luck and thanks for being a great friend to us all. Benny, Billy, Chilly, Gay Johnny, Belgian Bologna

A.K.A. Nar, Spanky, Weasel, Bacon. Great guy and true cheese head through and through. The most over competitive man at USNA, regardless of sport or game. Too bad he could rarely hang with the big boys on the courts, fields, or wardrooms, something about messing with guys twice his size. We were worried about you for awhile, especially after living with Lord Invictus. You almost took the wrong road, but we are glad you saw the light. He still may have had an effect, causing some weird dreams, like MJ's ships in Okinawa?!! Hoffmann is a man of cutting wit and no fear. He loves cardboard tubes, "mutes" with kaleidoscope eyes, and playing racquet ball with other people's racquet's. An avid ice climber, Nar loves ravines and Bigfoot skis. However, at the table, Spanky is a pretty shy guy. If it smells bad, or doesn't include cheese, chances are he won't eat it...period (unless you bet him a beer or 2). In the field, Spanky has made a name for himself... that's all I can really say about that. Can I get a shake? I can remember where it all began. Sleeping with teddy bears. Why do fools fall in love? A question I keep asking myself. Now that I'm older and wiser and I've been around the world to find my baby. I must turn in my playa's card because... well you know. Be all you can be in Army!! Mike Wilkins Rico, turn around and look at the ball! A successful athlete, a scholar, and a Marine, are but a few ways to describe this man. If you told him plebe year that he would be on his way down the aisle in a few years he probably would have said, "No, that ain't me, keebe." Whether you call him Bucket or Sugarbeetle, you can always call him a friend. Chris "Chilly" Comora I will never forget the fellas. The time I caught "Biscuit" with those grocery bags up at Howard, or the time Manny traveled six hours down to Hampton to see this girl on Saturday evening and had to be back Sunday at 8:00. I will always remember how Chad had at least 100 career selections while he was here or how Jerry told us at NAPS that he didn't know where his parents worked. a.k.a. Mudbelly, MJ: "It don't mean a thing without the ring" The man with more medical appointments than there are ailments. It wasn't always that way. Once in a while he actually had a valid excuse for missing class. The best of these was with "Marky Mark" when he thought the baseball team had the idea or at least a real game. Of course, we never counted on him coming out to watch games that we weren't even at. He's a great guy and a great friend through these four years. He was an on again/ off again team trainer and basketball "player". During the years we became a fixture in Drydock. So much so that we had a pizza named after us: The Mudbelly and Beergut Garbage Pizza. And that's exactly what it was. Despite all his time in bed he was rather productive in non-academic areas of work. Just ask him about the Texas Computer Design Project and its subsequent uses. He liked to burst people's bubbles, ok only one particular person, but it's all good. MJ was an early riser, though not by choice, but we all knew he would make it. He came in the back door and slipped through the cracks with no help from "Wild Bill" or "Freddie". Keep it real and remember that nobody knows it but you. -GB, JJ, and the rest of the 22 crew

From the depths of Valley Forge Military Academy Willy D, a.k.a. Dad, came to us as the world's loudest man. A short trip to the Darkside, the drudgery of crew, and the "fire truck red" rash highlighted Plebe year. "Hey dad, my roommate has a little gas problem, can you help?" We all thought that Billy was "playin' for the other team" until January '98, when the "Kentucky Ball and Chain" came into the picture. But Elizabeth took Love Bear away from us forever. "Anyone seen Bill around? Oh yeah, he's with his girl." Along with being annoyingly nice, Dad has always been the paternal presence in the room. "Turn the lights on, you'll hurt your eyes." Knowing the dangers of alcohol Dad had the foresight to throw away all the alcohol we had during our Spring Break trip. And of course he assigned himself as the perpetual designated driver to his merry band of drunks. The only thing stopping Bill from success is his inability to eat fruit with his mouth closed. Despite all this, Bill has been a great friend and deserves the great life that lies ahead of him. We wish you all the best, buddy. Indian Ice and Benny

"Hey Bisagni, why is everybody laughing?" "I think someone expelled a flatus through their anus, sir." Francis (not Frank) provided us with plenty of laughter plebe summer and plebe year, usually at his own expense. Francis decided to take up the difficult major of English and made it his goal to see if he could hand in the most late papers in school history and still manage to graduate. Although he didn't manage to letter in any of the running sports he took part in, he did manage to get a letter for breaking the record of getting kicked off of the cross country team the most number of times. The man, the myth, the legend. 23rd's pre-Madonna. Part-time hacker. Moon-pies & root beer. Knows "effen" everything (or so he claims..). Trailer trash girlfriends. Year and half dedicated to Jen. "I have to hang up my White Works, cause it's the right thing to do." Very Deep Thoughts of the Day. Went to Ring Dance in a combat limo. "Pass the 20-sided die." Don Juan d' Smith. Weapons Detail stud. Large bruises. Putting up with our 3rd roommate. Chasing ducks. Hooked up with Chewbacca. Trips to White Pine, dating Boomie's high school friends. German exchange students. Got enough vitamins on your sink? Dodging the bullet...several times. The most organized room in the company. Borderline obsessive/compulsive. Adamantium bones. Nature boy. PT stud. Performed brain surgery on his Playstation. Ski trip restriction team (all American). "I had surgery on my wrist, therefore I deserve to wear white works all year." Living with the Notorious K.U.R.T. Immaculate hair. You're going to make a great pilot. Best wishes and good luck. -Alex & Will

The four years spent by the bay were definitely the toughest and longest years of my life. Thanks to faith and belief in God I was able to make it. The times that I will remember the most are being unable to go to sleep at night because my roommate snored so loudly. Also, hearing him tell every girlfriend that she was his queen and hearing him make numerous excuses of why he woke up 15 minutes past reveille. The Academy really wasn't that bad. I made a lot friends whom will always have a place in my heart. Well, off I go into the "Wild Blue Yonder." That's right, Air Force watch out here I come.....lots of long, hard hours and more sleep deprivation.

When you came to us from Estonia, aka the North Pole, you learned one thing quickly...You are not in Kansas anymore! You quickly adapted to our culture, although, no you may NOT wear a thong to my Mom's pool party. Every experience with you is an adventure- especially Spring Breaks and A/N games... Does it always flood in KY this time of year? WHICH Penn Station? An honorary member of VHS1-2, you been the author of many famous quotes: "I'll never date a younger man...wait, forget that, Tom is really hot!" You always remained in high style, especially when you refused to wear frams with jeans in NYC. By the way, how is your roommate situation? Anyone else want to pull on my arm? 2 kids- MAX! Have you been asked out by any of your plebes lately? any 3/c? You will be remembered most for your gracefulness and sage advice, "Don't worry, as soon as you start eating normally, you'll get it up again." Never forget Boris & Natasha. MLG – Only you could have made it look easy. From plebe summer with the Dirty Thirty to walking the stage with Twenty-Four, you've made life interesting. Plebe year. The Eagle Cruise. Just a sip – that fry might have been the best thing for you. Late nights and early mornings – how cold is it outside? Easter '97 – a godmother is born. Summer school & big decisions – glad you stayed. West Point & Colorado Springs – Someone had a good idea. OCF, Gymnastics, & classes– you couldn't have been busier. Salamanca, Scuppernong, Green Gables & Tango Company – it was a great summer. "We're there already? I guess I fell asleep." – Your first flying lesson. Ice cream. Twenty-six-point-two Marine Corps miles, and another three thousand memorable cross-country ones in the car. Will you proofread this for me? Never was one computer used for so many essays! Last of the true Dirty 30, Duffy made the tough transition from XXrunner to salty sailor and ski boy. The "Dude" (also FancyBoy) and his nose-length hair moved in with WuFive, Tubby, Wolfman, and the rest of the boys, and with him came a rep for hard partying. He could do it anywhere: DC @ the Lounge with his Capitol Hill boys, DTA as DMA making the circuit, the historic tailgaters (while avoiding marchovers), MardiGras (nuf said) or the annual All College Day fest with Dave (his twin brother) and other Pards. Also known as Mr.Vice (or GrogMaster), this soldier has defied all odds to overcome hard nights of partying to show up for races the next morning (definitely sober) and still win. "Skeletor" was a model midshipman whom with direction was led down the path of complete debauchery and utter dirtiness. "Stinky," a true warrior at heart, developed a lethal stench he would unleash from his under-carriage. Having no use for a toothbrush, weeks on end would pass without attention to the cleansing wand. "Merse," or dip, soon took over as a form of dental hygiene for the great ~Senior Holio who now saw Crest and Aquafresh as an evil plot against democracy. "Are you threatening me ?" And still, the power of his nuts grew....studying soon began to interfere with his drinkingÿchoker whites. Rowing crew, the sleepless wonder kept his roomates on alert as they lay in bed listening to the incessant hum of his vibrating tonsils. (Read in Cowboy voice) Now the story I'm about to unfold starts about four years ago, in 1995. On a hot day in June of that year a man by the name of George, G. H. Klaus or GEORGE!! to some, arrived at good ole' USNA. Now legend has it that George was from a land where things like alcohol, women, and general roguery of any sort just didn't exist, and I believe it. You see George's plebe year was pretty good from the administration's point of view, the trouble began Youngster year. It was all down hill after George's first Beer. About that time George started playing rugby and hasn't been without cuts and bruises since. According to George they hurt his game but I've never met another feller who had two ring dance dates and let's not forget the double dipping incident. Well George's 6 month vacation at USAFA didn't help much either. The tradition of all college day, several trips to DC and a few tailgaters firstie year sealed his fate. These days you might find George riding over the Mid-Atlantic Rigde but you still won't find a more considerate person or a better friend. Just don't give him any 151! DC

Ned came to the Naval Academy from nowhere in particular in Minn. A freckled, impressionable young man, he joined the Dark Side from a young age. Breaking every kind of PT record this place ever had, the Jedi force grew weaker as time progessed. Standout swimmer, Ned transitioned well to Water Polo with little effort, however, by the end of his time in Paradse (read: "Paradeise") he had sampled every sport this place had to offer. His demeanour may deceive you, yet Ned is the ultimate storm trooper. The White Works master. Usually found around the outer perimter of the Yard or underwater. Flex-offs. Creatine. Used to rap with Forte. Black Panties lurk. Good grades and a scuba bubble earned him a "golden halo" effect, but we all knew better. Went to bed earlier than the plebes. ECA tanning. Beware Trish & Mariah and long trips to Baltimore. We always told him he'd look funny without any eyebrows. Did he really have mono? Or just a great SIR chit? The headline reads, "Beaufort Ute Set To Enter The Academy." They were referring to the guy with four first names, and the only person at USNA who can speak Beaufortease. With his dual identity, Mason is Pedro, the mild-mannered Hispanic gardener by day and Cheetahboy, the spotted super hero by night. Known to shoot anything that moves, he has pelts of everything from a Chinchilla to a Grizzly in his room at home. He's never had any trouble finding women but has had some problems with women, namely older, married women, finding him. Responsible for a deadly love triangle among the JMU girls. And still looking for that 'brown-eyed' girl to tie the knot with. Classes were always Mason's favorite. How many time did he stress-out about having to come back early from break for a board. Never went to one though. True story: Mason flipped a coin plebe year to decide between History and Ocean Engineering for a major. Of course, at the time he was deciding whether he wanted to be a pilot or go medical corps. Navy pilot it is. 4 years of rooming together, going on spring break together, and staying up late chasing the mousekerwitz together. COE

The sweet little princess from Larchmont Yacht Club who we all love. She was that girl who always had a warm friendly hello every time she saw you. "Uhm, excuse me... could you please..." She has this unbelievable ability to get anyone to do anything for her. "Are you sure you don't mind?" She never quite managed to go to a restaurant and actually order directly from the menu without creating her own dish. "Could I have that on the side please?" She had her own set of rules. "Where's Fran?" Freakin' Fran - as the sailor who did her own thing on the race course and still won to the frustration and awe of her coaches. The fry: "Do you want to go hang out with the rest of the team tonight?" "Sure, why not?" But we're better people for it, right? I can't believe they gave us stripes... and let us keep them! The Jarheads are lucky to have you. The Carribean, $99 Black Jack, Colorado, the Keys, N'Orleans, Portand, New York, and every moment... thanks. She's been an inspiration and a wonderful friend. Carmen Fuentes is a person who taught me a lot these four years: never eat hoopla cheese, never date a history teacher, and never buy a tape of female marine corp cadences. Most importantly, she taught me that two very different people can be the best of friends. She pulled me through when I couldn't run anymore, she helped me stay afloat in the pool and in life, and she showed me what it feels like to have a sister. Contrary to popular belief, she doesn't hate ALL males (just most of them), she doesn't sleep ALL the time (just when she isn't in class), and she them), she doesn't sleep ALL the time (just when she isn't in class), and she doesn't ALWAYS wear black (she has grey sweaters, too.) She DOES, however, have a zest for life and love, unending patience, and the ability to see the beauty in everything and everyone. Thanks Car, for all the memories and all the future dreams. Pat came to us from the great white North. An accomplished Michigan surfer, Pat was always in search of the perfect wave, the perfect girl, and food. Although unable to find the first two, the third was a sure ringer every time. Pat, crowned king of the PRT, went from SEAL to pilot in just four years. Who would've ever thought that this fun-loving daredevil — the Plebe-year king of Email and illegal late-lights — would have risen to the rank of Academic Officer in his firstie year...a feat made even more amazing by the fact he was completely UNSAT the entire first semester (hooyah Steam!) Rooming with Drape combined with summers in California and at Rocky Mountain High...now all he wants to do is mountain bike, go to the beach and play outside. 99's Class Clown and Class Pres. When we met Ross he was that white trash kid from SC who joined the USNA cheerleading squad, had a high and tight, and was hoping to go Corps. Only through the care and influence of his friends (peer pressure), and convalescing (drunken debacles) at the Watergate and Charlotte's was Ross molded into the fine Naval Sub Officer he is today. His core values are as follows: There's no email too official to spoof, no beer too warm to drink, no Sunday morning too early to get drunk, and no woman too old to resist my charm. Unless Carla has him in lock-down, Ross will always "keep it real as F_ _ _ _!" Here are just a few examples: sleepin' in the Sundance, climbing balconies, driving in the LTD, sore fingers, uniform donations @ the Inner Harbor, post Club O reign of terror, Chloe, Teal, Tiffany, beer with Coke, Zima with a jollyrancher, NaZima, reggae against the machine, Ziggy, Busta, BR. Tim came to our fine institution from the grand state of Colorado. The "Tweedle Dee" of 32nd Company walked onto the D&B: The "amazing" cymbal monkey. The Swedish Chef was an ace at pro-knowledge and could give a half hour pro-report on the differences between a Glazed and Cake doughnut. Tim was the secret guardian of Mr. Dongarty's reading material. "Hey Andy can I use your printer?" Remember your 21st Bitrhday? That's OK neither does Chris. For some reason "tweedle Dum" lived with him for four years. He drove hundreds of miles on a flat tire trying to get a date with Killer's sister. Wasn't he "almost" married to Michelle during that trip? Or was he seeing that girl his mom set him up with from Hect's? If onlyTim was as good with women as his little bro. Instead of remaining a doomed fugitive behind the "Pine Curtain" of East Texas, you wheeled up north to the crabby world of Merryland. And here you've stayed for four years. How does a gonzo wanderer end up anywhere? I guess there's a certain bent appeal in the notion of remaining in a place where at any moment, a dozen lunatics can scream gibberish at you for not reading a newspaper. Now, it's time to go run a savage burn on the real Navy. "No! No! Stop the crazy gringo!" What have you learned from all the wandering? Texas is God's country; Mexico smells like rat-tacos; Catholic Boarding School Girls come in dozens of varieties; Europe is full of Europeans and small, ugly cars; and in Monaco, there is a bar called "Le Texan." Don't forget your roots. - PSD For teaching us the finer things in life, like white works, medical officers on a 1st name basis, traveling light and not planning a damn thing, one must be thankful. Will and Dave came oh so close to wearing permanent high-and-stupids, but pulled out at the last minute and sold their souls to Naval Reactors. How in the hell did they accept us? He spent way too much time with Bart O'Brien, but luckily that staged passed. Tell us, how was it that you scorched that con locker? Dave and Kyle got the show. It's time to ditch the Romeos Will. Lanky-Butt, Lurch, Critter-Crotch, The Big Unit. Hey Ken, did you service-select TWA or Delta? No, it doesn't look like a taco. How many times can you rebound off the same girl? "No! No More Johnny Mathis!" Ken, don't forget to wear a tie to inspections. Flying too low? Gimme a break! Speaking of breaking... let's talk about backs... "Helloooo! It's MORNING!" "Will you please stop scratching yourself?" Hailing from the posh neighborhoods of Connecticut, this pilot is, from his music to his golf, his drinks, his clothes, even his car (but it has a spoiler!) strictly bourgeois. The only forty-year-old they ever put into whiteworks. Saved many a day with Grandma's trail mix and the Box o' Healing, the instigator of many an argument in rm. 1211, the engineer of the YP Hurricane Weekend from Hell. We studied Ships and Aircraft, he memorized United's fleet. "Nice screensaver, but what's with the 747?" Ken Ritterbusch may not be money, but he sure beats whatever comes in second place. Thanks for the memories, Good Luck. The Roomies. WHN, JPT (& RNM)

As the tales grew to mythic proportion, the hair left his head in record speed. At the return from leave, a weekend, or even a simple dining in, there was always at least one Carter Gaffney story. What would you do for $2?...the Bottle of Bailey's. There was never a man who would stand by his friends in hard times as Carter would—who else would be willing to jump some bouncers and get shipped off to a Mexican prison? Loyalty. Specialty 1: Women- always a hit with the ladies, CG was a natural Don Juan. Or, maybe it was really the cowboy hat they liked. Either way, they were puddy in his hands...especially twins. Yeah Carter! Specialty 2-GMT. Carter at Eating Disorder Training- "She'd be pretty cute...if she lost a few pounds." Whether you call it brutal honesty or just a loud mouth, CG's opinions were always heard. Always a pension for controversy, the things some people didn't understand about him were the same traits that his friends love about him. How to sum up Carter's outlook on USNA?-"We're college students-we can do anything we want!" As Carter hits the fleet and starts to travel the globe all I can say is look out World—and if you are lucky enough, join on for the ride. K.M.O.

I don't believe that any persons life can be summed up to any degree of accuracy with just a few words. Even the trials and experiences I have been a part of here at the Academy are far too great to be cataloged in such a way. So instead I will just take this opportunity to remind myself of all the people that helped me. Thanks ADM Fisher, without you I probably never would have had the chance. Thank to all of my classmates and company mates who have helped me at one time or another. Thanks to all of my friends. You've all come through for me at the toughest times. Thanks to all of my family, Bruce, Dad, Sis, Uncle Phil, Grandma. You all stood behind me through all my life. A very special thanks to my roommates. Anyone who can live with me for 3 years deserves some kind of award. Dan, Anderson, you two have been a source of help and counsel more times than I can count. And a very special thanks to Mom. You more than anyone but myself, put in the most effort to see me make it through. I only wish I could count the number of times I relied on your help, your advice, and your love. Born in Dallas, Texas, he was raised in the Pacific Northwest. From "Manhood Training" in thirty-second company plebe year to writing a distributed computing algorithm for generating mandelbrot sets with his room-mate firstie year, from watch and drill to liberty and swing dancing, it has certainly been a long, interesting time. Sitting here on the brink of graduation, the past four years seem like a blur. Trying to explain to Midshipman 4/C McMath that the rest of his time at the Academy would fly by have been a futile effort, like nailing jello to a tree, or like kicking dead whales down a beach. Now to him who is able to keep you from stumbling and to make you stand in the presence of His glory blameless with great joy, to the only God our Saviour, through Jesus Christ our Lord, be glory, majesty, dominion and authority, before all time, both now and forever. We've been roommates ever since youngster year and even though you've left me all your stuff every commissioning week to clean up while you left on early cruise, you've made up for it with good times ever since our first trip to Georgetown almost three years ago. For some reason you decided to become a double engineering major and survived it with better grades than me, but your wisdom and insight was never more apparent than during our late night chats about government, women, the Academy and life. You were probably the most unpopular company commander during our time in 28, but also possibly the best. Our stint in the Villas Plaza will go down in history. You put up with all of my antics and managed to come up with a few of your own. You've got everyone else convinced that you are a good little boy but I know better cause I've seen you in action. Always remember Animal House and keep singing like no one is listening. I hope you've developed a taste for donuts cause we're going SWO!! Thanks for all the memories, lessons in life and leadership and most of all the friendship. The Academy wouldn't have been the same without you. See you at 1 Shiloh court. -C.C.G.

And the legacy lives on — #2 of the Savery clan has actually escaped the jaws of death at Canoe U and is now attempting to tell us he'll be a fighter pilot. Go Scooter! Mechanical engineering has also dealt him some cruel blows — just ask him about sprinklers. Always a true friend and genuine "good guy," Scott prides himself on a mean hockey game, his personal vocal recordings, country music, American cars, and a beautiful girlfriend in Minnesota (although he still claims not to have a "good" picture of her). Rock climbing, backpacking, and wind surfing, in Tennessee? "Hey! I've got a good idea, let's freeze our butts off for Spring Break. Or... let's hit the driving range — anyone know how to golf?" His friends have grown fond of his quick decisions (record — 1 hour) and ability to pack his car just right with all the things he'll need "just in case." In his spare time and between phone calls, Doc Savery emerges as the resident expert on relationships — the library? Forest Gump and Monty Python by heart — accents too. Looking into the crystal ball — parties in Enid, eggles for breakfast, mac & cheese for dinner, and more long distance phone calls.

Bob Kobb came to us from BOOST and we all doubted the worth of the program. Plebe year he was always at football practice, but we never saw him on the field... or the sidelines. Rob is afraid of rats in the dark, leafy bushes of night, lying flat on his stomach sometime between the rushed car ride, throwing his left hook, pigs in the parking lot and the fire-works of Ring Dance to which Mike never showed. I thinks he has climbed Gate 1 more times than he's walked through it. He was truly the shadiest person in the brigade. Late night walks through meat freezers in Key West; sun-burnt beer days on a South Carolina Beach where every night was spent at a 'gentleman's club' ; route 95 creeping from rest stop to rest stop, having to pull-over on every border even South-of-the-Border for the stately ritual en route back to Key West. Whether he is worrying over the troubles of long summer trips to Michigan; borrowing and breaking Crousers' seat-broken, clutch-worn Lazer to visit central PA; sleeping through his honor boards, playing house-stud with Mike, Jeff, Derek, Ken, and Kevin with the coeds of Penn State; or spending lonely Cara Jr. trips in P.E. gear. Who would have thought Dan would have chosen pilot? Still don't know what happened to subs the night before service selection. Oh, well, I am sure there is much fun to be had in Enid, Oklahoma, and plenty of beautiful women. Or not. CSTS, American Promise, VOST, etc. The sailing must be in his Irish blood. Or not. His sarcasm is what attracts the busloads of women or maybe it is his sensitive side... Hi I like Bette Midler, could you please kick my ass? Actually it is his dancing skills, that's exactly how he swooned his Russian babe. Dan's a man of fashion: bluerim, check; mesh shorts, check; court shoes, check, etc. Look, another care package, that's five this week. Luckily , Dan's a good sport for going climbing, backpacking, and winter camping- always an adventure. Hopefully, we never again come close to sliding off the side of a mountain. Dan is still learning to love country music, to drive- Only God knows when he will buy a car. Hopefully he can just mooch off his friends for the rest of his life. Then again, maybe he will buy one someday, after all, "you can't afford not to buy." SRS, JHR

Bill is a wild and crazy guy. We're not afraid to tell a man he is annoying in his bio - but he IS. Everything Bill says, you have to take with a grain of salt. Don't ever try to discuss or debate anything with the old man because you're not going to change his mind. We often wonder how we ever ended up rooming with the guy. We figure that we're some of the only people in Dirty Thirty who can put up with the old man. We don't like him, but we guess we trust him in battle. Bill will always get your back. One thing he would love to tell you about is his truck. He bought it from the famous Mexican race-truck driver Ricardo Palmero. He really wants one of those straw mariachi hats to wear around while he drives. Keep in mind, he isn't racist, but he doesn't like Mexicans, or anyone else who is "different." Good luck in the "Corps." The phrase "It's your birthday. Who's your daddy?" will always hold a place in our hearts. Suck it. -Joe (RZA) & Pete (Roach)

Dwayne, the hippie that went to the Naval Academy--hailed from many places, and yet none at all (?)--Dwayne has taken great advantage from his Mountain-man survival training and Mom's immortal wisdom while among us Naval Academy folk. His tale of survival includes. . . Plebe Year: Illumination, the squad with exponential rating demands, "I'm going to fail" (got Sup's Stars), living with M, crush on A. Youngster year: YP689 (the head), the brick, USMC phase, Jennifer O Jenny, and packing a fat pipe, going to Ireland, coming ' back with an appreciation of Guinness and pep rallies's with alcohol. Being trashed with the SECNAV?. Second Class year: detail--remember the calender we tried to make with the Maxim issue, wrecking the LTD, warm beer at Cornell, transition to swotivation, Gillian, living with M (again), Seagram's Gin (Jeeen), "I'm going to fail" (got 4.0), being too smart for your own damn good, adventures with Recon Ron (the sign). Firstie year: 'Rents to Montana--guess I can't drive home on weekend, anymore, living with J, Stephani (and all that entails...cig: no; Honey Brown: yes). ."I'm going to fail" (got another 4.0). What Midshipman Dwayne Barnett can best be remembered for is his uncanny ability to be a locked on devil dog and complete freakin' hippie. After such an extensive ordeal D plans to find himself, 5 and dive, listen to live music, fish, and hopefully--one day--live in a van down by the river. (Are there any rivers in Jamaica, mon?) "What is this world that we cling to it?" Your bros:MCEO, JPM

W.T. Holio is a diamond in the rough (really rough), with mutton chops from the field, who had a leaning tower of pizza in his closet and would give himself an IV to sober up. Give him a white carpet, restaurant floor, Lisk's head, and mostly his own rack to throw up on. We had fun with cheez whiz, and some more with crotch rotch. He is a man that answers to many names, WT, Cornholio, Chimp, Gibbon, Silverback, and Fred. He promised to get a mom tat and he actually did, his Marine Corps days are over and he gets to keep the shark and anchor. WT is living proof that too much sauce makes you the life of the party, even though he can stop most of them. Most likely to bring the donkey, drink beer out of a shoe (his own), and wind up praying to porcelain. The roughest little guy any of us had ever seen in plebe summer, he was the soul of 32 bitterness. The real "Hols", nobody knows, English major? He quit boozing, started lovin, and hasn't been the same ever since (thank God). He was a contestant for Salty Sam several times, but proved to be too salty for good taste. By firstie year Holio antics were legendary, but far behind us. He was sorely missed in his natural habitat, ACME, the Fleet, the smoke pit, and restriction muster. He is most legendary of course for inciting a riot in Lynchburg, and stood his time on the line with a smile on his face. Fair winds and following seas. LD & Cosmo

The only guy who a nickname didn't stick to, tried inventing some himself but failed. Threw the parties, cleaned up our mess, and made up excuses. Mr Bitterness played Club Lax, and never met a Lax player that wasn't "a good guy". Old Canton managed to lay low for almost four years, almost... It hit the fan firstie year, and he was baptized a restrictee, and christened into the force (5 that is). Crazy Jeep, MID99 license plate, WTF? Never could be a guy who you could say had a real string of good luck. Youngster year, reprimanded for obscene white works, first upper class ever to pull a delta in perf. To understand Cosmo, you had to have seen his upperclass plebe year, he got smacked daily, and learned the officer ranks of the Bulgarian Navy. Not afraid to do unto others as was done to him either. 2/c spring break showed Robbie the dangers of excessive boozing, but it wasn't the first time he had spent more than 10 hours with his head in the bowl, for that you'd have to go back to plebe year spring break, or youngster weekends in JMU. After those hard lessons Robbie matured and dedicated his time to bulls#@tting the rest of us. The classic master of the barroom story, and swears that they are true, you can't fool us. For all his eccentricities Rob got Navy Air, and will be violating FAA safety regulations in a town near you soon. A true blue friend, and a good man to drink beer with. Peter came here not wanting to do anything, and he leaves us not wanting to do anything. (His favorite saying is, "I don't wanna.") He says he's from Texas. Everybody knows everything is bigger in Texas but Pete isn't a big guy. In fact, he's had a few nicknames such as "The Roach", "The Stork", "Cabin Buoy" and "The Little Guy". What Pete does have big about him is a thirst for alcohol. The Roach has had some pretty crazy some nights, which usually entail going out, drinking, and throwing up. Watch out when Pete's drunk, because there is nothing he won't throw up on or in. He's spewed in Bill's water bottle, our shower (after passing out in it), in the hall on the way to the head, in the head, in LD's Camaro, out of the Suburban's window, in Acme, on the street, and countless buckets. Pete doesn't have a drinking problem, he has a throwing up problem. He talks about Texas a lot and he loves his mom. His parents come out to visit occasionally, and we think that stunts his development in a way (for example, he still plays with Star Wars Action Figures.) Very much still the momma's boy, Pete will always be just what he is: Pete. No more, no less. -Joe & Bill

LD is the nicest guy you'll ever meet, but we know the truth. He's got a lot of talent, the first one that comes to mind is the ability to put a bottle of Jack Daniel's to his lips. Always the last man standing at the keg and usually the first too. His string of good luck started with warm coke and tuna back in old 32. Don't forget about Mr. Flex's Wild Ride back from G-Town. It was such a sweet car too! The only person to ever get fried for sneaking back into the Yard and ordered to never sleep during the day by the Battalion Officer. He did his time on the Force 5, but somehow tricked the scales after that. LD was always the ladies man, a non-discriminating lover at that. Just ask Tijuana Kool-Aid, the Czech Hogila, and of course BIG T! It's not uncommon to find him running around drunk and naked, sporting the Drumstick. Watch out New Port and San Diego, you better stock up on Naty Bo. It's amazing that we've all made it this far and we're glad it was with you, even if you can wake yourself up with a fart. Always there to lend a hand, help us when we're down, and let us borrow the Bud Light Helmet. You know what's going to happen in twenty years, like fathers like sons. RZA, the Razor. He's pretty much a stud, and he has great taste in women, especially the sandblowers in D&B. He really pursues those female mids, like a champ, cadets too. If there's one thing I don't ever want to see, its RZA doin the skankin thing. Little Joe did a lot of growing up during his stay at USNA. From the Nebraska homeboy who wanted to "unleash the power of a SSBN" to the new, improved RZA that learned how to use all those calendars inside his con locker and still wants to nuke everything. Joe has come a long way since his early days, rizing all the way to XO (suck it). He even learned what that emergency brake was for. Riz is a real impressionable kid. After a weekend at Billy's, he sold the saturn and got a pretty cool mustang. (I think the purple planet fit him better) Thank you Joe, for being a smartass to Mr. Reid. Pete & Bill

Football

Though the 1998 Navy football season did not turn out the way many hoped it would with a 3-8 record, the future looks bright for Navy football. Good things did happen this season though. Doffermyre was named All-East and Damon Meyers returned from cancer. Jason Wolf and Jason Snider Captained this years team while Jamie Doffermyre and Terrence Anderson will lead the team next year. The following is a list of the first classmen who played in their final football game for Navy: Greg Adams, Brad Chatlos, Rick Conlin, Adam Crecion, Irv Dingle, Ross Drenning, Cecil Fletcher, J.D. CHEERLEADERS

The 1999 United States Naval Academy Cheerleaders had another memorable and exciting season. We certainly kept ourselves busy! From pep rallies to football games, banquets, clinics, and finally a trip to NCAA Nationals in Daytona Beach, there was never a dull moment. One thing is for certain though- we know how to have a good time!

The firsties on the team were a tight-knit group who together provided excellent leadership for the squad. Marisa Dunlap and Carl Christy- co-captains, fellow Texans, and just a true power team when it came to stunts! She was our fearless flyer and he supported all of those pyramids (never flinching at the occasional kick to the head!). Lisa Inverso- cheerful and always smiling, she was thrown on top of many pyramids...and when she falls she really bounces (have you seen the video?!) Ben Johnson- our resident southern boy from Mississippi. He brought experience and a positive attitude to the team...and showed us all a good time on Bourbon Street! Rich Doolin- a late addition but a quick learner who was always ready to help the team. Shane Crockett- aka "Goatboy"...what would we do without our mascot? He was always dedicated...and Shane, the Goat-head is going in YOUR van! Last but never least, Jerome Stevens- and excellent teammate, partner and friend...we all miss you and wish you well.

We could never have done it without our awesome underclass: Maya Monjure, Shawn Conniff, Andrew Conner, Lennard Cannon, Gloria Brownell, Liz Gomez, Josh Smith, Dan Goodwin, Luke MacDonald, Allison Rogde, Amanda Donges, Leslie Boegel, Tim Collins, and Matt Cade. Also many thanks to our coach, Dana, who puts up with all of us through it all, and our O-reps, LCDR Broughton, CDR Bailey and CAPT MacDonald, who support us along the way.

From all of the firsties: Thank you for the good times and the wonderful memories! You all have a bright future and great potential ... make the most of it!

Women's Volleyball

The women's volleyball team started off their season with 100 degree weather on the third deck of MacDonough sweating through two T-shirts every morning in mid August at 0515. There was no let up in any practice through out the whole season even when we heard the infamous words, "ON THE LINE!" Our hard work on the court and in the weight room paid off when we won our first tournament in 3 years by going undefeated at the Robert Morris Tournament. "Can we stop at the Delaware House" were words you would hear even if we were not going by it! There were some great movies we all enjoyed on the forever seeming bus rides up to Holy Cross and Yale such as Dumb and Dumber and profs favorite, Chasing Amy.

Our team reached a huge milestone this year, a winning season. The tremendous fan support helped us accomplish that goal. At times, we had over 1500 people smashed into the hot, sweaty, small, third deck of MacDonough. It was great to play in front of such a large, loud crowd! Our team will be saying good-bye to our favorite O-Rep: LCDR Flavio Rocha of the Brazilian Navy has been an outstanding role model, a great supporter, and an enthusiastic person. We taught him a lot about the food here and boy does he love it!!

As far as honors go, Jen Williams received All Patriot League Co. Offensive Player of the Year, 1st Team all Patriot League and 2 All-Tournament Teams. Rachael Shropa received 1st Team All Patriot League and an All Tournament Team. Beth Salness received 2nd Team All Patriot League and led the league in assists. Karen Kait earned an All Tournament Team. Even though the Cute Little Indians didn't make it to their final goal, we had a great season full of memories and experiences that will last forever!

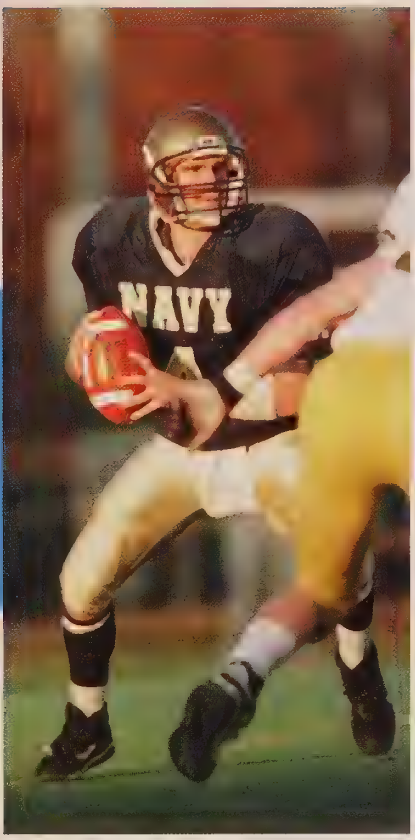
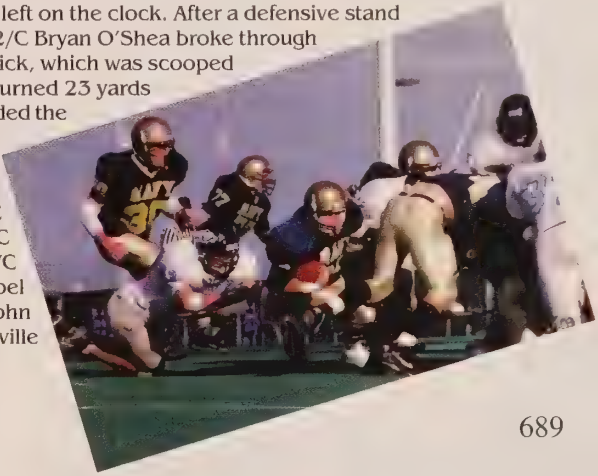
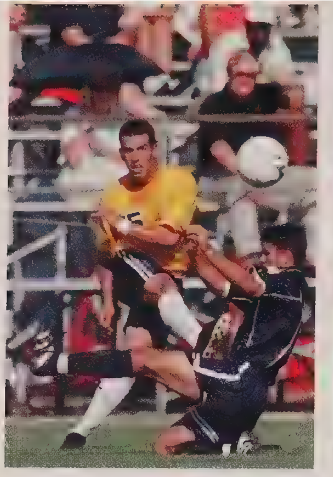
SPRINT FOOTBALL



First-year coach Major Stuart Helgeson's,USMC, sprint football team demonstrated true desire and competitiveness in its last game of the year against Army, defeating the Cadets in a thrilling come-from-behind win, 24-21. Despite a disappointing 2-5 season and the fact that for the first time in three years the Midshipmen didn't bring home the conference title, the season-ending triumph made up for everything as Navy avenged a 43-8 loss earlier in the year at the Anthracite Bowl in Pottsville, Pa. Navy's defense played its best game of the year, causing seven Cadet fumbles, recovering four and picking off two passes. One of the interceptions was by co-captain 1/C Matt Somerville in the second quarter, which he returned 27 yards for a touchdown. But the biggest play of the game came with Navy trailing and just 2:50 left on the clock. After a defensive stand forced Army to set up to punt, 2/C Bryan O'Shea broke through the line and blocked theArmy kick, which was scooped up by 2/C David Heltzel and returned 23 yards for the go-ahead score. Navy ended the year with 20 players making the All-Collegiate Sprint Football League (CSFL) team. Earning first-team honors were: 2/C Mark Simon (offensive line), 3/C Ben Wilson (wide receiver), 2/C Jonathan Stier (punter), 2/C Joel Uzarski (defensive line), 2/C John Woods (linebacker) and Somerville (cornerback).





Men's Soccer

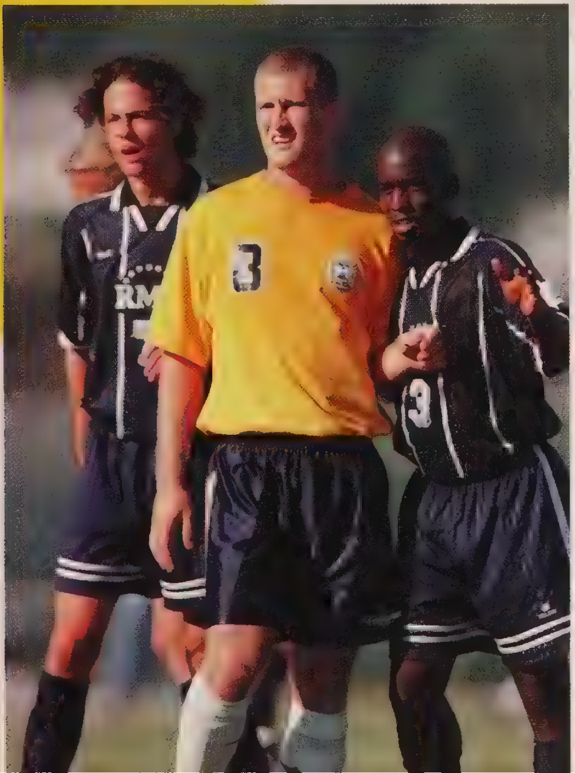
The 1998 season for the Navy Men's Soccer Team was a roller coaster of up and downs. The team was tabbed in preseason polls to finish second in the Patriot League and vie for a NCAA tournament berth. The team was returning 7 starters and its top three scorers for the previous season giving coach Greg Meyers and the rest of the team some lofty expectations. Unfortunatly, the team did meet these expectations. The season started off with a strong showing at the annual Navy Invitational with a win and a tie. Next on the chopping block was bitter Patriot League rival Colgate. Always a tough game, the team took an early lead and never looked back thus showing the signs of an early Patriot League front runner. Next, the team headed to Charleston, SC for games against Furman University and the College of Charleston. The team played stingy defense in a 1 - 0 loss to nationally ranked Furman. After suffering their first loss of the season, the team rebounded with a resounding win against College of Charleston 4-2. The team's offense was bolstered by the addition of senior forward Kevin Meehan who had been unable to play soccer previously due to varsity lacrosse commitments. He was the leading scorer early in the season with 4 goals in the first five games. After a disappointing loss to Howard and win against Monmouth, the team was riding high on a 4 wins, two losses, 1 tie record. The team was getting ready to head to Miami, FL for another tournament when a hurricane off the coast of Florida forced the tournament to be moved to Annapolis. With nationally ranked Brown University on their home field, the team had a 2-0 lead going into the last 15 minutes. Brown scored two goals, got a penalty kick on a disasterous call by thereferee, and added another right before the whistle blew to win the game 4-2. This devastating loss began a 5 game losing streak for the team that saw, not only their overall record go below .500 but also included 2 Patriot League losses hurting their chance for a League Championship. The team ended their skid with a win against Mt. St. Mary's and then traveled to West Point, NY for their annual grudge match against Army. The team carried a 3 year win streak in the annual N-star game and the seniors were hoping to make it four in a row. As luck would have it, the seniors not only did not get a fourth N-star, the team sealed their Patriot League fate by losing to Army making their League record a disgraceful 1 - 3. As the season came to a close, the team won two more games and lost two ending the year with a disappointing 7 - 10 -1 record.

Individual honors for the team included Matt Neely getting selected to the Patriot League First Team and Mike Paisant and Loren Morgan being named to the Second Team. All three of these players will be returning next year to lead the men's team hopefully forecasting a successful and exciting season.



Women's Soccer

The 1998 Navy women's soccer team fulfilled nearly every goal it set out to achieve for the year. But a one-goal loss to Colgate in the championship game of the Patriot League Tournament spoiled Navy's dream of going to the NCAA Tournament. Despite the heart-wrenching loss, the Midshipmen had a banner year, breaking several team and individual records. The Mids' 17-3-1 mark was the best finish in the six-year history of the women1s soccer program. Seventeen wins was a school record, shattering the old mark of 11 victories in 1996. En route to their 17 wins, the Midshipmen shut out a school-record 14 teams. The Midshipmen also topped the school record for winning streak (7) and unbeaten streak (11). Previously set at five games, the Mids broke the record for longest winning streak. After falling in their season opener to nationally-ranked UCLA Sept. 1, the Mids kicked off a seven-game winning streak which was stopped by sixth-ranked Portland Sept. 27. The Midshipmen put together another string of seven-straight wins, but the streak was stopped by the 1-1 tie against Holy Cross. Although the Mids tied the Crusaders, their unbeaten streak went on until suffering a 1-0 loss to Colgate Nov. 7. Statistically, the Midshipmen broke the school record for goals in a season with 52. The old record was 45 set in 1996. The Midshipmen also posted milestone wins over Colgate and Army, the first time Navy defeated either team. Perhaps the most celebrated victory since the inception of the program in 1993, Navy had lost to the Red Raiders six-consecutive times, but a Michelle Nance goal at the 88:59 mark led the Mids to their first-ever win over the Red Raiders and stopped Colgate's 16-game Patriot League winning streak. Navy also posted its first-ever victory over Army, when it recorded a 2-0 win over the Lady Knights at West Point. The Mids tasted victory again over the Cadets with their 2-0 win in the semifinals of the Patriot League Championship. The Midshipmen continued to dominate at home, posting an 11-1 mark at Dewey Field in 1998 and a two-year 18-3 home advantage. Nine Midshipmen were named to the All-Patriot League Team, including two-time Defensive Player of the Year Nicole Aunapu and plebeJustine Fisher, who was named Patriot League Rookie of the Year. In addition, Riismandel, Kipp, Wilson, Filbin, Nance and youngster Margaret Ewers were named to the first team. Fourth class Vanessa Solon earned second-team recognition. Aunapu earned All-Mid-Atlantic Region honors for the fourth time in her career. Goalkeeper Sarah Wilson set the Navy record for most shutouts in a season with 11.5, passing Amy Hakola's 1997 record of six shutouts. Wilson finished the season ranked 10th in the country with her 0.66 goals against average and led the league. Kipp finished her career as Navy's all-time assists leader with 24. She passed the old mark of 19 set by Cori Thornton.

Men's Cross Country

The 1998 Cross Country Team entered the fall campaign with high expectations and goals coming off last year's season. The team looked to build on last year's accomplishments: beating Army, finishing second at the HEPS and earning a trip to the NCAA's.

Graduation took a toll on the team with the loss of All-American John Mentzer as well as several other key runners. However, team captain Michael Ryan, along with seniors Ken Kurz, Pete Parbel, and John McNamara provided the leadership and the points that the team needed. The seniors were backed by a fine cast of second classmen: Aaron Nichols, Eric Adams, and John Bonnette. The top spot on the team fluctuated from week to week with Michael Ryan splitting victories with Aaron Nichols, who had a terrific season, and Ken Kurz, who came up with a strong showing at the National Qualifier. However without a doubt the best race of the season came at the best time, the weekend Army rolled into town. Navy ran a terrific race, taking every place between 2nd and 7th, assembling a 21 to 41 victory, one of the most lopsided in recent memory. Eleven former captains and over 200 spectators witnessed this crushing of the Cadets. The men who ran the race and those who stood on the sidelines reminiscing will have a day to remember forever. And the stars continue to multiply.

Women's Cross Country

They tell us how crazy we are to run day after day, week after week. They wonder what possesses us to go through such pain just to cross a painted line as fast as we can. They ask how we can love a sport that has no ball to kick, throw, shoot and score with. Our answer to these questions is what bonds us together. Companionship and cohesiveness allowed the women's cross country team to have a very successful season.

The team had an outstanding season, going undefeated in all dual meets including a decisive 21-39 victory over Army. The team also finished among the top 10 teams in every meet. Leading the tight pack on the courses were 2/C Jolene Vanyo and 3/C Amy Baxter with their God-given strength and speed; Vanyo went undefeated through the first four meets of the season. Guiding the team were Firstie veterans Sofia Garcia, Alyssa Donovan, and captain Jacquelyn Hayes. 2/C Erin Omarr's consistency, 2/C Suzanne Sclafani's willingness to rise to the occasion rounded out the significant contributions of the juniors. The youngsters were led by 3/C Sandra Smith with her stunning comeback like she didn't miss a race, 3/C Ingrid Peterson's steady improvement since Plebe year and 3/C Rebecca Bryan's enthusiasm both on and off the course. Plebe Melanie Stock's spark, as well as the desire of others, contributed to the successful season. Traveling around the East Coast as well as one trip to the Midwest (Notre Dame), the women proved that they can compete on any level.

The NCAA District II meet was held at Navy's home course. The team represented the Academy well with a 6th place finish out of 23 teams. Considering that the top two teams, Villanova and Georgetown, eventually finished 1st and 4th at Nationals, Navy did respectably. Vanyo finshed first for Navy, in 17th place. She was just a few places shy of making NCAAs, with Baxter and S. Smith just seconds behind. Go for it next year, ladies!

The future is looking good for Navy Cross Country as most of the top 12 runners are returning. Good luck, Captain Erin! Leave a legacy! -JCH

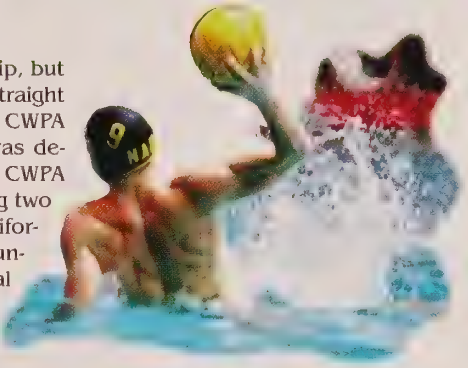
Water Polo



Navy's water polo team came within two wins of advancing to the NCAA Championship, but won the Southern Division Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) title for the sixth-straight year en route to a 20-10-1 record. The Midshipmen finished third in the Eastern CWPA Championship, just shy of an automatic bid to the national championship. Navy was defeated by eventual runner-up Queens, 9-5, in the semifinal game, then beat Southern CWPA rival Bucknell, 13-11, for third place. After a 4-1 start to the 1998 season, including two wins over Bucknell in the first two weeks, Navy ventured West to the University of California Tournament in mid-September, which hosted eight of the top 10 teams in the country Navy came away with only one victory in the tournament, but it was an emotional win against Air Force, 7-6. For most of the season, Navy was paced by 3/C Sean Foster. Foster led Navy in goals (59), assists (26) and total points (85), and was named First-Team All-Southern Division CWPA. Joining Foster on the first team was 1/C Steve Taylor, who posted stellar numbers as well, including 33 goals, 22 assists and 55 total points. First class Brendan Beer was named Second-Team All-Southern Division. Goalie 1/C Kevin Crisson set a school record with 319 saves. Coach Mike Schofield earned his 300th win of his 15-year career in a 17-6 victory over Johns Hopkins on Sept. 26. His record now stands at 312-122-1.

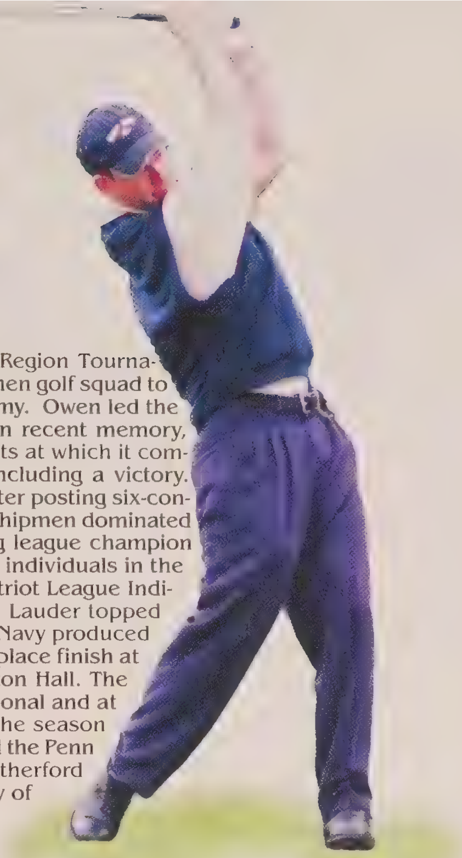
GOLF



Despite narrowly missing the 1999 NCAA East Region Tournament, head coach Pat Owen guided the Midshipmen golf squad to a solid season which included an 8-3 rout over Army. Owen led the Mids to one of their most illustrious fall seasons in recent memory, which included top-five finishes in all five tournaments at which it competed and posting a pair of top-two performances, including a victory. Navy claimed the 1998 Patriot League Championship, after posting six-consecutive second-place finishes at the tournament. The Midshipmen dominated the field, finishing 21 strokes ahead of two-time defending league champion Lehigh with a two-day, 54-hole total of 915. Navy placed four individuals in the top nine, and for the second-consecutive year, claimed the Patriot League Individual Champion 2/C Pete Lauder. A native of Fullterton, Calif., Lauder topped the field with a 2-over-par 218 to post his first-ever collegiate win. Navy produced five top-five showings during the spring season, including a second-place finish at the Temple Owl Classic April 16 behind top-ranked regional foe Seton Hall. The Mids registered fourth-place finishes at the Florida A&M Spring Invitational and at their own tournament, the Navy Spring Invitational. Navy rounded out the season with back-to-back fifth-place performances at the Princeton Invitational and the Penn State Intercollegiate. The Mids were in first place after the first day of the Rutherford Intercollegiate, however, Navy was pushed back to fifth place on the final day of competition. Owen garnered 1999 Patriot League Coach-of-the-Year recognition from his peers at the conclusion of the year. It marked the third time in four years and fourth time overall he has received the award from the league. First class Mike Albus had a tremendous season and finds his name etched in Navy's record books. Albus shot a Navy-best 4-under-par 68 at the Georgetown Hoya Invitational in the fall, while shooting a 71 three times during the spring. The team captain and lone senior on the team concluded his career with a fourth-place finish at the Rutherford Intercollegiate which featured the top five teams in the region.

1999 was a season to remember for the Midshipmen. After a season without a home facility had appeared to take its toll, the Mids shocked everyone and placed second at the 1999 NCAA Championship. Alaska-Fairbanks took the overall title, scoring 4,713 followed by the Mids 4,635, West Virginia 4,620, Murray State 4,611, Norwich 4,607, Kentucky 4,601, Xavier 4,575, Jacksonville 4575 and Air Force 1,515. Third class George Adams was Navy's high shooter in smallbore scoring 1175. Adams scored one point over the school record set by All-America Joe Johnson. Johnson was the 1995-96 Smallbore National Champion. Teammate 4/C Luke Shank placed second, scoring 1163. Second class Josh Kelley led all Navy shooters, scoring 389, and 3/C Tran Lam was runner-up with 386. In the second day of competition, 2/C John Iadonisi, Shank, Adams, Lam and Kelley competed individually in smallbore and air gun competition. In smallbore competition, Adams was high shooter for Navy, scoring 1156. Shank scored 1139 and Iadonisi 1136. In air gun, Kelley took sixth place overall, scoring 390, and Lam took 10th place scoring 389. Kelly was named Second-Team All-America in air gun. Lam and Shank received All-America honorable mention honors

Men's Basketball

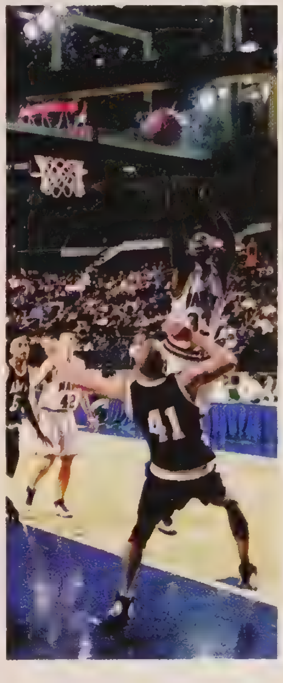
With its first 20-win regular-season since 1986-87 (20-7), the success of the 1998-99 Navy Midshipmen produced some individual accolades as well. Third class Chris Williams and 2/C Sitapha Savane were named All-Patriot League First Team, while 1/C team captain Skip Victor earned second-team honors for the second-straight season. Not only did the Midshipmen post a season sweep of Army, but they also knocked off defending Southern Conference champion Davidson as well as Rice and SMU of the Western Athletic Conference. Head coach Don DeVoe credits the veteran presence of Victor and 1/C Josh Williams for setting the tone for his young club. "We had a remarkable year," said DeVoe. "Our two seniors (Victor andcenter Josh Williams) gave us outstanding leadership, especially when you consider the amount of scoring and rebounding we lost from last year." Fortunately for DeVoe, Williams and Savane were ready and willing to step up in those areas. Williams, an athletic 6-4 forward, led the team inscoring at 13.7 points per game. Intense would also describe the 6-8 Savane. In addition to scoring 12.7 points per game, Savane also led the team and league in rebounding (8.5 per game) and field goal percentage (.558, 125-of-224). His relentless rebounding was a major reason why Navy led the nation in rebounding margin (10.0). Victor has certainly made the most of his final campaign, solidifying himself as one of the premier defensive players in Navy history. Not only did he set Navy¹s single-season steals record (80), but is fourth on the all-time list with 139 steals.) Josh Williams closed out his career as one of the top low-post players in Mid history. He is third in Academy history with 109 blocked shots, which is also fifth in Patriot League lore. He and Victor played a major role in helping Navy set two new defensive standards this season. As a team, Navy also ranked seventh in the nation in field goal percentage defense, allowing opponents to make .379 (575-of-1519) from the floor.



Women's Basketball

Navy Women's Basketball had another great season, finishing with a 17-11 record. Highlights of the season included winning the Danka Classic Tournament in Reno, Nevada and the Navy Christmas Classic at Alumni Hall. Leading the team this year were seniors Laurie Coffey, Vanessa Melofchik and Beth Regoli. Coffey became just the ninth player, for Navy Women's Basketball, to score over 1000 points in a career. She also earned First-Team All-Patriot League honors and won the ADM Charles Larson award as the team's Most Valuable Player. Melofchik lead the team on the court as point guard and off it as Team Captain at the same time leading the team in free throw percentage, putting in 49 of 59 for a 83.1 percentage. Regoli was honored with the Coaches Award for her leadership during the season and had her best game in a near victory over Holy Cross, scoring five and containing All-American Amy O'Brien. Navy will be led next year by Erica Hayes, Team Captain and First-Team All-Patriot League honoree.

Navy finished fifth at the 1999 Eastern Intercollegiate Swim League (EISL) Championship. The Midshipmen closed the dual meet season with an 8-5 record, highlighted by a 152-91 rout of Army. Head coach Lee Lawrence also notched the 200th win of his Navy career with a 177-66 win at Dartmouth. In 26 years in Annapolis, Lawrence is 206-118 in dual meet competition. Navy established two school and two Army-Navy meet records. Third-Class Beau Oliver, 2/C Peter Fehring, 2/C Jason Pace and 2/C Brian Glaser set a new Army-Navy mark in the 400 medley relay with a time of 3:22.81. Plebe Brett Cline also set a new series record in the 200 free (1:39.39). Glaser, 3/C Clint Cornell, 2/C Leif Kennedy and Cline broke the school's 400 free relay time with a 3:01.40 at Army, while Glaser, Cornell, Cline and 2/C Bradley Geary also set a new 200 free relay record with a 1:21.47 at Easterns. Despite a 150-94 loss at Brown Nov. 21, three Midshipmen turned in performances that rank among the top 15 in Academy history. Oliver finished first in the 200 individual medley (1:54.99) and second in the 200 backstroke (1:55.18). line's time of 1:42.85 in the 200 free was good for a second place finish, as was Glaser's time of 46.99 in the 100 free. Cornell and 1/C Brad Hoff enjoyed an impressive outing in a 127-116 dual meet finale win at Columbia Feb. 20 Hoff's 9:46.05 in the 1,000 freestyle is the ninth-best time in school history, while Cornell's 20.80 in the 50 free is the seventh-best time in the Navy record book. Finally, several Mids finished among the top five in their respective events at Easterns. Cline took second in the 200 free (1:39.01), while Cornell placed fifth in the 50 free (20.52). Oliver finished fifth in the 200 individual medley 1:52.75), while the 800 free relay of Cline, 1/C Peter Logan, Cornell and Kennedy took fourth in 6:45.09. Glaser, Cornell, Kennedy and Cline also placed fifth in the 400 free relay (3:02.34).

Women's Swimming

The Women's Swimming and Diving team began the season in August with long runs, long swims, and many hours in the weight room. The hours paid off in February as the women turned in a record of 9-2. Their victories included the 10th consecutive win over Army (a Decade of Dominance), a Patriot-League Championship, and a 3rd place finish at the Eastern College Athletic Association Championship meet (best finish ever). The team was led by captain Chrissy Gussen with the support of seniors Adrienne Paradeise, Lora Anderson, Julia Mason, Jodi McGovney, Susan Feher, and Emily Cathey. While the old women held down the fort, the 2/c and 3/c supported a very strong plebe class led by Melissa "Muffin" Hawley. The team definitely worked hard, but always remembered to play hard. There were runs to Mike and Sharron's, and plenty of trips to the Reubel's (Thank you all). The trip to Ft. Lauderdale, and Ronnie Dee's, left Megan on the side of the road and a rough run on New Year's for all. There were lots of email wars (chemistry was boring so Dr. Schroeder saved the plebes). Congrats to the Firsties who survived Hoss, Lisa, and John. Best of luck to the underclass, we'll miss you. Remember Bill, and "that which Navy enjoyed an outstanding 1999 indoor track season An 11-0 dual meet record, highlighted by a 93-88 win over Army. A second-place finish in the Heptagonal Championship and 13th place showing in the 43-team IC4A Championship. And when your team enjoys such success, individual accolades are sure to follow. Firstie Michael Ryan capped a superb winter with a ninth-place finish (4:03.57) in the mile at the NCAA Indoor Track Championship. He qualified for the NCAA meet after running a school-record 4:01.57 against Georgetown, LaSalle and Virginia Commonwealth Jan. 23. This was the second-fastest raw collegiate mile time in the nation. Finally, he was named the Outstanding Male Performer at the Heps after winning the mile (4:05.40), the 3,000 meters (8:16.79) and as a member of the first-place distance medley relay (10:05.99). Fellow 1/C Matt Poirier also broke a school record against Georgetown, LaSalle and Virginia Commonwealth, clearing 17'1" 1/2 in the pole vault. He also won the Heptagonal meet with a vault of 16'8" 3/4. Poirier also set a new Army-Navy pole vault standard with a vault of 17'. Against Army, 2/C Torrance Chaplin posted a 21.73 in the 200-meters, which is a new meet record. He also turned in impressive performances at the IC4A and Heptagonal Championships. At the IC4A Championship, he placed third in the 200-meter dash (21.71) and sixth in the 400-meter dash (47.87). He took third in the 400-meters at the Heps (48.40), and was part of the second-place mile relay team (3:19.82). Plebes Brian Deminski and Jake Johnson and 2/C Martin Anders were also in this group. Other standout performers at the Heps included 2/C Rory Caherly in the weight throw (59'4"-second), 2/C Eric Adams in the mile (4:08.21 - second), 2/C Jeff Hollenbach in the shot put (55'3" - second), 3/C Joshua Stewart in the triple jump (48'6" 1/4 - fourth), 2/C Richard Runge in the 1,000 meters (2:27.61 -fourth). At the IC4As, Adams was fourth in the mile (4:09.53) and Runge was ninth in the 1,000-meters (2:28.52).

Women's Indoor Track

Led by Team Captain Alyssa Donovan, aka the Queen of Biloxi, the women's indoor track team finished with a winning record of 7-2. The winning season included a closely fought victory over Army at West Point 103-100, the extra spirit sprinkles and Telly's chant proved to be more than Army could handle. 2/C Chantelle "Telly" Nagbe and 2/C Joanna Helm rewrote the record books by breaking the 55m dash and long jump (Telly) and the 55m hurdles (Jo-mamma). Look for them to be leading next year's teams! The Heptagonal Championships were exciting as 2/C Amy Baxter ran down the competition to claim her gold in the mile. Her victory earned her the Outstanding Athlete Award for the meet. Erin O'Marr, Alyssa Donovan, Amy Baxter, and Chantelle Nagbe also qualified for ECACs at Boston University. New faces Laura Zarcaro (Zorro), Mel Stock, Julia Floraday, and Jessica Crocker, added new depth as well as personality to the already roof raisin' team. 1/c Jackie Hayes, Meghan Filson, Sophie Garcia, 2/c Liz (Queenie) McQuinn, 3/c Marcia Flack, and Jocelyn Butcher contributed more than just points as the seasoned veterans, and O-Rep CDR Putt could always be counted on for the much needed guidance on road trips.

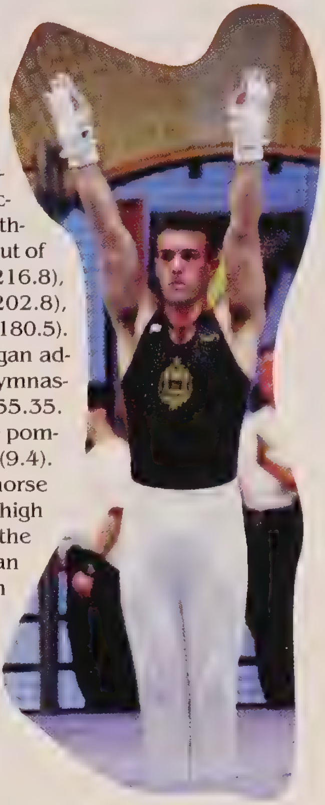
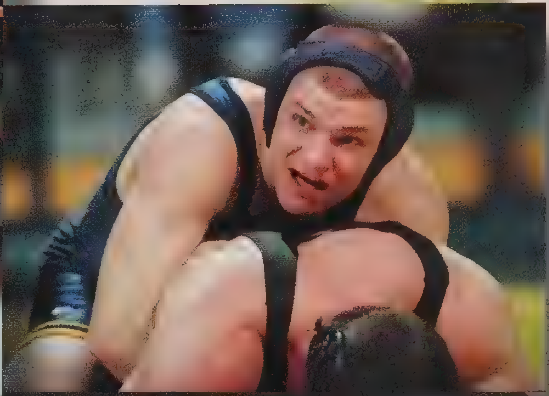
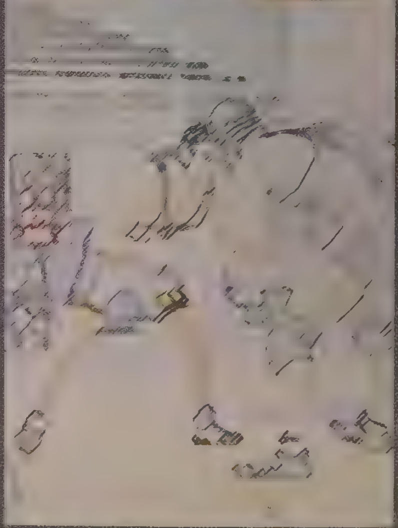
Gymnastics

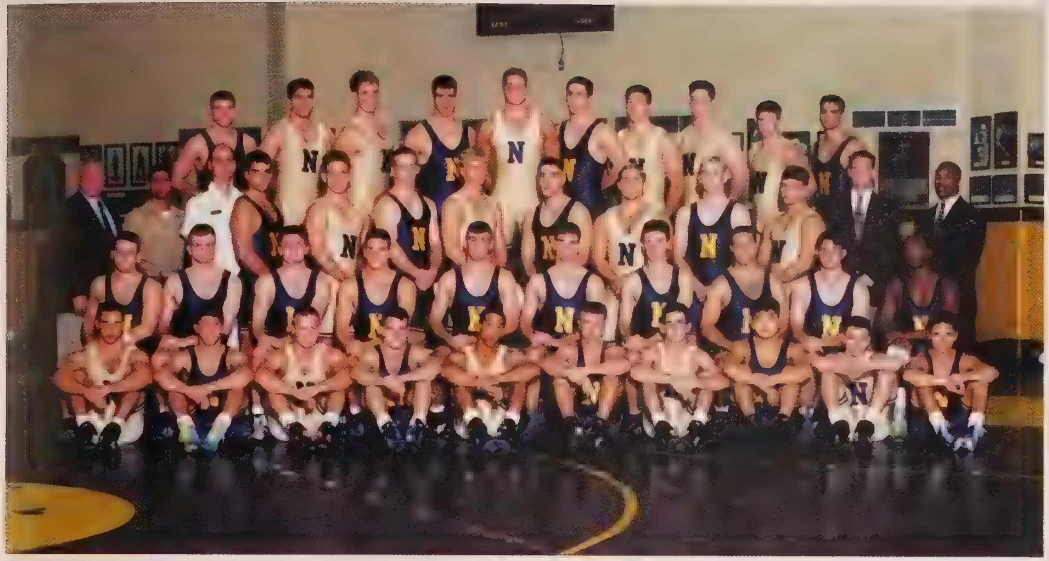


The Navy men's gymnastics team finished the season with a dual meet record of 2-4, including a heartbreaker loss to Army, 215-214. It was best summed up by team captain 2/C Ken Hockycko, "I was happy to see this young team pull together. We didn't come out winners, but we performed like champions." During the season, the Mids took fourth place at the West Point Open, placed second at the Navy Open, defeated Springfield College, James Madison and Southern Connecticut.At the ECAC Championship, the Midshipmen placed fifth out of 10 teams. Massachusetts won the meet, scoring 227.4, followed by Army (216.8), William & Mary (216.6), Temple (214.7), Navy (213.5), James Madison (202.8), Springfield (201.6), Southern Connecticut (191.7), MIT (182.4) and Vermont (180.5). Second class David Huber, Hockycko, 4/C Nick Willet and 4/C Dan Finnegan advanced to the NCAA East Regional meet in New Haven, Conn. At the USA Gymnastics Championship, Finnegan won the all-around competition, scoring a 55.35. Finnegan tied for second place on the floor exercise (9.3), tied for third on the pommel horse (9.5), tied for fifth on the parallel bars (9.1) and took third on high bar (9.4). In the final round of competition, Finnegan placed seventh on the pommel horse (8.8), tied for third on the rings (9.1), took second on the parallel bars (9.0) and high bar (9.2). For his performance at the USA Gymnastics meet, Finnegan earned All-American recognition by the USA gymnastics Association. With most of the team back and a new group of plebes, Navy gymnastics will be ready for the new season ahead.





Wrestling



The United States Naval Academy Wrestling Team once again had an outstanding season. This years team posted a dual meet record of 9-5 and capped off the season with a convincing victory over Army by a score of 22-6. As well, the Navy grapplers wrestled well in many tournaments this season. Winning the All-Academy Tournament, placing second at the Navy Classic, fifth at the Sunshine Open, and sixth at the EIWA Tournament. The Navy wrestlers also had many individual honors and excellent performances this season. Plebe sensation Tyrone Neal led this years team in victories with 35. Team Captain, Greg Gingeleskie, set a Naval Academy record this season becoming Navy's winningest wrestler with 127 victories. Navy also placed six wrestlers in the EIWA Conference Tournament. Donnie Waters and Brad Fessler placed sixth. Zane Stickel and Tyrone Neal both placed fifth. Justin Woodruff placed third and advanced to the NCAA National Tournament. Greg Gingeleskie won Navy's first EIWA Championship since Dan Hicks and Doug Zembiec in 1995, Gingeleskie also advanced to the NCAA National Tournament. Two Navy wrestlers earned academic honors this season. Zane Stickel and Justin Woodruff were named National Wrestling Coaches Association All-Academic Team Honorable Mentions. Finally, Navy Wrestler, Greg Gingeleskie was presented the NAAA Sword for Men for his accomplishments in wrestling throughout his career as a midshipman.

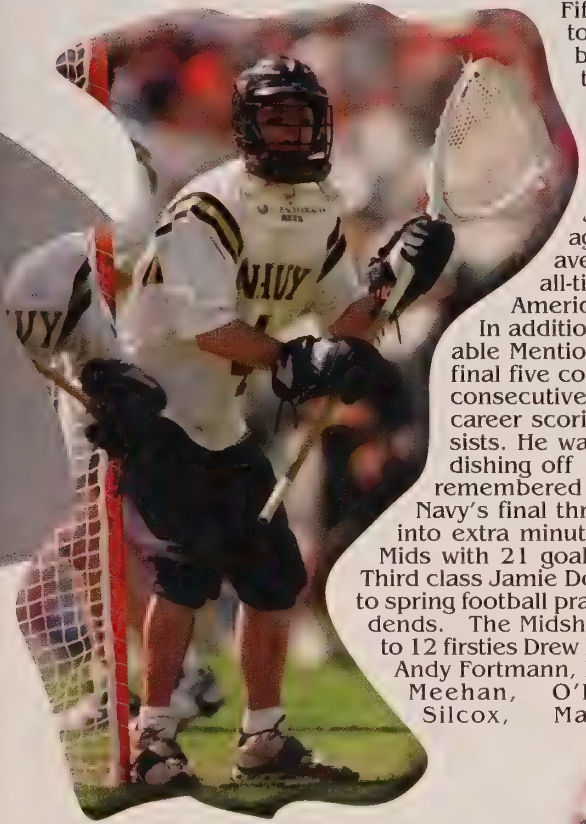
Lacrosse



Fifth-year head coach Richie Meade led the Navy lacrosse team to an unforgettable season At 7-7, Navy's season was highlighted by wins over North Carolina, Georgetown and Army and a return trip to the NCAA Tournament. A 12-11 sudden death overtime win over No. 7 Georgetown provided the path to Navy's first NCAA Tournament berth since the 1994 season. As a team, the Mids fared well, but as individuals, there were several outstanding performances throughout the season. Nobody will forget the play of 2/C goalkeeper Mickey Jarboe. Jarboe led the nation for nearly two months in save percentage, finishing the year ranked second, while his 8.57 goals against average was the NCAA's 11th-best mark. He also became Navy's all-time career saves leader. Jarboe was named First-Team All-America and earned the Kelly Award as the nation's top goaltender. In addition to Jarboe, 2/C defenseman Chad Donnelly garnered Honorable Mention All-America accolades despite playing with an injury in the final five contests of the season. Leading the way in scoring for the third-consecutive year was 1/C Jamie O'Leary. Ranked 14th on Navy's all-time career scoring list, O'Leary finished his career with 79 goals and 38 assists. He was the lone Midshipmen to post double-digit assists in 1999, dishing off 14 passes leading to scores. Third class Adam Borcz will be remembered for his heroics in the eorgetown win. The midfielder scored Navy's final three goals, including the scores that tied the game and sent it into extra minutes and the game winner. Team captain J.L. Reppert led the Mids with 21 goals and was the team's second-leading scorer with 27 oints. Third class Jamie Doffermyre missed 12 of the 14 games of the season due to spring football practice, but his return for the Army game paid dividends. The Midshipmen closed their season by saying farewell to 12 firsties Drew Ball, Alex Borcz, Clint Burke, Brent Cower, Andy Fortmann, Brad Gilroy, Justin Griffin, Kevin Meehan, O'Leary, Reppert, Kimo Silcox, Matt Somerville.

From the start of the season, the Men's Navy Tennis Team set a goal: making the first Navy appearance at the NCAA Tournament. Not only did the team make it to the NCAAs, but also had the most successful year in Navy Tennis history. A season that can only be compared to the infamous '91 team. Mitch Koch, Navy's #1 singles player, attained a national ranking of 99 after having a record of 24-3 for the season. The Men's Tennis Team also captured its fourth straigth Patriot League title with a commanding win over Army in front of a standing room only crowd at the varsity tennis courts. In the first round of the NCAA tournament, the team faced fifth seeded Mississippi at their home courts in Oxford, MS. The Rebels outlasted the Midshipmen, beating them 4-1. Although Navy lost in the first round, next year the team plans on making a better showing. Three of the seven starters, the original members of the class of '99, finished their playing careers in bittersweet fashion with a first time trip to the NCAA Tournament. Next year the team plans on continuing the tradition of winning the Patriot League Tournament and also making the NCAA Tournament. TROOP

BASEBALL

After winning just seven of its first 21 games, Navy went 20-9 during the months of April and May. The Midshipmen may have shared the Patriot League regular- season title with Bucknell, but coach Bob MacDonald's club took two-of-three from the Bison May 17-18 in Lewisburg to capture the league tournament title and advance to the NCAA Tournament. However, No. 9 and eventual College World Series participant Alabama defeated Navy, 16-3, in the first round of the double-elimination NCAA Tournament May 28 in Tuscaloosa, Ala. South Alabama then sent the Midshipmen home with a 10-0 loss May 29. Despite the disappointing end to the season, the 27-22-1 Midshipmen enjoyed a terrific spring. Four players were named to the All-Patriot League team, led by 2/C pitcher Shane Groover. The Chappell Hill, Texas right-hander, who posted an 8-3 record with a 3.51 ERA, was named Pitcher of the Year for the second-straight season. Firstie shortstop Tony Mauro, who led the team in 10 offensive catagories, including batting average (.353), runs (46) and hits (65), was named to his third all-league team. MIDN 2/C first baseman Mark Zematis was named first-team all-league for the second-straight year. He hit .333 with five home runs and 46 RBIs. He enjoyed a particularly productive April, hitting .383 (23-for-60) with 11 doubles, one triple, three home runs and 22 RBIs. Finally, second-team all-league right-hander Scott Kozink left his mark on the Navy and Patriot League record books. He became the fourth pitcher in Navy history to hurl a no-hitter when he defeated Lehigh, 7-1 April 12. His 105 strikeouts as a senior set a Patriot League record and are third on Navy's single-season list, while his 224 career strikeouts top the Patriot League's all-time list. The baseball program received recognition in the classroom as well. Youngster left-hander Brad Deafenbaugh has been named to the 1999 GTE Academic All-District II Baseball Team, as selected by the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA). An oceanography major with a 3.40 GPA, Deafenbaugh was superb in his first season with the varsity. He was 7-2 with a 3.33 ERA.

MEN'S TRACK

Navy closed its very successful track season with a 13th-place finish in the 47-team IC-4A Championship in Fairfax, Va. Navy capped its cross country, indoor track and outdoor track sweep of the Cadets with a 113-89 win April 3 in Biloxi, Miss. Rather than meet in a traditional dual meet format in Annapolis, Army and Navy were joined by Air Force in the first annual Service Academy Triangular as a part of the Biloxi Tricentennial celebration. Firstie's Michael Ryan and Matt Poirier were two of the team's top performers this spring. Ryan¹s first-place finish (3:46.91) in the 1,500 meters and Poirier's first-place finish in the pole vault (16-0 3/4) fueled the midshipmen's second-place performance at the Heptagonal Championship. Ryan, who compiled a 3.43 GPA in oceanography, was also named to the 1999 GTE Academic All-District II At-Large Team, as selected by the College Sports Information Directors of America. In addition, he was awarded the Thompson Trophy Cup, which is presented to that midshipman, male or female, who has done the most during the year to promote athletics at the Naval Academy. Poirier also set a school record with a 16-10 3/4 effort at the prestigious Penn Relays, which was good enough for a second-place finish in the college division.

WOMEN'S TRACK

The Spring season brought the team Easter egg hunts, a trip to Biloxi, another win over Army, and O-Rep LT "Don't call me coach" Cox. More records fell, 2/c "Telly" Nagbe continued her trend, breaking the100m record at Biloxi, 1/c Sue Smith broke in her new javelin with a new record, the two throwing Kristy's (Yarbrough and Nistler) smashed the discus record, not once, but twice with Yarbrough claiming it in the end.2/c "Jo-mamma" Helm was always a major contributor, ruling the hurdle events, as well as contributing to the relays. The 4x400 relay could always be counted on for an exciting finish(as long as there was a mall nearby). Sue concluded her four year reign of the javelin, capturing first place finishes at both Army and Heps. 3/c Amy Baxter was undefeated in the 1500m, once again winning Heps with an exciting come from behind victory. The jumpers (aka slackers) lead by team captain Meghan Filson, always provided entertainment, both on and off the track. Motivational quotes, team spaghetti dinners, shopping trips, movies, and un-reg nail polish, all contributed as the secret weapons to the team's success. By the end of the season there seemed to be a lot of twisted steel around the track, thanks to Cox's team "bonding" experiences. MCF & JCH

Brotherhood on the Wall

...From this day to the ending of the world, We in it shall be remembered: We few, we happy few, we band of brothers, For he, today, that sheds his blood with me, Shall be my brother...

Henry V

The '98-99 Heavyweight Crew Team set out once again to lay down the Ivy League Armageddon. With strong senior leadership from team captain Will Lutat, oarsmen Ben Harrison, Dan Huber, Adam Fox, Jared Goodwin, GregGarnett, manager Dan Gorman and coxswain Derek Cedars, the Brotherhood finished the fall season with extremely close races. Using the finishes in these Head Races as motivation, the team knuckled down to a very solid offseason training performance. The wintery confinds of Hubbard Hall were the only substitution the brothers had once the temps dropped and the Severn became bone-chilling. The thought of spring racing season helped the team regain its sanity after the long days filled with the monotonous buzzing of the ergometer. The spring was full of patience and steady improvement of the crews. The ups and downs of the racing results proved to test the will and tenacity of the team. Never willing to give up the brotherhood strived on its close-knit family atmosphere and challenged all of its competitors. The spring season followed in the footsteps of the fall. Mere seconds swayed each race and producted close-heated finishes. As Coach Rick Clothier put it, "This is a team with a capital T.... They work really hard, always strive to improve and care for one another. They're just such a great group to coach." With the close of this year, the brotherhood added another proud chapter in the long history of Navy Rowing and set the foundation to continue the golden hue that grows a bit brighter each year.

Light Weight Crew

The 1998-99 season proved to be the best in recent history for the Navy Lightweight Crew team. Led by Captain Matt Bernhard and returning seniors Mehdi Akacem, Drew Hill, John "Chas" Ismay and Kevin Rusch, the team set a new standard for athletic and academic excellence. The highlight of the fall season was the Head of the Charles Regatta where the team placed eleventh overall and seventh collegiately, beating Penn, MIT, Georgetown and Team Mexico. The Plebe Fightin' Lites had an outstanding season as well, placing first and second at the Belly of the Carnegie in Princeton, NJ to finish the season as the number one-ranked frosh crew in the nation. The team went to the World Indoor Rowing Championships, where Team Captain Matt Bernhard placed 18th in the world and 10th collegiately. At the Patriot League Championships, the team won the Lightweight 8, JV Heavyweight, Freshman Heavyweight titles and the overall team title. The plebes defeated #1 Princeton and were Grand Finalists at the Eastern Sprints Regatta. The varsity squad capped off their season at Nationals, missing the Grand Finals by less than one second to Harvard and Rutgers, who went on to win the gold and silver, respectively.

Women's Crew

The Navy Women's Crew had an impressive 1998-99 season. The season marked the fourth season as a member of the Eastern Association of Women's Rowing Colleges (EAWRC). The 1998 Fall Season was the most successful in Navy Women's Crew history, with the Varsity Eight defeating rival EAWRC crews Geaorgetown, George Washington, University of Pennsylvania, and capping off the season with a 13th place overall finish, and 5th among EAWRC crews, at the Head of the Charles Regatta. The Spring Racing Season marked impressive wins by the team as well. The team travelled to Miami to train during Spring Break, and the hard work paid dividends throughout the season. The Varsity Eight finished second at the George Washington Invitational, losing to the second ranked team in the country. The outstanding finishes by all of Navy's crews won the points trophy at the Invitational. The team went on to capture the Patriot League Championship and Mid-Atlantic Championships. The Eastern Sprints Championship saw the Varsity Eight finish 11th, the 2nd Varsity Eight finish 10th, the Varsity 4 finish 9th, and the Novice Eight in 12th, and the Novice 4 took home a silver medal for second place. The team has high hopes for next year with many returning letter-winners as well as returning members fromthe Novice team.

Offshore Sailing

The Varsity Offshore Sailing Team (VOST) competes in intercollegiate big boat regattas, many of which are hosted by the Naval Academy, as well as outside competition, both locally on the Chesapeake Bay and on the Eastern seaboard in the summer. The Offshore Sailing Team's fleet consists of Navy 44s, racing boats donated to the Naval Academy and J/24s. The twelve J/24's are used to train the younger members of the Offshore Team in sailing and racing techniques before moving up to the big boats, as well as give leadership opportunities to 3/c sailors each fall.

POWERLIFTING

The Naval Academy Powerlifting Team for the 1998-1999 academis year is the defending AAU National Champion. Coached by Mike Wright and Spero Tshontikidis with Officer representative CAPT James Simpson, USN and lead by team president Harry Jackson, Navy Powerlifting easily crushed teams from West Point and Air Force on their way to the National Championship. Jackson is the reigning collegiate national champion and record holder in the 94kg Olypic division and the current world bench press champion and record holder in the 198lb junior division. Alex Leanos is probally pound for pound Navy's best lifter. Selected Best Lifter this year at Nationals Leanos is also a two time All-American. Other great lifters on the Navy powerlifting team include: Eugene Burrell, Ben Bownas, Julia Loya, Lori Bentzel, Nicole Zamora, Jason Hernandez, Gary Olivi, and Chris Forman.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

The team returned seven players and added five new players this year. 1/C Mary Westhafer and Merrit Allen were this years Co-Captains leading Navy Women's Tennis to another great year. They were joined by 2/C Jennifer Matthews, 2/C Karen Sankes, 2/C Jen Schaller, 2/C Brit Saboe who will lead the 1999-2000 campaign for Navy. Rounding out the team were youngsters Racheal Pastorin, Lauren Carey, Lauren Jacobson and plebe Mary Beth Foley. These young ladies were coached by Assistant Professor Christen Cooper, in her fourth year as Navy coach.

WOMEN'S LACROSSE

The Navy Women's Lacrosse team won another National Championship concludin another fine season. They where lead on the feild this year by Captain Virginia Plitt. Strong performances were seen from all of the players this year and Navy looks foward to another unforgetable season and National Championship next year.

MEN'S VOLLEYBALL

The Men's Club Volleyball Team enjoyed a great season of competition, following a very strong showing in the off-season. The team travelled to many high-level competitions throughout the country, includin the Michigan Tournament, Easterns Invitational, and nationals. The team effort was lead by the consistant passing and powerful hitting of 1/C Matt Desmond, 3/C Patrick O'Reilly's powerful swings, and the blocking of 3/C Brett Lawrence. The huge front presence of middles 3/C Ryan Kendall and 4/C Niemeyer, the intense play and accurate hitting by Tre Costello, and the impenetrable defense and tough serving of back row specailist 2/C Aaron Running and 3/C Jeff Mund helped lead the mids to throughout the season. Other players of note 2/C Cory Gassaway, a latecomer, 4/C Nick Guyton, an athelete of a high caliber, Dave Cresitelli a reliable setter and 4/C Jeff Desmond, a man with great potential hitting. 2/C Bohlinger was out most of the season with an injury. The team finished among the top 20 teams in the nation, however, they have already began their quest for next years championship.

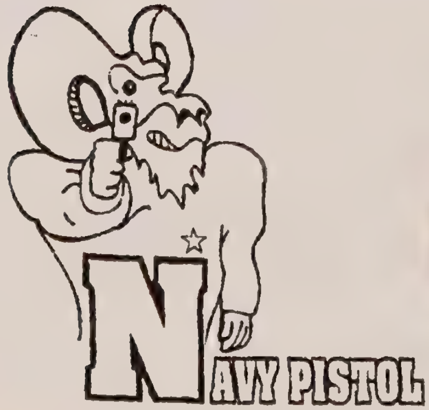
PISTOL TEAM

The USNA "Skilled Excellence" International Pistol team had quite a season in 1998-99. Senior Chief Kathy "Happy Birthday" Callahan of the Naval Academy band coached the team to another successful season, with 1/C Chris "Better-than-you" Colson captaining the squad. They were both backed up by Chief Kirk "Tubby" Kochte of 14th company fame and more frequently by the newest additions to the team, O-Rep LT Skip "Sub-Bonus" Johnson and GM1 Joe "Damn Mids" Glennon. Background support from the Naval Station armory staff was also greatly appreciated.

The team had a building year... literally!. The usual second wing Range was razed during the ongoing Bancroft hall demolition...er..remodeling, and the pistol shooters were forced to make the undesirable trek to the frosty Naval Station with cars, trucks, vans, feet, and even the ever-inconvenient USNA "We're Varsity and You're Not Anymore So There" Rifle team bus. Even practicing outdoors during the winter months did not stop the team from another great season and the team will be back better than ever next year with a state-of-the-art facility. Our "Skilled Excellence" will continue to dominate the national pistol scene even more overwhelmingly into the next millennium. EG,CC



COMBAT PISTOL TEAM

The Combat Pistol Team is a small, elite group of shooters who specialize in combative and tactical shooting. Team members have to excel in all areas including academics, shooting ability, military performance, physical fitness and then have to endure the infamous Combat Pistol Team interview. The team is instructed and trained by Navy SEALs, Marines, Navy Gunners Mates, and Law Enforcement Officials (FBI, CIA, EOD).

This year the team competed in several International Practical Shooting Confederation (IPSC) matches and dominated the SECNAV competitions at the Naval Station in the fall season. We also had a really exciting spring season going to Quantico to learn Close Quarters Combat (CQB) in Combat Town. The rest of the time was spent in the woods learning day and night land navigation. While everyone else was catching some rays and relaxing during spring break, some of our team members participated in Sniper School in Quantico. We anticipate annihilating Army at the Joint Service Competition as we have for the past three years . We had a great year putting thousand of rounds down range and look forward to doing it all over again next year.

CYCLING TEAM

HOCKEY

The 98-99 season started off in a rough way with the team having a bad first semester but second semester proved to be different. Under the leadership of SeanQuirk (aka Sport Goofy), Buster Obrien, Steve McIntosh, and all league forward/team captain Jimmy Maher, the team went on a tear during the second semester. Maher took home the top scoring prize, Buster scored the Leadership Award, McIntosh notched top defensive honors, and Quirk proved to be the sportsman of the team. The team was coached by past Navy Hockey stars Eric Fontaine, Greg McConnell, and Rob Doherty who used their experience and skill to help guide the team in the right direction. MVP honors went to junior goalie Blake Benke who anchored the team's run during the second semester. All in all the team had a good season, made a run in the playoffs, and as always had a good time throughout.

Class of '99

The Class of 1999 Organization is led by officers elected by the dwindling Class of 1999. The Organization is reponsible for helping with annual events such as Parent's Weekend and Graduation, as well as any business that comes up to the class as a whole. On behalf of the class, donations were given to Giving From the Heart of the Brigade and other charities. So far this year highlights have included both the Class of 1964 Ethics Dinner, with Gen Krulak, USMC, and Former Secretary Dalton as featured speakers, as well as the Alumni Association Class of 1949 Battalion Receptions, where the buffet, bar and camaraderie were enough to warrant attending other battalion's receptions as well one's own. With Service Assignment down and Spring Break just around the corner, everyone's eyes are on graduation (everyone's graduation!). After the hat toss, class issues, as well as the Five Year Reunion, will hopefully be handled by the following officers: Minh-tu "Deuce" Nguyen, Secretary, Jason "Maverick the Married Guy" Mendenhall, Treasurer, Olugbenro "Ben, Addy, Mr. O-Club, and more" Adeyemi, Vice President and Christopher "Buster" O'Brien, President. Fair winds and following seas to all members of the cusp of the millenium class, the small but great Class of 1999.

the 1923 Yankee's, the 96' Bulls, the East German women's swim team, Larry Moe and Curly, these distinguished teams are synonymous with words like "greatness", "excellence" and "personal Hygiene". In 1998 a new team was added to that list: the '01 class officer. These 4 statesmen won thier election with promises like, "No more academics!", "You will be better looking!", and their famous "You could do worse!" Throughout the year they showed courage the likes of which few have ever seen. One observer said,"Wow! That's courage the likes of which few have ever seen." Their "Esprit de Corps", "intestinal fortitude" and ability to digest large amounts of "Down Home Country Fins" will indelibly put them in the infinite span of Naval Academy history.

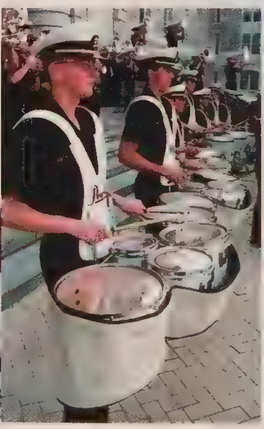
Drum & Bugle Corps

The primary mission of the USNA Midshipman Drum and Bugle Corps is to provide musical support to the evolutions of the Brigade of Midshipman. This support will primarily be of the nature traditionally associated with military drum and bugle corps. The Drum and Bugle Corps also provide support for formal military parades, formal and informal Brigade formations, and home varsity football games.



Pipes & Drums

USNA Pipes and Drums is a military pipe band composed of members of the Brigade of Midshipman that provides musical support to the evolutions of the Brigade, activities of the larger Academy community, and serves as representatives of the Brigade and recruiters for the Academy at activities off the Yard. Performances will be by the full band, portions thereof, and solo bagpipers. Lastly, the Pipes and Drums will provide interested Midshipman with musical instruction in bagpiping, highland drumming (snare, tenor and bass), and highland dancing.

RUGBY IS A GAME OF ELEGANT VIOLENCE. IT IS AN INTENSE, HARD-HITTING, FAST- PACED TEST OF STRENGTH AND SPEED WHERE AGGRESSIVENESS RULES AND PASSIVITY HAS NO PLACE. ANY PLAYER WILL TESTIFY THAT RUGBY IS THE ULTIMATE TEAM SPORT, A FACT WHICH THE INTERNATIONAL RUGBY COMMUNITY TAKES GREAT PRIDE IN CLAIMING.

THE NAVY WOMEN'S RUGBY (NWR) CLUB WAS FORMED IN THE FALL OF 1996. NOW, ONLY 3 YEARS LATER, THEY ARE THE 3RD RANKED TEAM IN THE NATION. WHILE THE FIRST COUPLE OF SEASONS MAY NOT HAVE BEEN PRETTY, THEY SUCCESSFULLY BUILT A SOLID FOUNDATION OF SKILLS AND UNDERSTANDING WHICH HAS LED THE 1998-99 TEAM TO AN OVERWHELMINGLY VICTORIOUS SEASON. THE NAVY WOMEN RUGGERS WENT 6-1 DURING THE FALL SEASON, OUTSCORING THEIR OPPONENTS BY A COMBINED SCORE OF 209-43. IN THE SPRING, THE TEAM HOPES TO QUALIFY FOR NATIONALS AGAIN BY WINNING THE MID-ATLANTIC RUGBY FOOTBALL UNION (MARFU) CHAMPIONSHIP. AT THE NATIONAL TOURNAMENT THE NAVY WOMEN WILL ENDEAVOR TO IMPROVE UPON LAST YEAR'S THIRD PLACE FINISH. WISH THEM LUCK!

Triathlon

The Naval Academy Triathlon team started out the fall season bybeating Army on her own turf. We captured the first ECA N-star of the year becauses of awesome race performances by Austin Jackson, Brian Valenza and Thomas Odonnell. The Triathletes followed this victory with a camping trip to Lancaster that ended with a party at the Stamps to see the sideshow, "Hospitalized Hoey". The team also traveled to the depths of Viriginia for a Half Ironman in a Monsoon. Before the season ended, the team beat the Cadets again. The victory was dedicated to the firstie parents in attendance.

Under the leadership of Richard Alderson and Austin Jackson, the Tri-goons hope to recapture the Service Academy Champions Cup this Spring.

The race may be in California or Florida, but the team will travel to any lengths to defeat the whoops of West Point and the Cadets of Air Force.

"Yes, as a matter of fact, this IS my daddy's shotgun..." It's been a good year for the USNA Trap and Skeet Team. We've had a strong start in practice with a lot of new faces. Sometimes you might be able to hear the shots fired if you're over at the Naval Station, with a lot of laughter and tall tales in between. Since we're also dubbed the USNA Redneck Team, we try to live up to the standards of true gentleman sportsman, and if we can have a little fun and break some birds while we're at it, then we're happy. We hope to take a strong team to Nationals this year down in San Antonio, and perhaps bring back a trophy or two and show everyone that a bunch of good ol' boys can shoot.

Radio Station (WNRV)

The purpose of the Radio Station shall be to provide a maximum of service and entertainment to the Brigade of Midshipmen and to train interested Midshipmen in the field of public information as it pertains to radio production and engineering.

Team Philo riding aboard

BSC 247 (Brigade Spirit Craft) serves to motivate and entertain the Brigade of Midshipmen and Navy fans at events throughout the year at home and abroad. Its crew varies in size from year to year, but always consists of a first class captain and a second class crew. This year's crew consisted of Captain 1/C Jake Green, XO/OPS 2/C B.J. Brown, SUPPO/Disbursing 2/C Greg Boschert, Public Affairs 2/C Erin Deeds and CHENG 3/C Trevor Wilk. Built in 1995, "Philo" as she is known, has seen numerous improvements but now displays several advanced systems. The most notable of these is the high pressure firing system with six rotating turret mounted cannons which launch confetti and candy to excited Navy fans. In addition, a high pressure air horn and tower mounted public address system help pump Navy spirit towards their opponents. This was a busy year for Philo and her crew with trips to numerous pep rallies in T-Court and Farragut, home football games, the Navy-Notre Dame game at Jack Kent Cook stadium and Army-Navy game in Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia. Having battled with "Jimmy Legs", lost alternator pullies, and the mystery brake system, Philo has survived to see another season, a season which would not have been possible without the help of ISCM James Mitchell who retired with 30 years of service at the end of the year.

Team Philo

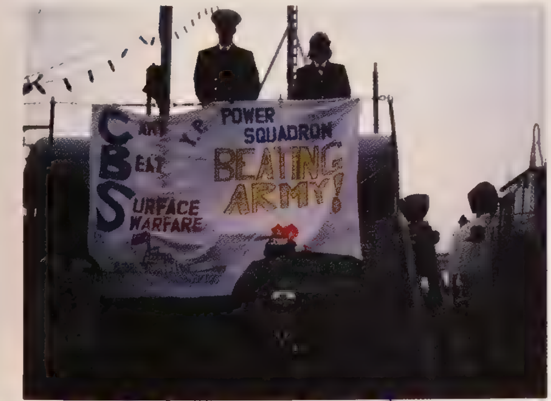
Cannoneers

With thousands of fans filling Navy-Marine Corps stadium, the Brigade marches on to the sounds of D&B. The traditions have begun. The Brigade begins to spell out N-A-V-Y, followed by "Go Navy! Fight!" BOOM! The sound of the cannon is as much a part of football games as the singing of Blue and Gold. But many midshipmen and football fans don't know who fires the cannon.

It's the job of the cannoneers. A Brigade support activity, the Cannoneers fire a Dahlgren Boat Howitzer, model 1863, at home football games and selected away games. This year, the Cannoneers were joined by twelve Marines from Quantico, VA., at the Navy-Notre Dame game at Jack Kent Cooke Stadium, and the Army-Navy game at Veterans' Stadium, to fire another howizter.

The Cannoneers fire to promote spirit and enthusiasm in the Brigade, firing for touchdowns, extra points, field goals, at the end of the quarter, and other designated times.

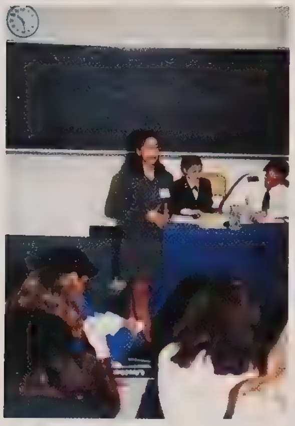
The Naval Academy's fleet of Yard Patrol Craft (YP's) are used to provide Midshipmen with hands-on training in seamanship, navigation, communications, and standard naval procedures. The Power Squadron is a Brigade Support ECA operated by the Professional Development Department. No matter what warfare community one may choose (Surface, Air, Sub, USMC)... professional mariner skills and leadership are essential for success. As a 4/c, the YP squadron complements and improves the knowledge base of naval science topics exposed in NS100, and prepares for 3/c summer YP cruise. For the 3/c, the squadron reinforces the seamanship and navigation skills acquired to date, gives an opportunity to gain more shipboard leadership experience, and prepare for summer cruise with the fleet. Midshipmen 1/c and 2/c may earn the position of Commanding Officer of one of three squadron vessels, it is the ultimate opportunity to get a first hand taste of command and to deepen maritime knowledge. In addition, a very select few qualify as a YP "Officer in Charge," a qualification which is carried through out their Navy carrier.



Yard Patrol Squadron

Model United Nations

Model United Nations is an ECA here on the Yard that allows its members to experience what it is like to represent nations on world topics. Activities begin in the Fall semester, with a competition being held for high school participants from across the country. This gives Midshipmen a chance to work with a multitude of different people, and gain a knowledge of the rules and procedures involved in college level competition. The second semester involves Midshipmen attending these college level competitions at schools in both America and Canada. Trips this year include one to McGill University in Montreal, Quebec, one to Harvard University, and the final one at the University of Virginia. The Model United Nations Club has been very successful this year and looks forward to continued success in the future.



Naval Academy Foreign Affairs Conference (NAFAC)

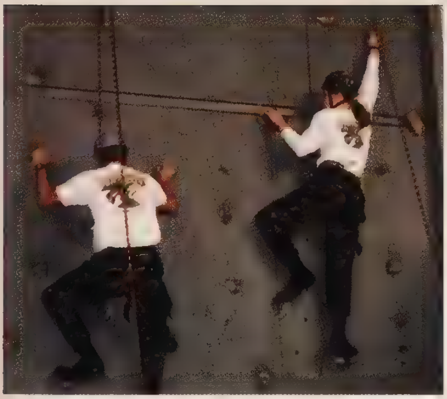
NAFAC provides an opportunity for Midshipmen to take part in discussions with delegates from nations around the world.

NAFAC

National Eagle Scout Association

NESA promotes Scouting by assisting and conducting activities with scout troops of the Boy Scouts of America, provides leadership training to members in accordance with the Boy Scout Oath and Law, and promotes the attainment of the Eagle Scout Award by members of the Boy Scouts of America.

The Campus Girl Scouts is a self-supporting service organization comprised of both men and women at the Naval Academy. The Scouts help local girl scout troops in a variety of activities, to include earning badges, community encampments, career days, and "Scout Day at Navy Football." These Midshipmen give their time to give tours to scout troops, primarily from central Maryland, in order to instill a positive impression of the Academy and the Midshipmen. They have also been active in community service and community beautification projects, and will become more active in such projects in the years to come.



Campus Girl Scouts

Men's Glee Club

The United States Naval Academy Men's Glee Club is among the world's premier men's choruses, a fact proved by their performances of the past year. Led by Doctor John Barry Talley, they have performed in the Kennedy Center and on NBC's Christmas in Washington. They performed Beethoven's 9th with the Annapolis Symphony Orchestra in the Academy's Distinguished Artist Series. The highlight of the year was a European tour through Rome, Brussels, Brugge, Portsmouth, and London. While there, they performed in several places, including St. Peter's Basilica in Rome, St. Paul's Cathedral in London, and at NATO headquarters for their commemoration of the 50th anniversary of NATO.

They are a group who find joy in music and friendship and the celebration of life. As ambassadors to the world for the Naval Academy, the group presented the greatest ideals of brotherhood and quality that have become their hallmark.

The Women's Glee Club has fluctuated in numbers throughout this year. Yet, whether few or high in number, quality and spirit always remained. We put on a show for our parents in September, and sang our hearts out during finals with our traditional Christmas concert, Christmas in Washington, and Messiah. In March, the Women's Glee Club traveled south to warm the hearts of many in Key West, Tampa, and DisneyWorld.

Our repertoire ranged from Les Miserables to Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, which was sung for the opera concert in April. And we cannot forget the valiant efforts of the STOWS and other women speciality groups that provided a little extra entertainment during performances. Yet alas, our season concludes with this year's Firsties, Class of 1999, departing and making their own waves near and abroad. May our touching spirits continue to excel and represent the Naval Academy well as we pursue our endeavours keeping the fond memories of Glee Club in our hearts. Thanks to everyone who made this year so wonderful, especially Coach and LT Traum!

Women's Glee Club

National Society of Black Engineers

The objectives of the NSBE are the recruitment of Black and other ethnic minorities in engineering and science based majors, to establish a formal support group to keep those Midshipmen in those majors, to promote a better understanding of the field of engineering by Black and ethnic minority Midshipmen, and to provide a means of showcasing the Naval Academy's excellent engineering program in the minority community.

The USNA Gospel Choir continues to live up to its reputation as one of the liveliest of the Brigade Support Activities. Under the musical direction of Dr. Joyce Garrett, the keen eye of LT Darryll Howell and Gunnery Sgt Slaughter, and the midshipman leadership of 1/C QuaWanna Reddick, the choir is still flourishing from the success of the first album Down by the Riverside (April 1997). This year the Gospel Choir has a vision. Inspired by their president, they are determined to see the choir go to "a new level." Their accomplishments this year prove that they are well on their way.

The Gospel Choir boast a roster of over 60 midshipmen. Although, gospel music is of African American origin, the gospel choir is especially proud that its membership is comprised of people from a variety of different backgrounds. Everyone is welcomed to join the choir. There is a genuine family atmosphere.

The mission of the USNA Gospel Choir is to be a ministry to the Brigade as well as share the gospel in song and praise with everyone they come in contact with. The choir is truly a blessing to the United States Naval Academy. It provides a sound that is pleasing to the ear, comforting to the heart, and soothing to the soul.

Baptist Student Union

The Baptist Student Union is a Christian ECA which seeks to glorify God through praise, worship, Bible study, and fellowship. We aim to increase the individual's personal relationahip with God in their lives as midshipmen so they will continue to grow as fruitful Christians when they graduate and head for the fleet. Some of our other activities include volunteer work with other college Baptist Student Ministries as well as attending various retreats which enhance fellowship and the opportunity to make life-long Christian friends. Our goal is to help our people grow in their spiritual lives as they seek to glorify God and enjoy him!

The Catholic Midshipman Club is an integral part of the Catholic Community at USNA. Our goal is to foster spiritual growth within the Brigade by providing the opportunity for midshipmen to draw strength from each other in order to live a life dedicated to God.

We participate in a variety of activities from regular community service projects, weekly and daily prayer meetings, retreats, and guest speakers, to parish picnics, socials, and Joint Faith rallies. This semester we supported two midshipmen missionary trips to Latin America during spring break.

Our club welcomes members of all religions who are interested in learning about the Catholic Faith. We work in close conjunction with the priests on the yard so that all of our members can get the spiritual guidance and support they need. Most club members are also involved in Catholic Choir, CCD, or RCIA/ Confirmation classes. With all the Catholic activities on the yard we can't sit still!

Catholic Midshipmen Club

Fellowship of Christian Athletes

A knobby-kneed figure on a sign welcomed passers-by to the lively Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) meeting. "Amazing grace, how sweet..." Gathered in a circle were athletes from every arena at Navy. Among the teams represented by the circle of singers were fieldball, track, powerlifting, football, skiing, and lacrosse. As silence fell, 1/C Francis Bisagni led the group in scripture lesson. "I do not fight like a man beating the air. No, I beat my body and make it my slave, so that after I have preached to others, I myself will not be disqualified for the prize." (I Cor. 9:26-27)

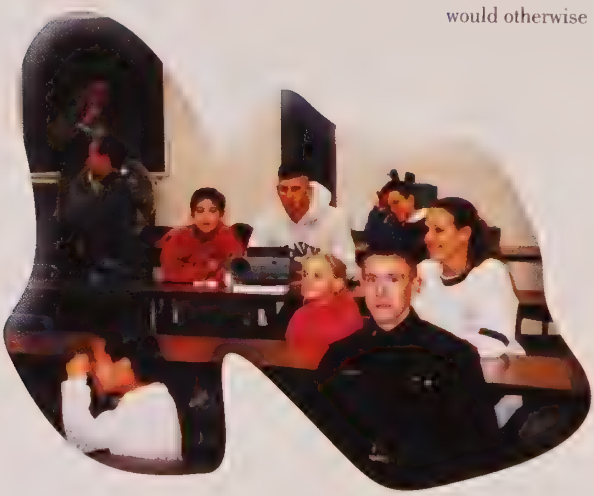
Fellowship of Christian Athletes is a national organization whose focus is growing in faith through athletics. Everyone is welcome, even if they don't play a sport. This year, FCA participated in retreats, hosted high school huddles during the Superbowl, held a Sports Night, and attended sporting events on the yard. In addition, FCA began meeting in smaller accountability groups and designated team reps. 1/C Seth Schuknecht helped lead an accountability group. His focus was on helping each individual grow in their walk with God. In his words, to "get funky for the faith." Some groups traded prayer requests, some thought on scripture passages, and some joke, but every group allowed the athletes to grow in Christ as they reached out the to brigade.

The OCF is a body of Midshipmen who share a common religious faith in Jesus Christ. The commitment of our members to the teaching of scripture includes both concern for and expression within the Naval Academy society. While this commitment is directed toward all elements of the Naval Academy society, it's emphasis is to the Brigade of Midshipmen.

Officer's Christian Fellowship

Astronomy Club

The Astronomy Club provides Midshipmen with an interest in astronomy the opportunity to interact with experts in the field and use facilities and equipment that would otherwise not be available to them.



Religious ECA might not be the best category to put Navigators into. It has little to do with religion and a lot to do with a relationship with Jesus Christ that is far from extracurricular. The Navs itself is an international organization with people stationed all around the world as well as in the U.S.--all intending to "know Christ and make Him known." They spread the good news that though no one is perfect, we can still come to The Perfect God by having Jesus, who is perfect, pay the consequences of our imperfection as we receive the benefits of His perfection. Thankfully that message is the same here at USNA. Our prayer is that all might know the joy of freedom in Christ. First semester the focus was on living Radical Lives for Christ. And second semester the direction was twofold--to delight in the Word of God, and to lovingly impact others' lives so that they too are gripped with Christ's calling. From small Bible studies, to after lunch prayer, to the battalion groups, to one on one sharing--the model is Jesus's--years of life on life in a loving, intimate,transforming, and eternal way.

Black Studies Club

The Midshipmen Black Studies Club (MBSC) was established to broaden the Brigade of Midshipmen's understanding and appreciation for the African American culture. The club hosts an array of different functions, motivational speakers, and concerts aimed at exposing the Brigade to the different aspects and contributions of African Americans.

Aside from entertainment and social events, the MBSC also sponsors mentors and tutors from within the club to assist members needing help in academics and professional development. This role, in particular, transcends the walls of the Academy as the club reaches out to area middle and high schools to serve as tutors and role models by offering help in math and science, preparation for the SAT, and advice for some of the challenges of today's youth.

In February, the MBSC coordinates the Academy's Black History Month celebration. The club sponsors lectures from prominent black civilian and military leaders, historical movies, informational flyers, choir concerts, and the annual Black History Month Banquet. The club plans to continue its tradition of excellence, helping provide the fleet with more culturally educated, aware, and diverse Navy-Marine Corps officers.

This year, LASC picked up where it left off last year. It had a very successful year completing nearly all of the goals the club officers set for it. Once again, the club had a record membership with many enthusiastic members. What made this club so unique was its diversity. Members were not all from Hispanic descent nor spoke Spanish but they all shared an interest in Latin culture. Nearly 1/3 of the club members came from non-Hispanic backgrounds. LASC helped celebrate National Hispanic Heritage Month, which ran from September 15 to October 15. The club created a display recognizing foreign-born Hispanic recipients of the Congressional Medal of Honor. These men gave up their lives defending a country far from their native land. The display was available for viewing throughout the month. LASC also participated in the celebration of La Virgen de Guadalupe at St. Mary's church out in town. It also held a club tailgater for the Navy vs. SMU football game

LASC also continued to participate in community service activities. The biggest one was the tutoring and mentorship program. Members of the club would go once a week to a low-income housing project out in Annapolis and act as tutors and role models for many young children which turned out to be a very rewarding experience for all those involved. LASC also continued hosting several fund raisers including car washes, Halloween gram sales, and club T-shirts. LASC attended several Hispanic leadership conferences at colleges such as MIT, Cornell, Vassar, and Wellesley college. The club also attended the annual ANSO conference in San Diego, CA. In all, the club was a huge success this year, and it has continued to paved the way into the new millennium.

Latin American Club

Dolphin Club

The Dolphin Club's task is to increase the interest of submarines among members of the Brigade. In doing this, they invite a variety of submarine related personnel to speak at the Academy. This year we had members of the Virginia Class (NSSN) production team and personnel of the NR-1 deep submersible. The Dolphins Club also assists with submarines that visit the yard. They escort crew members to King Hall for meals, go out to the subs for pizza and movies, and interact at receptions held at the Sailing Center. The staff for the '99-'00 year will continue to provide opportunities for the Brigade to learn more about the Submarine Community.

The 1998-1999 season for our Semper Fidelis Society has been overwhelmingly successful and productive. A considerable amount of changes have been made to the rules for membership, the quality of MO's, and the number of the Society social events.

Initially, the membership for Semper Fi was lower than we had anticipated. However, the amount of involvement that the members showed to all events, classes, and training was unprecedented. From the morning PT events to the all out FEX, participation drastically improved over the past year.

Ultimately, the mission of the Semper Fidelis Society was successfully brought home to the Brigade. Our social events allowed the Society to come together. The first season of the Semper Quarterly Newsletter reminded everyone of events and involvement. And the climax of our final Quantico FEX drove the Society to a new level. All of these things were designed and executed by Midshipmen. The Semper Fi Staff organized the training, and society volunteers stepped up to organize events. This is our Marine Corps Society, designed for and run by us. As a result, the Brigade as a whole has been positively impacted by our presence and our motivation.

To all our members—Semper Fi.

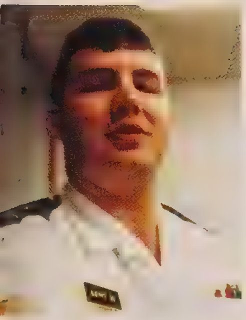
Log

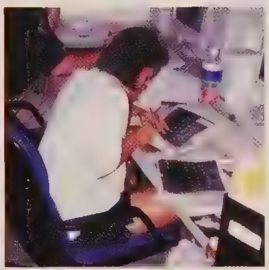
Have you ever heard of "PlayMID"? It's what killed the ECA known as "the LOG magazine" several years ago. Then, Brian Stites '96 made a heroic effort to resurrect the century old publication. He failed. Then Sky Road Web '97 made another heroic attempt. He succeeded. Because of their tireless effort to restore what some alumni call a glorious tradition (and what the administration call a cancer on the institution), the LOG has delivered the brigade what it has called out for! No, not the pay raise. The higher ups actually DID that. No, not hot water in 4th wing. No, not civies for the youngsters. No, not a real plebe summer. Was there a point to what I was saying? Oh, yeah! The brigade called out for a publication they could truly call their own! (Well, I thought I heard one guy back there call out for it...)

Now there is a magazine that makes fun of the issues you care about, the officers you care a little less about, and the asinine policies you want to see obliterated from MIDREGS! That's what we are here for. We brought you CAPT Bearing, USN, 10,000 words, Fun with IDS, CAPT Evil, Company Cuties, guides to being a Youngster, surviving Battalion Sick Call, and Salutes around the Yard, and who could forget Salty Sam? Sure, you paid for it, but what choice did you have?

Bottom line: Justin Anderson '98 gave you money back at the end of the year. Now we're broke.

THE LOG MAGAZINE- Sanctioned Cynicism





The Lucky Bag staff exists to provide every midshipmen with a quality yearbook that will keep their memories strong and vivid throughout their life. The staff is dedicated to tailoring the Lucky Bag's contents and design with cooperation from the Brigade. The hard work of each staff member contributes to bringing the book to new and improved levels. May this book contain every activity and topic to fulfill your hearts and provide a priceless souvenir... or they make a great door stop.

Lucky Bag

Amatuer Radio

The Amateur Radio Club provides for those interested Midshipmen, officer, and faculty the facilities and guidance to increase their knowledge in the field of radio and electronics, to operate and maintain an amateur radio station for the Brigade of Midshipmen as a means to contact relatives at great distances around the world, to cooperate with amateur radio organizations in handling routine and emergency messages and to help implement the "People to People" program by contacts with foreign operators.

Labyrinth

The Trapper

Snow falls, blanketing
the ground and crunching
[illegible]
He watches it and notices
the mountains, the trees, the quietness
His rifle, his companion, in hand, he thinks about the task ahead.
We call him a mountain man but he is not rugged his soul is tested by his very livelihood his success saddens him
yet, he knows that everything has a price.
No man has been this far west.
He has been forced to travel
because they are fewer now, nearly trapped out. But his art is old as these mountains, and it has always been cruel not everything can be as pure as Snow.

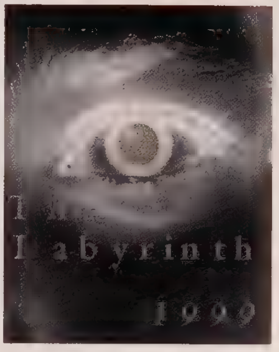
Tyler Richard Tonnille, '02

The Labyrinth is the literary magazine of the Brigade of Midshipmen. It features stories, poems, and other works of midshipmen, including various types of artwork.

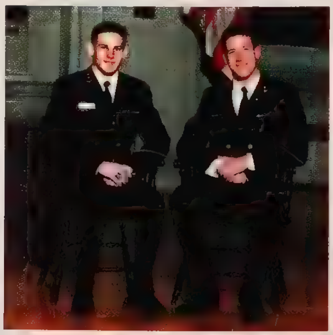


Reef Points

This year, the Reef Points staff has been working especially hard to make the first major revisions to Reef Points in the last 25 years. Many new sections were added in hope to make the book more useful for a Midshipmen's four years at the Naval Academy, instead of just Plebe Summer. With the guidance of RADM Roughead, CDR Bole, LT Denton, and the members of the staff, Reef Points will be a better guide for new Plebes to understand the Academy. I hope everybody enjoys the new and updated Reef Points.

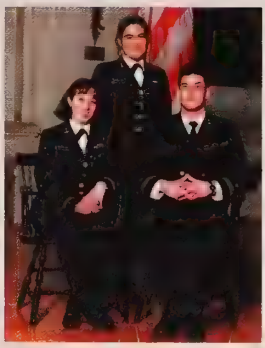
Ring & Crest

The Ring and Crest Committee is in charge of organizing a class to create and select a crest design. This design will be what distinguishes the class from any other which has graduated from the Naval Academy, and will be opposite the USNA crest on one's ring. The committee also works with a ring manufacturer chosen by the class, ensuring that the needs of the class are met and that the rings and crests are accurately and efficiently distributed



Glee Club Musical

Masqueraders



The Masqueraders provide entertainment for the Brigade of Midshipman and the local community through performances designed to stimulate interest in theater.

Trident Brass

The function of the Trident Brass is to further the enjoyment and appreciation of jazz, rock, and other forms of related stage band music. It is composed of approximately 25 midshipmen who get together and practice several times a week, or as often as their busy schedules will allow. The Trident Brass performs concerts and provides music at dances throughout the course of the year.

Golden Key

Golden Key National Honor Society is an academic honors organization founded for the purpose of recognizing and encouraging scholastic acheivement among students from all academic fields. This is a national academic honors organization dedicated to excellence. This society is a way of crediting academic and professional excellence in the Brigade of Midshipmen.

Students qualify on the basis of objective academic criteria. No more than the top 15 percent of the second and first class midshipmen may be eligible for participation in Golden Key.

ANS

The American Nuclear Society, USNA Chapter, was established by Midshipmen and NAOMI faculty to provide interested Midshipmen a gateway to the civilian nuclear realm. Today, the American Nuclear Society, or ANS, is composed of the following: 13,000 individuals representing 1,600 plus corporations, government agencies, and educational institutions. Nearly 1000 members live overseas in 40 assorted countries. ANS is organized into 51 student branches and approximately 115 organization members.

The main objective of ANS is to promote the continued advancement of nuclear engineering and technology which relates to atomic energy. The Society's other purposes include integrating the multitude of nuclear sciences and disciplines, encourage information sharing, and establish scholarships for future nuclear engineers. The main purpose of the Naval Academy ANS Chapter is to provide world-renown speakers to midshipmen interested in a wide range of nuclear topics, such as Chernobyl. For more detailed and comprehensive information, locate the American Nuclear society online at www.ans.org.

IEEE

IEEE is the world's leading resource for technological innovation and professional networking in the field of electrical engineering, electronics, and computing. The Naval Academy's IEEE club seeks to include interested Midshipmen in understanding the process of creating, developing, integrating, sharing, and applying knowledge about electro- and information technologies. Midshipmen involved with the club may join IEEE and receive Spectrum magazine, a monthly journal on the latest technology in electrical and computer engineering. This past year the club has had speakers come to talk about satellites, taken trips to technology fairs, and sponsored a soldering lab. The local IEEE chapter in Annapolis supports many of the IEEE club's activities. The club is a perfect ECA for any Electrical or Systems Engineer who are interested in learning how these fields affect and change our world.

ASME

The purpose of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers organization shall be the advancement and dissemination of the theory and practice of Mechanical Engineering, the presentation of proper perspective of engineering work and the opportunity to become acquainted with the personnel and activities of the Society as well as to promote a professional consciousness and fellowship.

SAME

The Society of American Military Engineers (SAME) consists of over 25,000 mean and women, veterans and professionals alike, who serve in a variety of engineering disciplines in private business and government. Over 200 chapters (called Posts)exist in cities, universities, and military installations. The Naval Academy is a sub-chapter of the Baltimore Post.

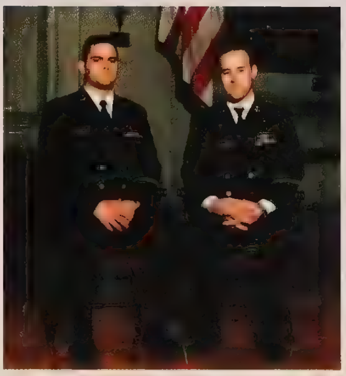
Member's benefits include a monthly newsletter, "The Military Engineer", as well as a newsletter from the Baltimore Post. SAME members from USNA have the opportunity to attend dinner meetings in Baltimore, as well as go on various field trips throughout the year.

ACM

The USNA Student Chapter of the Association for Computing Machinery is part of the oldest and largest educational and scientific computing society. The ACM serves as a forum to exchange ideas and information amongst computer professionals, students and educators.

In that same tradition our Student Chapter serves as a focal point for the interaction of midshipmen who share an interest in computers. Through-out the year we bring computer professionals and educators to share their knowledge and experience with our members with our Guest Lecture Series. We also serve as a median for friendly competition amongst programmers and annually send two teams to compete internationally in a programming competition.

Our chapter would like to enhance the overall computing experience amongst the Brigade of Midshipmen. We try to fill in the gaps where one may get lost by providing help with computer problems; be it usage, theory or even hardware.



SAE

For the Society of Automotive Engineers, this year proved a difficult milestone for the club. The club began the year with the intention of entering into two design competitions, the Formula 1 and the Mini-Baja. However, by second semester we were focused, solely, on the Formula 1 car so that we could build the best car possible. With numerous Senior design teams attacking specific aspects of the project, the car was pieced together by midspring. The competition is being held in Detroit, MI and we hope to have a strong showing with our entry.

The team reached out to community youth through the World of Motion program during Engineer's Week and later in the spring semester. The program is geared to introduce engineering concepts by demonstration and hands on learning taught by Midshipmen facilitation.

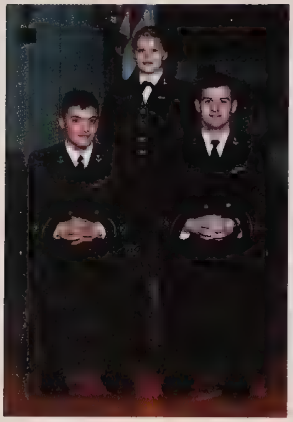
SWE

The purpose of this student section of the Society of Women Engineers is to inform young women, their parents, counselors, and the public in general of the qualifications and achievements of women engineers and the opportunities open to them, to serve as a center of information on women in engineering, and to encourage women engineers to attain high levels of educational and professional achievement.

WPA

The Naval Academy Women's Professional Association is a group that gets together once a month to listen to professional military women speak on various topics, and share their thoughts on leadership. The WPA has, in the past, been involved in such activities as the annual DACOWITS dinner in northern Virginia. The midshipmen who attended this dinner in the past were able to speak with many high-ranking members of the service, both male and female, including a guest appearance by the Princess of Jordan. This year, the WPA has hosted RADM McGann, USN, Commander, Navy Recruiting and Capt Holmes, USN, Head of the Psychology section of the LEL Dept at USNA. We look forward to hosting RADM McGann again this semester, in addtion to BGEN Wilson, CO of MCB Quantico, VA, and Capt Mariano, Director of White House Medicine.

AIAA



The objective of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics is to not only promote the interests of young people in the aeronautics and astronautics professions, but to provide an organization that focuses on the fun and excitement of space and aviation technology and science. The midshipmen of AIAA are not solely aerospace students, but do in fact come from a variety of backgrounds and are bonded by their common interests and the fascinating activities AIAA is known for.

Flying Club

From day one, the club has been engaged in the promotion of aviation within the Brigade as well as fostering an affordable flying program in conjunction with the Navy-Annapolis Flying Club.

This year's activities began with a presentation by two student naval aviators who had just completed API and Primary in Pensacola. The annual ground school class first semester and a private ground school and instrument school second semester. The year was also packed with movie-pizza nights that ranged from Top Gun to test pilot documentaries.

Its biggest achievement of the year, the development and training of a flying team that competed in the Academy's FIRST ever National Intercollegiate Flying Competition Regional SAFECON in Williamsburg, Virginia. Funded nearly entirely out of their own pockets, team members represented naval aviation with superb professionalism and style, placing third and qualifying for the national competition in Salina, Kansas, held in April! This challenge was undertaken with the hope of not only sparking interest in aviation within the Brigade, but also in the hopes that the Academy will soon prove to the nation and to Air Force Academy just who the best pilots in the world are by taking the national title!!!

SNAME

The objectives of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineering is to foster professionalism among its members, enhance professional communication with members of this section and the marine industry at large, and to encourage student participation in the technical proceedings of the local section and the national organization of SNAME.

Oceanography Club

The Oceanography Club, a student chapter of the Marine Technology Society, helps Midshipmen to understand how oceanography is important in Naval and Marine Corps fleet operations. All midshipmen, regardless of major, have the opportunity to participate in the club's activities. These activities include monthly lunchtime speakers who are experts in their respective fields and give presentations on current oceanographical issues. This year we have heard speakers discuss topics ranging from El Nino to Operation Deep Freeze in Antarctica. The club also sponsors field trips and concludes the year with its annual dining-out. All of these activities aim to provide the club's members with a clear perspective of how oceanography effects tactics, strategy, and safety in all communities of the Navy. The ocean environment will be an ever-present factor in our naval careers, and knowledge of its behavior will be invaluable in planning successful operations.

Chemistry Club

The chemistry club is staffed by President, Bill Lehner, Vice Presidet, Jeremiah Burnett, Secretary, David Heltzel, and Treasurer, the gorgeous Tonya Gardner. Faculty Rep. Prof. Joseph Lomax, and Officer Rep. CDR. David McDonald also put their heart and soul into the chemistry club.

The 1998/99 academic year was very interesting from a chem. club standpoint. The first meeting consisted of an outstanding presentation put together by some naval researchers out of Bethesda. They discussed some of their breakthroughs and improvements in diving technology, and were brought to us by our own 1/C Paz, who contributed significantly to this research. The second meeting consisted of some astonishing forensic FBI chemistry, presented to us by a real FBI forensic chemist. My advice to you is not to committ a federal crime. The lighter side of the chem. club hosted a raging tailgater... we extend an invitation to you next season. Go chem club!

French Club

The Midshipmen French Club is a support ECA whose participants are interested in French culture or in the French Language. Its members come together to practice French, or simply enjoy French-related cultural activities, art exhibitions, films, etc.

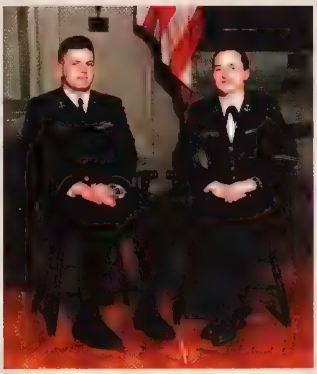
Over the years, the main event of the Club has been an annual ceremony taking place in October on St. John's College's campus, where a monument was erected in recognition of the French Sailors and Soldiers who gave their lives for the American War for Independence.

The Officer representative has traditionally been the French Naval exchange officer to USNA. We have an academic advisor from the language department who also acts as a coordinator between the French Club and the local French cultural events.

Math Club

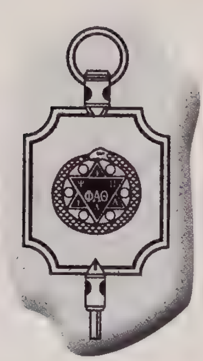
The objective of the Mathematics Club is to provide Midshipmen with opportunities to become actively involved in various programs, classes, and events which would enhance their educational development in mathematics.

German Club



The Naval Academy German Club provides Midshipmen the opportunity to further German language and culture. Its activities include organizing visits to German military installations, hosting German officers and Midshipmen, and testing for the German Troop Proficiency Badge.

ΦΑΘ



Phi Alpha Theta is a professional society whose purpose is to promote the study of history through the encouragement of research, good teaching, publication, and the exchange of learning and ideas among historians. It seeks to bring students, teachers, and writers of history together both intellectually and socially; and it encourages and assists historical research and publication by its members in a variety of ways and thereby expanding professional horizons.

ΦΚΦ

"An organization common to all major fields and academic departments rather than a limited few, Phi Kappa Phi recognizes those Midshipmen with exceptional academic achievements. PKP encourages Midshipmen of similar interests to share ideas and experiences with each other, and provides a forum for interested members to hear distinguished speakers both from the Naval Academy and from other sources."

ΠΣΑ

Pi Sigma Alpha is a national political science honor society based in Washington D.C. Its chapters are established in colleges and universities of accredited and recognized standing which offer a prescribed minimum program in political science. PSA is a prestigious organization that both encourages interaction among political science students and recognizes their achievements.

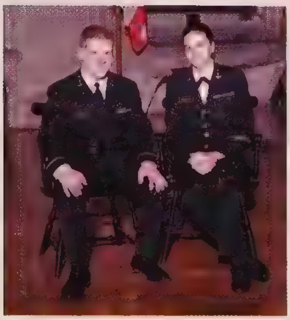
ΠΤΣ

Pi Tau Sigma is the Mechanical Engineering Honor's Society. First Class and Second Class midshipmen who are in the top 20% of mechanical engineers in their class may join the Society. Pi Tau Sigma is an active participant in the community as evidenced by their presentations in local High Schools, to their design project during second semester. In this project members of Pi Tau Sigma work with local high school students to design, construct, and enter a robot into a National competition held in Florida. Pi Tau Sigma stresses academic excellence, moral development, and a keen sense of our obligation as engineers to the commun

ΟΔΕ

The objectives of the chapter are to recognize scholastic achievement in economics, to establish closer ties between students enrolled in economics and the faculty of the department and to broaden members prospective of economic problems through contact with business, government and academic economists.

ΣΠΣ



Sigma Pi Sigma serves as a means of awarding distinction to Midshipmen having high scholarship and promise and achievement in physics, promotes Midshipmen interest in research and advanced study of this science, encourages a professional spirit and friendship among those who have displayed marked ability in physics, popularizes interest in physics at the Naval Academy, and promotes the reputation of the Naval Academy as an institution with high academic standards.

ΣΤΔ

Sigma Tau Delta (the English Honors society) exists to broaden and stimulate the critical thinking of its members by exposing them to forms of artistic expression beyond that of the printed text. Members are chosen for their academic excellence and desire to seek knowledge in and out of the classroom. Although rather obscure and unrecognized, we were quite active this year - enjoying several concerts, plays and exhibits in the D.C. area, and participating in evening discussions with our Johnny neighbors. Our teachers included Grossman, Akhmatova, Malevich, Tarkosvsky, Shoshtakovich, Dickinson, and T.S. Eliot.

ΤΒΠ

Tau Beta Pi bestows recognition on outstanding engineering students who have attained scholastic honor rating in their courses and encourages high scholarship among underclassmen by establishing an incentive for them to achieve the honors necessary for admission to Tau Beta Pi.

JMC

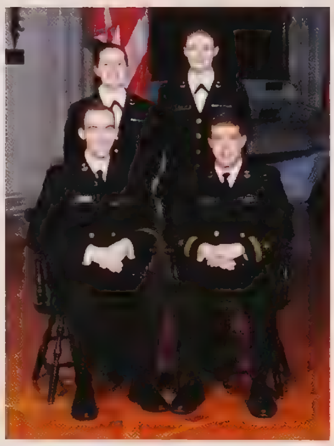
Under the counsel of pilot extraordinaire and Navy Chaplain Rabbi Elson, who relieved Volvo specialist Rabbi Panitz, and the leadership of 1/C M.K. Hays, 1/C D. Cedars and 3/C J. Dietz, the Jewish Midshipmen Club has launched on a vigorous year of activities. Whether it be the religious services every Friday night for prayer and worship, or the former long (now short) weekend with the tailgator, the club supplies the opportunity for spiritual development and social gatherings. Shabbaton weekends to the hills of Pennsylvania and movement orders to the Jewish War Veterans Museum in DC, have kept us busy this year. We have members volunteering at the Holocaust Museum and at local Sunday schools, and we help the MAG with service projects. As the club continues to grow and expand its activities, the coming years will only get better.

LDSSA

The Latter Day Saints Student Association is comprised of midshipmen who enjoy helping others to grow spiritually. At Family Home Evenings on Mondays, we went ice skating played ultimate frisbee and played other exciting games. Tuesday at 1815 is Institute, where Brother and Sister Deschamps enlighten us with their Biblical wisdom. At the "One Nation Under God" conference in Washington D.C., we had a terrific time, even though the Saturday night Halloween party turned into a bit of a fiasco! As usual, the dances were enjoyable, where Sister Deschamps even learned the Macarena! The service project at the Cannery also went extremely well. We made three trips to the beautiful temple in our nation's Capital, where we performed sacred ordinances. In February, we visited our brothers and sisters up at West Point and had a wonderful weekend of skiing and snow- boarding. All things considered, another year full of blessings.

PMC

The Mission of the Protestant Midshipmen Club is to reach out to the Brigade of Midshipmen and to provide Christian fellowship, friendship, and spiritual development. The Protestant Midshipmen Club proclaims the Lordship of Christ Jesus by inviting believers and unbelievers alike to grow spiritually and to take part in various activities. PMC seeks to offer Midshipmen the opportunity to be accepted and have positive exposure to the Christian faith.



PCAG

The Protestant Chapel Action Group, (PCAG), is an organization that was formed as a result of midshipmen wanting to give direct support to the protestant chapel community. The community, after supporting the brigade of midshipmen for several years needed help from the midshipmen with the responsibilities of the chapel. The midshipmen gladly accepted the task and began to help the community. To date, the midshipmen of this organization are responsible for the success of the chapel programs. Each Sunday we organize the ushers, color guards, readers, and acolytes for the Protestant chapel services. We are in direct support of the chapel community and in return they provide us with money for picnics, pot luck dinners, and plaques to hang in the Bancroft Hall Chapel. This is a wonderful organization to participate in, not only do you get to meet people, but you get to serve the Lord at the same time.

Catholic Chapel Choir

This year, the Catholic Chapel Choir continued to support the 0900 Sunday mass. We had a lot of fun praying and singing together. Remember Protestant-Catholic Picnic/Choir Games '98 (we are the champions!), New York, New Orleans (semper gumby!), 0815 rehearsals(ughh!), "We Are Screaming," and the Dark Ages Challenge. We had our numbers up pretty steadily this year with pizza rehearsals and choir fellowship activities. It was a great time thanks to the hard work of the officers and section leaders of the Choir, our O-rep LT Trinque, organist Monte Maxwell, our director "Doc" Talley, and Chaplains Fr. Petruska and Fr. Madej for reminding us why we are there. "May the Lord Bless You and Keep You. May He Cause His Face to Shine Upon You and be Gracious to You. May He Look With Favor Upon You and Give You Peace.

Protestant Chapel Choir

The Protestant Choir provides choral music at Protestant Chapel Services. The Protestant Choir also represents the United States Naval Academy through special choral programs away from the Academy. This past year has without a doubt been the most blessed year for the Protestant Choir whether your memory goes back two, four, or yes, even 25+ years. Under the direction of Prof. John Barry Talley, better known to the world as "Doc," we spent the labor Day Weekend lounging on the sands of Virginia Beach, and the week after Easter Break in the more exciting parts of New York City. This year also saw the first annual Northern Ireland Friendship Games where in a bitter upset, the Catholics carried the day. Thanks to a generous reduction in upperclass weekends, we had no trouble filling the Chancel..until the Plebes got weekends; but with the prospect of pizza and fellowship, these were easily led back to the fold. Thanks to all for a tremendous year, may Christ continue to bless you richly throughout 1999, and until we meet again, may God hold you in the palm of His hand.

BSAC

The function of the Brigade Social Affairs Committee is to recommend an appropriate schedule of dances, stating number, date and type. Upon approval of the schedule, the Brigade Social Affairs Committee will plan, direct and supervise these dances. Further, it is the function of the Committee to plan and coordinate all Brigade social events and specifically these: 2/c Ring Dance, Army/Navy Dance, formals, Dahlgren mixers, Plebe dances, and concerts. The Committee will work closely with BAC, WRNV, BSC, and all other ECA's to coordinate and publicize these events.

I-ball Committee

This years International Ball was held in Dahlgren Hall on April 10, 1999. The Ball is held annually to recognize and honor the Naval Academy's international students, international officers, and their wives. This year was the first time ever that the Ball was staffed completely by underclass and a second class was placed in charged. Needless to say, the Ball was a great success, with over 2500 guests in attendance.

Chinese-American

The Chinese American Club is a fun and informative way for midshipmen to learn about China and the Chinese culture. Open to all members of the brigade, the club takes part in a variety of activities to include: weekly movie nights, outings for Chinese food, trips to museums in Washington D.C., daytrips to Chinatown in New York and D.C., demonstrations and exhibits of Chinese arts, traditional clothing, and martial arts, joint eca socials, formal Celebrations of the Taiwanese New Year, and Joint Asian Conferences with schools from across the country. Additionally, steps are being taken to reinstate a trip to the Taiwanese Military Academy. The club provides anyone with an excellent opportunity to learn as much as they wish regarding China. Feel free to check out our website at: www.nadn.navy.mil/CAC/

Filipino-American

The Filipino-American Midshipman Club, or Barkada (group of friends) as they are sometimes called, is a group of midshipman celebrating camaraderie, friendship, family, but most importantly, they are a group celebrating a rich Filipino culture and heritage. The Barkada is open to everyone. Some of their goals are to involve themselves with the Academy and the community. This year, the Barkada has participated as escorts in the Annual Miss Phillippines-America Beauty Pageant in Virginia Beach. It also lent a helping hand in the Annual Halloween Dance in Maury Hall uniting with other ECA's such as the Midshipmen Black Studies Club, the Latin American Studies Club, the Korean American Midshipmen Association, and the Catholic Midshipmen Club. Of course, the Barkada is well-known for the tailgaters they throw because of the great opportunity to sample that great Filipino cooking. The club continually plans events and tries to coordinate with other colleges in the Maryland/Virginia area.

Japanese-American

The Japanese-American Club provides Midshipmen with the opportunity to sponsor distinguished speakers, artists, musicians, entertainers, and other distinguished guests who will stimulate interest and enhance the understanding of the Japanese culture.

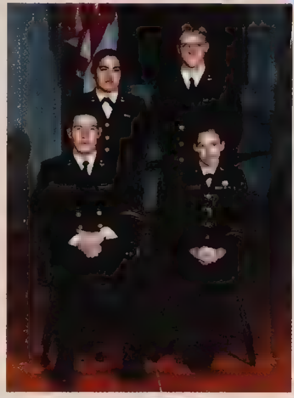
Korean-American

The Korean American Midshipman Association provided interested midshipmen a chance to experience a little bit of Korean culture. This year, we visited the Korean Embassy and participated in the East Coast Asian Student Union (ECASU) conference at Brown University as well as the Korean American Student Conference (KASCON) which is the biggest Korean student conference in the nation.

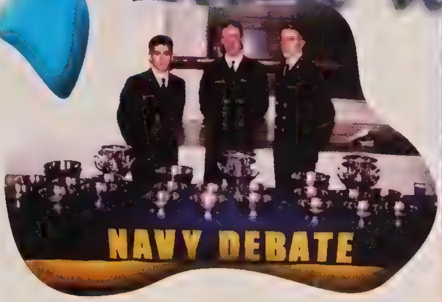
We also escorted midshipmen and their company officer from the Republic of Korea Naval Academy and interacted with the Annapolis Korean community with our guests to enhance our relationship with the community and the ROK Naval Academy. In the past couple of years, some of the club members, along with other midshipmen outside the club, visit the ROK Naval Academy during the summer leave period. They came back with amazing stories about visiting the DMZ and touring the North Korean submarine that ran aground and was captured by South Korea.

Churchill Society

We are a cultural Society that seeks to afford midshipmen, staff and faculty, the opportunity to take advantage of events of cultural interest in the greater Washington and Baltimore area. In the past we have had Movement Orders to plays, musicals, galleries and the like, usually on Sundays. Our regular biweekly meetings take place in the form of our "Classic Movie Nights," which are free and open to all. This year we were visited by a very distinguished guest speaker and poet, Mr. Keith Wilson (UNSA 50, Korean War Veteran.) Also, the Society hosts Poetry Readings out in town, which give Midshipmen a chance to demonstrate their artistic abilities. Plebes are highly encouraged to attend all of our functions, especially the annual Movement Order to the Maryland Renaissance Festival in the fall! A weekly Newsletter is distributed via e-mail containing information about the Society itself, and a listing of any other events of interest in the area.



Debate Team



The Naval Academy Debate Team enjoyed another successful season during the 1998-1999 Academic Year. An exclusively policy debate organization, Navy debates the national topic every year in the three national policy debate organizations: the Cross-Examination Debate Association (CEDA), the National Debate Tournament (NDT), and the American Debate Association (ADA). The team competes in all three divisions, Novice, Junior Varsity, and Varsity, and maintains one of the premier novice programs in the country. The topic this year was amending Title XII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The team's head coach again this year was the legendary Professor Phil Warken from the USNA History Department. Officer Representative CDR Brad Taylor, Assistant Officer Representative LCDR Steven Vincent, and coach LT Robert Kennedy also offered their wisdom, direction, and experience to the team. Much of the team's success this year was due to the leadership of team captain Midshipman 1/c Adam Johnston of 19th company, but the team looks forward to another successful season next year with the upcoming leadership of 2/c Jon Chase.

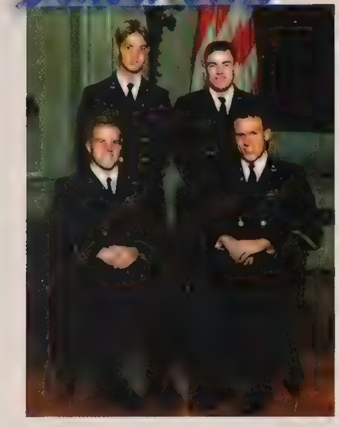
Leadership Library

The Leadership Library provides a vast array of resources at the disposal of the Brigade of Midshipmen dealing with leadership issues, Naval Academy traditions, and experiences of alumni. In addition, it will record the history of leadership challenges faced by midshipmen in Bancroft Hall so that future classes might learn from the problems and solutions of those who came before them.

MELL

MELL (Midshipman Extracurricular Language Learning) is a voluntary club that comprises midshipman instructors who teach other midshipmen in the brigade foreign languages. In the past and present, the club has offered to teach German, Spanish, Russian, Chinese, Japanese, French, Turkish, Arabic and even sign language to fellow midshipmen who are interested in learning one or two new languages. Our success is depended heavily to the midshipman instructors. Each midshipman instructor also has a mentor mainly from the US Naval Academy Language Department. If necessary, the mentor will provide teaching materials such as video tape, charts, posters and text books to midshipman instructors. So far, the program is running all year long with instructors teaching once or twice per week.

Scuba Club



The Scuba Club provides Midshipmen the opportunity to earn a civilian qualification as a scuba diver, or for those already qualified, the opportunity to receive advanced training and qualifications and apply their knowledge and skill on recreational dives. The club organizes dive trips to local dive sites and extended dive trips to tropical locals during leave periods.

USNA Dive Unit

The Dive Unit has come back from the dead. For the first time in a couple of years, USNA is sending eleven qualified midshipmen to Dive School. The Scuba Screener is one of the most challenging things a midshipman can do while at USNA and has proven to be a worthy challenge for the largest of lungs. The Dive Unit is now allowed to work with the Naval Station Dive Unit. The training dives and requalifications went smoothly. Everyone is up to date, which gives members the chance to dive in the fleet during the summer. Thanks go out to all of the cadre that made the screener possible and all of the midshipmen that make the screening process so competitive. Get wet!

The Naval Academy Ultimate Frisbee Team lives up to its nickname of the "Clandestine Revolution." A team not widely recognized by the Administration or fellow mids, Navy Ultimate is made up of a diverse group of athletes (ex-Varsity Soccer, Sailing, Track, and Crew) who love one of the fastest growing sports in the nation. Despite being turned down repeatedly for a reinstatement of its club status and its intramural exemptions, the team has survived and prospered. The team practices nightly under the lights of Farragut, and remains financially self sufficient by selling discs of its own design. Although the team was forced to take weekends to attend many of its Fall and Spring tournaments, a core of dedicated disc players led the team to Sectionals for the last three years, and Eastern Regionals in 1998. Among its many opponents in the Section are Bucknell, Lehigh, U. of Delaware,U. of Maryland, and Salisbury. In 99 the team has Nationals on its list of goals. Other goals include getting club status back, and buying team jerseys.

Ultimate Frisbee

This year the Marathon Club once again led a strong USNA contigent to the USMC Marathon in Washington D.C. Over 150 midshipmen ran the marathon. Each of them had a unique experience they will not soon forget. Just before USMC, 2/C Jim Boehmer and 2/C Blake Benke ran the Chicago Marathon in 2 hours 46 minutes. This impressive performance qualified them both for the Boston Marathon. In the USMC run 1/C Martin Ortiz placed first among the mids with a 2:52. His finish also placed 47th overall and 3rd in his age group. The Marathon Club would like to thank the Class of '99 for making the last four years a great experience. Thanks to all of you who kept running when you could not go another step.

Marathon Club

Mountaineering Club

It has been a great year for the Mountaineering Club. We started out with camping and backpacking. The annual white-water rafting trip on the Gauley River was a huge success. Mehdi Akacem, the man in charge of water sports lead multiple kayaking trips and taught many lessons on the art of the eskimo roll. Frank Weisser took the best climbers USNA has to offer up to West Point for the second annual rock climbing competition. Everyone climbed well and we look forward to hosting the competition next year. It has been a great year for snowboarding and skiiing. Dennis Doyle took charge of the trips up to the local ski areas as well as a few up to Vermont. The Ice Festival in New Hampshire was another great trip. The demo gear was appreciated and the ice was perfect. For the first time the cars held together. New Hampshire was also the destination of a few epic mountaineering trips. The sign is not lying when it says to go no further if the weather is bad. The year finished strong with backpacking trips and a lot of indoor climbing at Earth Treks. Thanks to all those that put in the work to make the MOs a reality. Cade Hines, we couldn't have done it without you. Special thanks to the hard work of Brian Donohue. Climb On

High Power Rifle Team

The Naval Academy High Power Rifle Team provides an opportunity for Midshipman of the Brigade to compete on a rifle team, and to provide a cadre of experienced shooters to coach other Midshipman during the Secretary of the Navy Competition/training in the spring. Furthermore, the team will represent the naval Academy at both local and major matches.

The Aikido Club seeks to develop the inner, moral character of Midshipmen while improving flexibility, strength, speed, stamina, alertness, and compliments the physical training and education program of the Academy. By its very nature, it develops personal confidence and serves as an excellent extension of the Academy's core self-defense requirement.

Aikido Club

Team Bill is a brigade support activity that is open to all upperclass midshipmen. The purpose of Team Bill is to care for the Naval Academy goats and to represent this great tradition of the naval Academy at sporting events, naval ceremonies, and other events in the area. Midshipmen are selected for the team at the beginning of youngster year by means of a thorough interview process and soon afterward are indoctrinated into the team. The two angora goats that currently represent the Naval Academy are a father and son duo from the farm of Field McConnell, USNA Class of '71. The father is Bill XXVIII and came to the Naval Academy in 1995. His son, Bill XXX, arrived on October 21 1998 and soon afterwards joined his father on the sidelines of Navy football games. Team Bill is a proud tradition of the U.S. Naval Academy and hopes to continue this tradition well into the 21st century.

Team Bill

Color Guard

The Naval Academy colorguard, made up of midshipman "volunteers", usually plebes, can be seen at all outdoor formations and parades at the academy.

The objective of the Midshipmen Action Group is to provide Midshipmen with the opportunity to participate in suitable short-term volunteer activities in the civilian community.

MAG

Silent Drill Team

The Silent Drill Team is the Naval Academy's youngest Brigade Support Activity, established in September of 1990. The Jolly Rogers' missions include performing at various Naval Academy sporting events and official ceremonies. They compete at invitational drill meets around the nation and represent the Naval Academy and the United States Navy in a wide variety of public appearances, to include local dress parades, and other special performances as dictated by the Commandant of Midshipmen.

The Surface Action Group provides the Brigade with a path to better one's understanding and experiences with the Surface Warfare community. From touring ships which visit the Yard to hosting ship wardrooms in King Hall, the Surface Action Group allows those midhsipmen with interest in Surface Warfare to gain valuable knowledge which may be used to further a career in Surface Warfare.

To Daniel Francis Ahr
On the occasion of your Commissioning!

Twenty Springs ago you walked these grounds,
Now you walk them to the sounds
Of drum and bugle, one last day.
You march, not stroll these lawns in May.

You'll step off proudly, anxiously,
Company by Company.
Down the walks where
Plebes must walk square.

Past the monuments
Rich with sentiment.
First the Indian,
Then the "Mexican"

Which you climbed on
Before Herndon.
Reminisce, then,
Before you miss them.

To the stadium,
Then the podium.
Where they congratulate
You as you graduate.

You'll get three cheers, and then, in kind,
Three more for those you leave behind.
Then, like a postcard photograph,
Hats in the air, your epitaph.

Nine hundred hats, their shadows fall
Over memories, both great and small.
Lessons, through work you learned,
Respect, with sweat you've earned.

Friendships that will last beyond
Today, with sacred, Blue-Gold bond.
Neither time nor distance fades away
"Four years together by the Bay."

We love you and are very proud of you
Mom, Dad, and Megan

"Behind every success is ambition. Behind every ambition is effort. Behind every effort is someone who is willing to try." You have tried many things and tackled each task with effort and ambition. You have a lot to be proud of and we are thrilled to share your pride with you!

Love, Mom, Dorian, Dayle and Dani

Congratulations, Cameron, on another highlight and milestone in your life. It is a time to reflect on where you have been and on where you are going. We fondly remember the little three-year-old who already enjoyed diving underwater in our swimming pool; the junior cowboy who loved his hat and boots; the Halloween we celebrated with Daddy's carved pumpkin when you were Dracula and Chelsea was Batman; our puppy, Bumper; your being among the elite high school seniors who got to mingle with luminaries such as Robin Williams and George Lucas at the American Academy of Achievement. We also recall your fun-filled times in high school, receiving honors for your scholarship, sportsmanship and leadership. We are still amazed that you could go to three senior proms! We cherish the day that you and your best childhood friend, Ryan, were confirmed as believers in Jesus Christ. We appreciate the fact that your thrills and excitements were not tarnished by any substance abuse or violence. Now you are graduating from the United States Naval Academy which testifies to your dedication, patriotism, physical and mental prowess and sense of responsibility. We are indeed proud of you! From birth we have prayed that God would grant you the blessings of wisdom and health which are embodied in your Chinese name. We will continue to do so as you set forth into your career. Stay grounded in your faith and remember to give thanks to God in all things. We love you and God speed.

Your most ardent supporters and loving family,
Mom, Dad and Chelsea

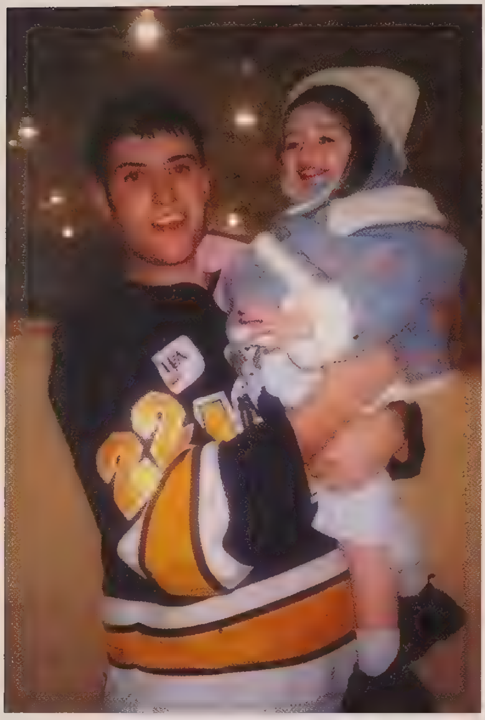
Congratulations for a job well done. Our best for your life as a Marine Officer.

Love,
Dad, Mother, and Your Family



Your hard work has brought you to this point, Graduation & Commissiong. Now you will develop and refine your skills, and use them for the good of the Navy, and of those in your charge. Pensacola and life beyond will present you with many new challenges, and you are well prepared for them. Remember always, Honor is being able to say, “I stood where the Lord put me.”

We are all very proud of you and wish you fair winds, and following seas, for the journey that lies before you.

Love always- Mom & Dad, Kristin, John, Elle & Grace, Casey & Jerry, Kara & Boze

From those who dropped you off,
& those who gave you a place to go,

Chip, we want you to know how proud we are of you, the man you've become, the decisions you've made. We are also very happy for you; life now holds endless opportunities. We hope you cherish every day and realize how truly blest you are. God has been so very good to you. You are healthy, intelligent and so loved by your entire family. We can all learn a great deal from you, most notably, life is the journey not the destination!

Wherever you go, wherever you are, our love is with you and you are always in our hearts.

Mom and Dad

Chip, you have filled our life with interesting days. We know it was not easy growing up between 2 sisters... especially us. One is the wonderful older sister and the other the perfect princess! But now we are grown and we couldn't be more proud. As you start out on the next part of your journey remember that you always have us... the 2 that have been there from the beginning and as we hope you know, the 2 best friends you'll ever have. We love you and hope the best for you today and every day of the rest of your life.

Love, Michele and Julie

The Gift of Dreams

If you can imagine, you can achieve.
If you just begin, you can continue.
Search within and you'll find a reason to believe.

If you get involved, you can make it happen.
If you climb, you can climb even higher.
Look ahead... your success is in the making.

If you don't put limits on yourself,
If you always keep striving,
You can go as far as your dreams can take you!

Mom '99

From construx to differentials, from fingerpainting to acrylic enamels, I've watched you grow from the tinkerer in the backyard to the mechanical engineer. You've come a long way in the last 22 years.

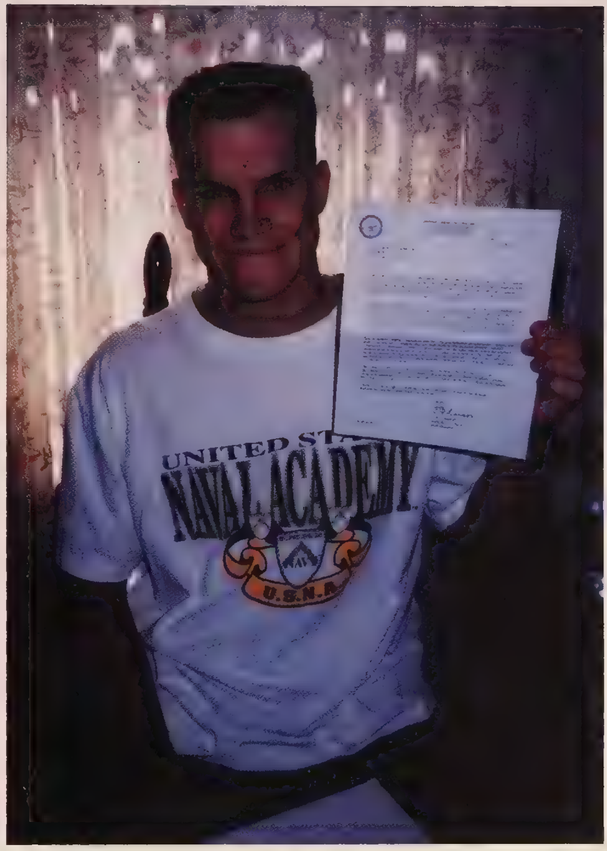
My son, I am so very proud of you and all of your accomplishments these past 4 years. Ever since you were a little child you wantedto attend the Naval Academy. You felt that it would be a challenge, that you could persevere – and you did! Your dream came true because you took time to think about what you wanted in life. You got to know yourself. You chose your goals carefully and were honest with yourself. You have had many interestes and pursued them. You found out what was important to you and what you were good at. You worked hard to achieve successes. You always acted in an ethical way. You formed relationships with people you respected and treated others as you wanted them to treat you. You're honest with people and accaept and speak the truth. You are appreciative of all that you have and help those less fortunate than you. You try to make other lives happy and want to work towards peace in the world. You are an important part of everyone's life that you touch. My son, live your life to the fullest. I hope your future dreams will come true and I hope that all your dreams become a reality. May every dream in your heart come true for you. I love you very much - Your Mom.



God is the potter, you are the clay.
You don't become beautiful and strong

Desmond Emil Morgan, my son in whom I am well pleased, you have made our household proud. You have truly lived according to your name, our dreams, and your desires. Your accomplishments are in line with those we forecast. Look back and see how far you have come from your role as leader in your earliest sport days to this time of commissioning when you will have command of some of the few, the proud, the Marines. We thank God for guiding and protecting you. Remember to look to the hills from whence cometh your help. All your help comes from the Lord.

We love you. Dad, Mom, Astrid, Dianthe, Adriel, Ashriel, and Deontrae

ROBERT ANDREW KIRBY

In the great year of '77 a large bundle was sent to us from heaven.
He was quite lazy in school and in sports he played like a fool.
One day he woke up and started to grow,
He used his mind and became a handsome beau.
As a senior he was elected president of all,
And was great at the game of football.
Because of his talents and high SAT,
The Navy gave him a call for the sea.
Being a plebe was a really hard first year,
But it got better as graduation got near.
Now he's achieved the class of Ensign,
And graduated as an engineer of systems.
We are proud of our Andy sent from heaven above,
And wish him the best and all of our love.

At the age of eleven you built and flew a radio-controlled plane. Now you have become a Mechanical Engineer and willbe joining the proud Naval Aviators. You have always made us proud. We are thankful that you are our son. May you succeed in everything you do (Ps. 1, Pr. 3, Jer. 29:11).

God bless you, Mom and Dad

For Navy pilot, Ensign James Schroeder,

Thank you for continuing to enrich our lives with your exceptional personality... the one that has exceeded our every wish and prayer for your success; the one that has chosen wisely in areas of friends, educational goals and life priorities; the one that has developed into a responsible and dedicated leader people can look to for answers, and with respect. To have accomplished so much so quickly, all while maintaining your perspective and delightful sense of humor... it overwhelms us.

We are fortunate to have been along for the joyful ride so far, and eagerly anticipate seeing what's just around the next corner and over that distant hill. Drive carefully. (And wear your seat belt.)

Our heartfelt congratulations! With love, Mom and Dad

To: Midn Richard Jason Alderson

We are so proud of the fine young man you have become. You will be an outstanding SEAL and a great officer.

We love you!

Mom, Dad, Anna, Chris, Stacy & Ethan

Ryan,

It's hard to believe it's almost over. Our pride in you cannot be measured. You have not only made it through, but have distinguished yourself as a Company Commander, student and athlete. You are the pride of Steelton, PA. You have brought honor to yourself, our school and our community. As you venture from the Academy to be an officer we know you will do what you have always done: "Be the best that you can be!" We have always known the you would be someone special and you are in everyway. Thanks for the memories! Thanks for the friendship! Thanks for the love!

Love forever,
Dad, Mom, & Pook

David,

Get back on the horse when it bucks you off. Eat green. Change the oil in your truck. Save a crack for the pudding. "Have fun storming the castle!"

We are very proud of you!

Love,
Mom, Dad and Ilan

Manny,

We are so very BLESSED and PROUD to be your parents. When we look back over the last five years, we know that you have endured, persevered and achieved. Remember to keep God in your life and He will provide you with strength, wisdom and peace. Continue to strive; you have a great future ahead of you.

Love, Mom and Dad

If your time wasn't so valuable, you wouldn't have asked us for a simpler way of doing business.

Whose idea was it to consolidate Time,® Hamilton Hallmark® and Penstock® into a single, streamlined distribution force?

Yours.

That's right. During an extensive, four-month evaluation, we approached 1200 of you, our customers, to discover how we could serve you even better than before.

You thanked us for asking, and told us that when you called to order your components, you only had time to do it once.

You wanted to dial one number for everything. For semiconductors radio frequency and microwave products. For interconnects, passives, electromechanical components and OEM systems products. For all of the value-added services and resources you could possibly need.

You wanted a single Account Manager to act as your advocate. With the authority to do whatever it takes to meet your needs, solve your problems and be solely accountable for the relationship.

You wanted our Sales Reps to focus on commodities, work in close geographic proximity to your company and be available when you need them to be—morning to night.

That's what you wanted. With the new Avnet Electronics Marketing, that's just what you've got. And then some. Call us at 800-272-2724 or visit www.em.avnet.com for the full story.

LPD 17 (SAN ANTONIO)

The proud commitment of the men and women who graduate from the U. S. Naval Academy. These ideals serve them well as they embark on careers as leaders of our Navy at sea. And it's fitting that the finest Naval officers in the world serve on the world's finest ships.

Avondale provides these ships to the Navy.

We've done it for over 60 years. Avondale is presently designing the LPD 17 and in recent years delivered nine LSD ships and four MHC ships to the Navy. We know the challenges facing an officer at sea. That's why Avondale depends on fleet input to design the most reliable ships for the most unpredictable circumstances.

U.S. Navy and Marine Corps Amphibious Ready Groups rely on big-deck amphibious assault ships to project the strength of our nation around the world. As the centerpiece of a forward-deployed ARG, Ingalls-built LHDs are critical, dominant elements of our nation's global military strategy – from power projection and armed conflict response to rescue and humanitarian relief operations.

No other class of amphibious ships projects the worldwide multimission versatility and capability of the fleet-proven LHDs. Ingalls-built LHDs. The heart of an ARG. The strength of a nation at sea.

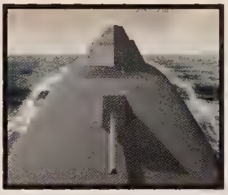
The 155-mm Advanced Gun System: On Target for DD 21 Land Attack

The Advanced Gun System (AGS) for the Navy's DD 21 land-attack destroyer. It is integral to providing accurate, long-range, and sustained firepower in support of maneuver forces ashore.

At United Defense, AGS development for DD 21 is on target - - to deliver ordnance with extended range and improved responsiveness, accuracy, volume and lethality against a broad spectrum of targets.

Drawing from a high-volume, fully automated magazine, the AGS for DD 21 will deliver sustained fires of precision-guided and ballistic 155-mm munitions. Range of up to 100NM will far exceed that of today's shipboard guns. With robust components and very low RCS and IR signatures, AGS will perform to demanding DD 21 requirements for survivability and stealth.



AGS is being developed by a United Defense Team of premier designers and producers of major caliber guns, ammunition, and weapon handling systems. Combining the latest in simulation, modeling, and virtual prototyping tools and techniques with unparalleled experience and expertise, the team is ensuring that DD 21 receives the most advanced, highest quality, and highest performance AGS possible.

The 155-mm Advanced Gun System. On target for DD 21, and Navy land attack in the next century.

Congratulations To The Class Of 1999

From the United States Naval Academy
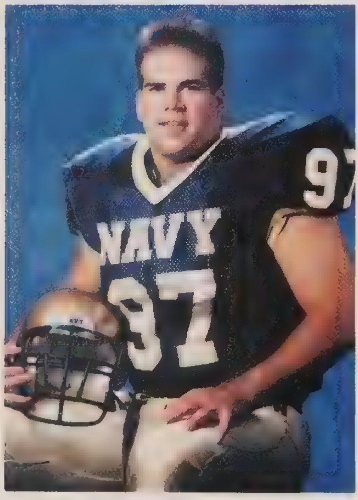
Lucky Bag Staff

From boy to man...
yes you can!
The little engine
that could!!

Congratulations,
Your family



Congratulations, Jason!

We are so proud of you. You set your goals high and accomplished all of them. Your hard work and dedication has taken you far. May God continue to bless you. Keep the faith.

We love you,
Mom and Dad

GO NAVY, BEAT ARMY!!

The Lucky Bag Staff would like to thank all of the Parents, family, and friends of the Class of 1999 for their continued support.
Without you and your contributions none of this would be possible.

In Memory of

Steven L. Douglas

Class of 2002

Colophon

The 1999 Lucky Bag, Volume 106, is the second completely digitally produced yearbook for the Naval Academy. It was printed by Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, TX, and our Taylor representative was Joe Wenzl.

The 1999 Lucky Bag contains 912 full color pages and had a press run of 4500 copies and sold for $60.

Photography: All formal potraits were taken and digitally reproduced by the DaVor Photography in Philadelphia, PA. Our representative was Jim Rainey. Our formal photographers were Bryant Vaders, Vince Criniti Jr., and Mike Engleman. Jim and Mike also took many candids for us. The Lucky Bag photographers and members of the brigade contributed the rest of the photographs. Our photographers used Kodak and Fuji film at 100, 200, 400, 800, 1000, and 1600 speeds. Lucky Bag photographers used a Nikon N90, two Nikon N70s, and two Canon EOS Elan II cameras; Nikkor 35-70mm, Nikkor 80-200mm, Sigma 14mm, Sigma 18-35mm, Sigma 70-210mm, Tamron 28-80mm, Tamron 70-300mm lenses; Nikon Speedlight SB-28 and Canon Speedlite 380EX flashes.

Photo Reproduction: All of our pictures from the Brigade were scanned in using UMAX Powerlook II flatbed scanner. All photographs developed by DaVor were scanned in at their plant and delivered to us on CD-ROM. We used Adobe Photoshop 5.0, Adobe Illustrator 7.0.1 and Abode pagemaker 6.5 to crop, adjust, and place our pictures at 300 dpi.

Computer Equipment: A variety of computers were used. The Lucky Bag staff started the year with four Dell Dimension XPS R400 with 128 MB of RAM, a Gateway E-3100 with 128 MB of RAM, and a 200 MHz Dual Intel Pentium Pro with 256 MB of RAM. In the spring a Dell Precision WorkStation 610 with Dual 450 MHz Xenon Pentium processors and 384 MB of RAM was added to the office. Three 21" monitors and four 17" monitors provide viewing outputs from the computers. The computers are all connected to a 100 Mbytes/sec network using a 3Com eight port hub and a 10 Mbytes/sec switch. We have four Zip drives, one Jaz drive, a Yamaha 4x CD-R, a Pinnacle Micro 4x CD-R, and two UMAX PowerLook II scnners. For retouching photographs we used the Cross iPen. Our tape backup is an APS Sony Hyperdat drive. Our networking opertaing system is Windows NT 4.0 and Windows 98.

Typography: Every editor was free to choose from a list of over 250 TrueType and Adobe fonts.

Printing: Taylor printed all 912 pages on their premium 80lb paper at 155 lpi.

Advertisements: All advertisements for the Lucky Bag were obtained by Patrick Stansbury of Pentagon Publishing, Inc. in Atlanta, GA.

A Thank You goes out to the Brigade for their cooperation in helping the staff complete its task, especially to J. Bautista, P. Balderson, and these members of '02: A. Chiappetta, C. Knopp, M. Burkovich, D. Colberg, J. Henderson, R. Glasgow, K. Anderson, I. Knowles, R. Checca, R. Gordon, T. Boyd, J. Fishburn, J. Campbell, S. Foley, M. Elger, M. Garcia, B. Cremins, T. Achimasi, J. Gaddy, M. Giambusso, N. Jones, J. Garza, R. Pass, R. Lee, S. Swantner, T. Delaney, J. Gandy.

Special Thanks: Special thanks goes to CAPT Sweeney, CAPT Wode, Joe Wenzl, Jim Rainey, Rob O'Connor, Laurie Wells, Chet Zeller, Millie Pierce, Jan Costenbader, Mark Costenbader, Patrick Stansbury, Julie Jordan, Robert Porter, Linda Tailford, Sinead Magorrian, Mike Engleman, Vince Criniti, Bryant Vaders, Betty Lockhart, Teri Rishell, Rick Green, and the rest of the folks in the Express Office. THANK YOU!!!

I can hardly believe this moment has arrived. The book is finished. Who would have thought that a random Second Class could join the Lucky Bag staff and end up the Editor-in-Chief, especially when he ended up taking Western Civ 1 four times??? Not me. But here I am typing my last words in the largest all color yearbook in the U.S. and most likely the world.

For those of you who are reading this, I hope the '99 Lucky Bag has fulfilled your expectations. I admit, this isn't the complete visions of the yearbook I was hoping for, but I let the time run out. I know next year's staff will make a better yearbook .

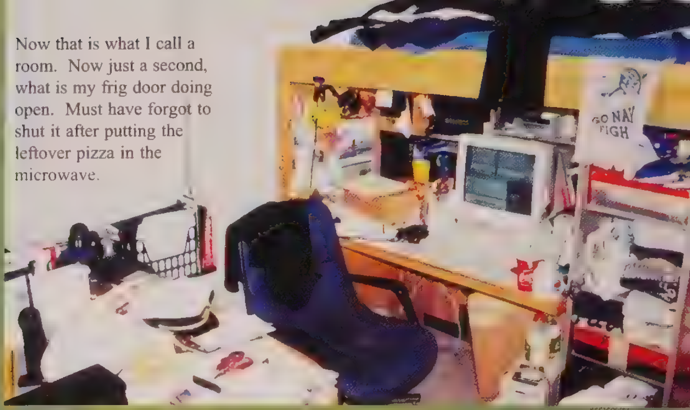
Congratulations, Classmates. I really appreciate all the cooperation that you gave to my staff and I. In my opinion, the Firstie Section is better than any other Lucky Bags have to offer, which was possible from your assistance. I wish that each of your personal sections has been arranged in an acceptable way to you. Thanks for turning in your pictures and write-ups. I know we still have a few of your pictures. For that I apologize. They have not been thrown away. Contact the staff with the addresses on the next page to get the photos back. Good luck to all you do.

'00, '01, and '02, please keep supporting the Luck Bag staff as you continue your time here at the Academy. They work countless hours providing you with a quality product. They will always conjure up ways to make the yearbook better from year to year.

Craig: Thank you very much for choosing to work on the book for the summer. You accomplished a great deal for the yearbook with the organization of pages, the patron ads, the dividers, and the index. I sure hope you didn't take any of my adjustments personally. You always work ten times harder than required. If everyone worked like you, the book would have been done way in advance. I appreciate all you have done for me. Remember to take it easy on the people that work for you, hardly any come from the same hard working background as you.

Nate: You might not have been around long to help, but you did make a difference with your contribution. Another game of Starcraft? I will see you in Charleston. And next time, you move all your stuff.

Maggie: Your dedication was outstanding. You are the master of completing 'whatever needed to be done.' I really can't thank you enough for deciding to join the team. The Brigade Section is as much yours as Karen's. I hope you enjoyed the extra days off.



Now that is what I call a room. Now just a second, what is my frig door doing open. Must have forgot to shut it after putting the leftover pizza in the microwave.

Jake: It was a pleasure working with you. Thanks for finishing up the Faculty and the Year sections. Don't worry, I won't hold the two hour lunches against you. See you at Power School.

'00 Lucky Bag Staff: I am jealous. I wish I could continue to be a part of such a great organization. Next year you will have an opportunity to make an even better book. Just remember to learn from this year's mistakes and delinquencies. I wish I could continue to be part of such a great organization. I will never forget the time I had with the Lucky Bag (even with the consequences to my grades).

Ana: I apologize for such a late decision. Thanks for the hard work on the Firstie Section. It is the only section that you will have trouble improving. You also did a great job recruiting new staff members. I know you will continue to bring in quality people. Now that you have both the Buddha and the Geisha, what are you going to collect?

Mike: I have no doubt that Ana and you will make a great book. I really liked the Year layout, but I know you have saved your best ideas for this next year. Show the new guys how the trips to Dallas needd to work.

Matt H.: I am glad that in only took two months to finish the Sports Section. It is too bad that the time wasn't split up over the year. Make the best out of your position as the Photography Editor. Your experience will help with the change-over to slides.

Joel: It was great having you as a part of the team. The computers ran smoothly because of your work. I hope the staff can find someone to replace you for the following year.

I don't recall being in King Hall [illegible] year

Spirit Jerseys...

Nice victory!

And then this one time,in Band Camp....

Matt S.: Thanks for sneaking in and getting the ECA material. I know you did not get much of the section put together, but your organization assisted the summer staff's cpmpletion of the section. I know the experience will help with the '00 book.

Trigg: It is too bad with what happened with the CD-rom. I think Summer's visions were a bit big for the start that you got. 3D Max should be on the back burner. Although with an actual staff you will have an easier time getting more done.

Jon: Good job with jumping in and working on the Year Section while you where doing your summer training. It helped the summer staff. Keep up the great work.

Joe: Sorry about those deadlines. The staff will do better this next year (although I won't sign for that). You helped out a lot with everything. Thanks for everything, especially the patience. So how much do I owe you?? P.S. Thanks for the dollar.

Jim: You saved us quite a bit. If it hadn't been for you, who knows what we would be missing. Your assistance with the parents is also very appreciated. I hope you continue to be the photo rep for the Lucky Bag for many years to come. When are you getting the Harley???

And that does it, I am out of here. Take care and HAVE FUN!!!

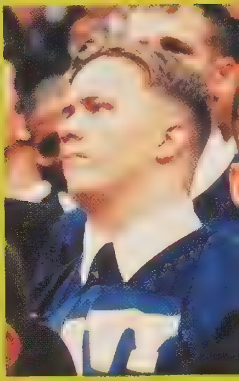
"Who would throw away a yearbook? You're supposed to charish it forever!"

"What is wrong with everybody? These are memories frozen in time, people!"

Yearbook girl
Can't Hardly Wait

Now that is what I am talking about. The game that put my mind at ease. Blizzard, thanks for making a game which kept me sane while I was in a place that drives the sanity out of a person with all its nonsense rules and regulations.

Rob, YOU the man!!!



Attention: Whoever has my Happy Gilmore tape, I have your Who Framed Roger Rabbit tape. If you want to trade back, just contact the Lucky Bag staff. Thanks.
